CROWDED POLLS IN MONTGOMERY—A Montgomery policeman watches from the street as voters jam the entrance to the Bell Street Fire Station as polling places open today in Alabama's Democratic Primary election. The polling place is located in a predominantly Negro precinct. It was the first experience of voting for many Negroes, thanks to the Civil Rights Act of 1965. (AP Wirephoto)

Alabama Primary Has Top Interest With Heavy Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Long lines at numerous polling places, including many Negroes voting for the first time, pointed to a heavy vote today in Alabama—one of six state primaries launching the preliminary balloting for the 1966 general election.

Federal poll watchers were on duty in seven Alabama counties, but the morning polling hours passed without any significant incident.

In New Mexico, extra state police were ordered into four counties to keep order and enforce election laws. Democratic factional fights had raised tension.

Florida had a surprisingly heavy early vote in the greater Miami area. Helping to get the voters out was the prospect of rain later in the day.

The other states holding primaries are Indiana, Ohio and Oklahoma.

But there is no contest elsewhere to compete for national attention with the big one in Alabama.

There, against a background of increased Negro registration, Gov. George C. Wallace, long a symbol of race segregation, hoped to get his wife named as the Democratic nominee to succeed him. He is barred from re-election by the state constitution.

Nine candidates are competing with 39-year-old Mrs. Lurleen Wallace for the nomination. One, Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, openly bid for the Negro vote and in advance of the balloting appeared to have it pretty solidly.

Mrs. Wallace is expected to lead the primary field but there were doubts she could get a majority. If no candidate gets a majority, there will be a runoff May 31.

The present eligible Negro vote is estimated at 235,000, about double that of two years ago, and roughly 20 per cent of the present electorate.

There has been increased Negro registration also in Florida but the primary campaign developed no indication there of any tendency toward bloc voting.

Gov. Haydon Burns, seeking the Democratic nomination for re-election, was in a contest with Mayor Robert King High of Miami; Scott Kelly of Lakeland, a former state senator, and Sam Foor of Tallahassee, publisher of a political newsletter. Burns was the favorite but most political analysts expected there would have to be a runoff between the two top men. It would have to be held May 24.

There are also contests over renominations of present Democratic senators in Alabama and Oklahoma. However, Sen. John J. Sparkman in Alabama and Sen. Fred R. Harris in Oklahoma were expected to have no great difficulty. Alabama Republicans will nominate candidates for governor and senator at a July convention. Oklahoma Republicans vote today on a Senate nomination.

Oklahoma also has a big field

Electric Shock Saves Mill Valley Child, 2

By STEPHEN COOK

Three Marin General Hospital doctors have been credited with saving the life of a 2-year-old Los Angeles girl last weekend by using a treatment never reported used on a child in the Bay Area before.

Christy Simons, granddaughter of Marjorie Sinka of 421 Marion Avenue, Mill Valley, was taken to the hospital Friday night with a heart beat of 280 per minute. Normal beat in a child of that age is 120 per minute.

Two pediatricians, Dr. C. R. Leininger and Dr. Paul A. Steinman, reportedly tried to reduce her heart beat with sedation, rest and other "simple measures" until early Saturday, but the girl did not respond.

The girl, who has a history of heart ailment, was transferred to the hospital's heart unit and the doctors called in Dr. Gerson Jacobs, a heart specialist.

Employing a treatment usually given only to adults, the doctors then reduced Christy's heartbeat to normal. The girl recovered so well that she flew with her mother, Bonnie Simons, to Los Angeles yesterday.

The treatment, as described by Dr. Jacobs, consisted of shooting a direct current of 2,000 volts of electricity through her heart, just as it contracted, for less than one-thousandth of a second. The voltage was repeated three times.

Dr. Jacobs said the treatment is not uncommon with adult heart patients, "But it has never been done in the Bay Area with a child, so far as I know. Children don't usually get these problems."

Dr. Jacobs said the treatment is known as "synchronized direct current electric shock treatment." He said the girl's mother informed him doctors in Los Angeles had applied the same treatment to her daughter in the past.

Dr. Jacobs reported that, though the treatment is rarely used on a child, "This is one of the safest of all treatments we

Park Bond Vote Plans Outlined

About 40 persons from cities and special districts in Marin were briefed last night on the campaign for the county's proposed $4.3 million parks bond issue, which will be voted on June 7.

In addition to an explanation of how the money would be distributed, they learned that a headquarters for the campaign has been set up at 1005 A Street, Room 211, San Rafael. Mrs. Aline McClain is in charge.

Available there, they learned, will be bumper strips urging passage of the bonds, plus copies of a fact sheet and the official argument in favor of the proposal, which also will be sent out with sample ballots.

Also accomplished at the meeting was the formation of a speaker's bureau which will provide someone to talk to any interested organization about the bond proposal. Mrs. McClain will be in charge of this, also.

Supervisors Peter H. Behr and Ernest N. Kettenhofen presided.

Senators Hit Bill On Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposition from the Democratic and Republican Senate leaders forestalled today a move to put a time limit on committee action on President Johnson's new civil rights bill.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said at the start of today's session he realized such a move would be "snowed under" and the vote would give "the bill a black eye it doesn't deserve."

He had blocked routine referral of the bill to the Senate Judiciary Committee when it was introduced last Thursday, opening the way for him to seek today to set a deadline for action.

The most controversial part of the bill would ban racial or religious discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing.

This part of the bill suffered a shattering and probably fatal blow yesterday when Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois called it "absolutely unconstitutional."

Dirksen coupled that with word that if the provision stays in he will not support any move to break a filibuster against the bill.

Dispute Told Over Mental Health Funds

By RICHARD LYTTLE

The topic was expansion of mental health programs in Marin.

The place was the Civic Center.

But that was about all one could be absolutely sure of.

There was an apparent disagreement between Dr. Clyde Miller, director of the county's mental health services, and members of the Marin Assn. for Mental Health.

"There seems to be a lack of coordination," Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said. Mrs. Herbert J. L. Baum, a member of the association said that coordination was inadequate.

Dr. Miller said the disagreement went more to philosophical differences and he did not know how these could be "coordinated away." He thought that "perhaps our philosphies have to be articulated more carefully."

They were not articulated in today's hour-long session, prompted by Dr. Miller's re-

Marin City's Center Gets Federal Cash

Nerly $238,000 in federal urban renewal funds have been approved to set up a new community center in Marin City.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown made the announcement in Sacramento yesterday. The grant represents two-thirds of the expected cost of nearly $357,000 for the center, with the rest of the money already pledged by Marin County.

Exact amounts involved are $237,737 from the grant and $118,918 from county funds.

The new facility is intended to provide job training counseling, legal aid, health and vocational services, recreation and remedial education. It will house game and meeting rooms, a library, gymnasium, handicraft shop and play area for small children.

The predominantly Negro community has been the scene of several incidents of violence in recent months, which led to meetings with county supervisors and other officials. There, Marin City resident partly blamed lack of recreation facilities for the tensions which led to these incidents.

Unmarked Burials Discussed

The action came on the heels of a report in yesterday's Independent-Journal on the lack of any markings for graves of indigents.

Richard F. Wood, a candidate for county coroner, appeared before supervisors today, asking for action. He charged that it was the duty of the coroner to provide "decent" burials for indigents.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said he believed the I-J had performed a public service in calling attention to the situation, and that flat markers on graves would be "both proper and appropriate."

"I feel very strongly about it," he said.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, serving as chairman in the absence of Byron W. Leydecker, agreed.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said, "If I had my way all graves would be unmarked." He said grave markers were usually just a means of "designating financial status" of the deceased.

The board agreed to ask County Administrator Alan Bruce to look into the cost of markers.

CHURCHES FACING SPLIT ON ALINSKY

Controversial Poverty Worker's Plans For East Bay Worry Some Presbyterians

"Professional radical" Saul Alinsky held a press conference at the San Francisco Airport yesterday and gave a few ideas of what he intends to do for poor people in San Francisco and Oakland—if they say they want him to do it.

Meanwhile, a hot debate appeared shaping up among members of the Redwoods Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church—which includes Marin—as to whether they will share the $200,000 cost of supporting Alinsky's Bay Area operations.

Alinsky held his press conference after meeting with Negro leaders from West Oakland. He said he would move into the Oakland ghetto if the "actual, vital leaders" of the city's poor people invited him.

The San Francisco Presbytery, which includes Oakland, last month committed itself to the $200,000 project. Its members encouraged other Northern California presbyterys to help pay the cost.

This has brought denunciations of Alinsky by some Presbyterians, the Oakland City Council, and officials of the federal War on Poverty program.

At the airport, where he was about to board a plane for Philadelphia, Alinsky said he would, if invited into Oakland, and given money to work with, train poor people to "organize themselves around their own leaders." He predicted this would force Oakland officials to "become servants of the people and listen to them, and not to Knowland."

Ky Predicts Possible Delay For Elections

QUANG NGAI, Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky indicated today that the crucial general elections may be postponed.

"We will try to hold the elections by October," he said in an interview at the airbase here.

His original pledge in the face of Buddhist unrest a month ago was to have the vote "within three to five months," indicating September at the latest.

On the elections hinges Viet Nam's political future. The Ky government pledged them in the face of increasing demands for a civilian regime.

Ky made an unscheduled flight to this northern province to have a look at war-battered villages wrested recently from Viet Cong control.

He made his tour in a U.S. Marine helicopter. Heavily armed troops deployed and a plane constantly flew cover as the head of the military junta stepped over the scars of Viet Nam's fighting and tragedy.

He was greeted by silent crowds of men and women gathered near shell-smashed homes surrounded by firled sprayed by crop-killing chemicals.

"Pacification is progressing," Ky said. "In this area alone, 2,000 Viet Cong were killed in the past two months. This is great progress."

The premier said that pacification must "be carried effectively throughout the country" to permit the vote.

"We will try to hold the elections by October. If we are strong and determined, we can do it."

Board Orders Permit Hold For Eichler

Marin County supervisors today ordered 28 building permits, asked by Eichler Homes in Lucas Valley, held up pending a hearing on changes in the building code next week aimed at reducing the chance of fire.

The changes were asked after a 7-year-old girl was killed in a fire in Lucas Valley March 22.

County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost told supervisors that Eichler has 28 new permits pending. He asked authority to hold them up until he sees what action the board takes at the hearing on the proposed amendment. The board gave him the authority.

Protests By Reds Expected

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States acknowledged for the first time today that U.S. forces fired into the territory of nominally neutralist Cambodia, but said an artillery barrage directed against troops presumed to be Viet Cong was fired in self defense.

The development, certain to be regarded in Communist quarters as another escalation of the Vietnamese war, came as a military spokesman reported unusually heavy premonsoon air raids against North Viet Nam. Some targets were two and five miles from North Vietnamese cities.

American forces, expecting a major Viet Cong offensive with start of the rains in a few days, sent B52 bombers from Guam against Communist supply and storage areas near the Cambodian frontier while ground forces struck out at supply caches.

ESCALATION CHARGE

Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has repeatedly accused U. S. and South Vietnamese planes of hitting border villages, charging that such attacks were an escalation of the war. He has proclaimed neutrality but recognizes the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) as the only legal government of South Viet Nam.

Americans have been bitter because Hanoi has supplied its forces in the South via the Ho Chi Minh trail, which runs through Laos and Cambodia, and because attacking Viet Cong troops have retreated into Cambodia when defeated on the battlefields of South Viet Nam.

FIRST INFANTRY

A spokesman said U.S. artillery fired into Cambodia on Saturday and silenced "very heavy automatic weapons and mortar fire" being directed at U.S. soldiers on the South Vietnamese side of the border. Similar incidents have been reported before but today's was the first official confirmation.

The spokesman said a unit of

U.N. Secretary General Thant today warned of an impending World War II today, saying the Viet Nam conflict "Prevents a formidable obstacle" to improved East-West relations.

Today also, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called for new approaches at communication with Red China and a sweeping reassessment of U.S. relations with that country. London reported rumors at the same time of plans for a summit conference on Viet Nam between Red China and the Soviet Union.

U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara promised to continue course of limited war between proposals of "hawks" and "doves."

Speaking in France, Thant said that political, economic and racial tensions are threatening to push mankind into the total disaster of a third world war.

At the European Consultative Assembly, Thant called on the peoples of Europe to devote their talents and genius to efforts to prevent another global conflict.

Thant proposed that the Unit-

Britons Learn Of Tax Boosts In New Budget

LONDON (AP) — The Labor government announced today a tax increase on corporations and said a surcharge on imports imposed in 1964 will be lifted in November on all goods but foodstuffs.

The nation was spared a hike in income taxes, already among the highest in the world, and increases in imports on such items as beer, tobacco and hard liquor. Fearing increases on these, Britons had flocked to liquor stores and tobacco shops to stock up.

A 15 per cent surcharge on imports was imposed in November, 1964 and decreased to 10 per cent in April, 1965. The measure was aimed at strengthening the British pound sterling.

The tax on corporations now goes from 35 per cent to 40 per cent.

Wolden Denies All Blame In Accessor Bribery Trial

Wolden spent all day yesterday denying evidence presented by the prosecution during the lengthy trial and contended that his former chief personal property auditor, Max J. Newstat, actually was to blame for the charges.

Newstat, a prosecution witness, has been associated with Wolden for 20 years. The assessor testified that Newstat had been doing secret work without his knowledge.

Defense attorney James Martin MacInnis asked whether Wolden had ever asked Newstat to refer certain business accounts handled by tax consultants. MacInnis referred chiefly to consultant James C. Tooke, Castro Valley, on whose records the present prosecution is mainly based.

"I never did," Wolden testified.

The assessor also said he never knew "until this investigation was under way" that Newstat had been keeping a secret file on personal property declarations of some accounts.

Wolden also denied doing any special favors in making hotel assessments in San Francisco. He testified that the major hotels now appear to be "in excellent proportion" to each other.

Tardy Students Given New Draft Test Dates

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Selective Service is going to give another chance to those college students who missed signing up for the tests which might help keep them out of the draft.

April 23 was the deadline for signing up for the qualification tests scheduled for May 14, May 21 and June 3 at 1,200 locations in the 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone and the District of Columbia.

About 1 million students had applied by the deadline, which fell on a Saturday. But additional thousands failed to sign up until the last moment — and then found their local draft boards closed that day.

Selective Service officials said yesterday that a fourth test would be given "in the latter part of June" for those who, "for some reason," were unable to take the exam previously. Details will be announced about the test within the next two weeks.

Paper Clip Saves Huge Jet From Test Hop Disaster

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—A paper clip saved a 500,000-pound XB-70A research bomber from breaking to pieces, says its pilot.

Air Force Col. Joseph Cotton, co-pilot when the 185-foot craft made a test run Saturday, said yesterday he used the clip to short circuit a balky relay panel and force a stuck nose gear down into landing position.

"I am convinced we would have broken the plane to pieces if we had tried to land without the nose gear locked in position," said the pilot, Al White of North American Aviation.

Cotton spent more than an hour talking to the ground by radio before locating the terminals in a junction box and fashioning a connection from a paper clip. This bypassed a faulty relay and provided the signal to force the nose gear down.

Cause of the malfunction was being investigated.

"I'm sure anybody could have gimmicked up something to short across between the terminals if they had the motivation I had," said Cotton.

Youth Accused Of Theft From Mother

A 21-year-old Larkspur youth was in county jail today for allegedly robbing his own mother —co-owner of a Tamalpais Valley grocery and liquor store — of an estimated $1,200 in cash and checks.

Booked for the burglary was Robert James Davis, 21, of Orange Street, son of Mrs. Margurite L. Davis, a partner of Dan's Groceries and Liquor at 254 Shoreline Highway.

Sheriff's officers said Davis, and two other youths, were arrested in a car by San Rafael police last night after an alert had been given for his apprehension.

Sheriff's inspectors said Kenneth Hoffield, also an owner of the store, reported that when he and friends went there for supplies about 1 a.m. yesterday, a station wagon was blocking the driveway. He entered the building's storeroom, he said, and encountered Davis.

Hoffield said he was startled, but said, "Hello, Bobby," got his supplies, and left. But he notified Mrs. Davis, who lives in an adjacent apartment. She called the sheriff's office.

The youth had fled before officers arrived.

Mrs. Davis said today her son apparently entered her apartment through a window, then entered the store through a connecting door.

Bullet Found Causing Liver Pain For Man

LIMOGES, France (UPI) — "The trouble is, doctor," said Joseph Deschamps, 46, "the medicine you keep giving me for these pains in my liver doesn't seem to be helping."

Puzzled, the doctor sent Deschamps off for an X-ray. It revealed why the medicine wasn't doing any good.

Deschamps had a rifle bullet stuck in his liver. But he couldn't remember being shot — at least not since June, 1940, when as a soldier he was wounded in the right hip by a German.

The bullet was never found. Doctors said today it must have worked its way around to Deschamp's liver during the past 26 years.

Sewage Plant Operator Gets Special Award

J. B. McFarlane, district superintendent, was honored with an award for proficiency during a meeting of the Tiburon Sanitary District board last night.

Board President Angelo P. Mirata presented McFarlane with the award from the California Water Quality Control Assn. for proficiency in sanitary maintenance. McFarlane's award was the highest the association can give, reported James Murray, board secretary.

"He's so good," Murray said, "that we've had no beef from any taxpayer since I've been on the board." McFarlane, 58, has been with the district four years.

The Tiburon Sanitary District board also:

1. Voted to commence condemnation procedings against the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for 150 feet of property adjacent to the Paradise Drive treatment plant, to construct a sludge dewatering plant.

2. Agreed to interview engineering firms on constructing the sludge dewatering plant at the next meeting.

3. Deferred action on a proposal to join with the Tiburon Fire District on an employee medical insurance plan.

Kentfield Civic League Opposes County Park Plans

Directors of the Kentfield Civic League, chafing under reappraisals of Ross Valley property, last night voted unanimously to oppose two county park land purchases.

Directors voted to tell county supervisors they oppose both the purchase of 18 acres of park land in Kentfield from the San Francisco Catholic archdiocese and purchase of the San Geronimo National Golf Course.

In both instances, the principal objection was that the purchases would take the property off the tax rolls.

Regarding the proposed purchase in Kentfield, they said "nobody in Kentfield needs or has asked for a park."

Directors also discussed the reappraisals and began making plans to meet with other improvement associations and civic groups in the area to discuss lightening "the confiscatory tax load," according to league secretary Kenneth Wiltz. All actions were at the unanimous vote of the seven directors present, he reported.

Fast Population Rise Predicted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state says California's population will double in the next 35 years to almost 42 million.

In just 10 years, the 19 million people in the nation's most populous state will gain an additional 5.7 million neighbors.

Based on past net migration rates, a Department of Finance report said the Golden State by the year 2000 would be home for one in seven Americans, compared with nearly one in 10 now.

Marin City Neighbors' Feud Sparks Shooting

A six-month feud between an ex-convict and his Marin City neighbor erupted last night in two shooting incidents, with the neighbor struck in both legs by a shotgun blast.

Given emergency treatment at Marin General Hospital for pellet wounds beneath the knees was Leroy Clark, 31, a laundry worker of 121 Drake Avenue. He was then transferred to Napa State Hospital for mental observation on a 72-hour commitment.

The ex-convict, Albert Clarence Jennings, 37, a laborer of 107 Drake Avenue, was booked in county jail for investigation of assault with intent to murder. He remained there at noon today in lieu of $5,500 bail.

Sheriff's officers said they have received about 20 telephone complaints in the past six months concerning haggling of the two men. They said Clark reported he was in his front yard about 9 p.m. yesterday when a shot was fired at him. It missed.

He notified his brother, Gene Edward Clark, 28, of 961 Drake Avenue, who left to notify sheriff's deputies.

Clark took refuge inside his darkened apartment. But after awhile, he ventured out to take garbage to a disposal area beside the building.

Sheriff's Inspector A. V. Menjou said Jennings reportedly was standing on a patio near his own apartment, about 50 feet away, and fired the blast that hit Clark.

Another neighbor, Levoy Elder of 123 Drake Avenue, heard the shot and went to Clark's aid. Gene Clark and officers arrived minutes later, and the victim was taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Inspector Menjou said he found a 20-gauge shotgun in a closet of Jennings' apartment, and two spent shells in a kitchen basket.

He quoted Jennings as saying Clark had been "hanging around" his apartment and had constantly aggravated him.

Jennings was sentenced to Illinois State Prison in 1948 for larceny. He was paroled Aug. 8, 1953. He has also served six months in Marin County jail in 1962 for possession of a weapon by a convicted felon.

Marijuana Suspect Held —In Holland

Wilhelm Alexander Rossknecht, 27, fugutive from Marin County on a felony charge of selling marijuana, has been arrested in Holland, the Federal Bureau of Investigation notified Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales today.

It was not immediately learned whether the suspect, of 10 Reed Lane, Sausalito, will waive extradition. Rossknecht, who also was charged by the FBI with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, is scheduled for trial in Marin Superior Court July 25.

He and co-defendants Peter Wright Lenihan, 31, of 420 B Street, Sausalito, and Ronald Keith Maska, 29, of Orange County, originally were scheduled for trial last Dec. 20. Rossknecht failed to appear, however, and a bench warrant was issued by Judge Thomas F. Keating for his arrest.

Bail was set at $4,400.

Two Marin Men Still "Critical" After Accidents

They are Ambrose J. N. Hollingworth of 31 Forrest Avenue, Fairfax, and Gerald A. McMahon, 25, of 7 Billou Street, San Rafael.

Hollingworth suffered a broken right leg, pelvis and back injuries when his car struck the center divider on Highway 101 a quarter-mile south of Waldo Tunnel Saturday and overturned.

McMahon sustained multiple injuries Sunday when struck by a car while running across the same highway near Corte Madera overpass. He was thrown 40 feet, the California Highway Patrol said.

Addition Suggested

Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission will consider a proposal to add a room to the rear of the Corte Madera Recreation Center when it meets at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in town hall. The Corte Madera Lions Club has proposed the addition of a small meeting room and storage area on the north side of the building.

LBJ Hope Of United Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, although faced with new divisions within the Atlantic alliance, said today he still has "great hopes" for a free, united Europe. And he outlined his own blueprint for the continent's future.

Johnson discussed the European outlook at length in an address at a White House ceremony marking the 1,000th anniversary of Polish nationhood.

Looking toward Eastern Europe, he pointed to signs that rigid Communist theory is loosing its hold on national economies. And he announced he is instructing Secretary of State Dean Rusk to send Congress long promised legislation that would authorize the President to remove special tariff restrictions that curb trade between Eastern Europe and the United States.

Johnson, speaking to several hundred Polish-Americans in the rose garden outside his office, said "it is not vain—on this day of great memories—to speak also of great hopes." He said that "chief among them is the future of Europe" and urged action to:

Free Europe of "artificial political barriers that block the free movement of people, ideas, and commerce."

Adopt internationaly inspected arms control arrangements to "remove the age-old fears of East and West alike."

Create a Europe of interdependent friendly nations in which all people "know again the responsibilities and rewards of free political choices."

Johnson cited principles which he said will guide American policy in striving to build the Europe he envisions:

"It remains our conviction that an integrated Atlantic deffense is the first necessity—not the last result—of the building of unity in Western Europe, for expanding partnership across the Atlantic and for reconciling differences with the East."

A drive for unity in Western Europe through which, he argued, "fruitful ties to the East can best be built."

Both Dirksen and Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said they would oppose any move to fix a deadline for action on the bill by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., reserved the right to make such a move when the bill was introduced in the Senate last Thursday.

In the past the Judiciary Committee, with Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., as chairman, has been a dead end for civil rights bills in the absence of instructions by the Senate to act within a specific time.

Engineer Picked For Plan Group

Paul E. Rosenthal, San Francisco mechanical engineer, was appointed last night to the Mill Valley Planning Commission to succeed Rodric L. Robinson, recently elected city councilman.

Rosenthal, who lives at 24 Nelson Avenue, was active as chairman of the library bond issue campaign last year. He was appointed from 12 candidates by Mayor Albert E. White.

Also appointed last night was Matt Copenhaver, architect, to the architectural advisory committee. Copenhaver, who resides at 21 Laurelwood Avenue, takes the seat of Niels Enevoldsen, who resigned.

quest for approval of an application for federal and state funds under the Short-Doyle Act.

Dr. Miller said a new program is involved which allows aid for new services, with the county share of cost only 6.5 per cent the first year, 10 per cent the second year, 17 the third and up to 25 per cent in the fourth year—the last being the normal county share under Short-Doyle funding.

Supervisors had a packet of forms detailing the application and showing a total county budget, including state and federal subventions of $762,299 for next year. County Administrator Alan Bruce said this was more than he will recommend.

Among the new programs included would be services for alcoholics, emergency inpatient care, hiring of a mental health educator, and something known as "traveling group children."

The last was what Mrs. Baum, speaking as chairman of the Inter-Agency Committee on Mental Health Resources and Needs, said was needed. She wrote a letter urging that this be emphasized and that Miller not try to get too many new things going at once.

Dr. Miller said that the service for children, called traveling because it would go to the patient's home for care, would call for five specialists with annual cost for salaries of $90,000.

Figures on other new services were not pinpointed.

Dr. Miller promised to return next Tuesday with more information and alternate applications. And next Tuesday is the deadline for submitting the applications.

Sanitary Board Asks For Costs On Alto Changes

Alto Sanitary District Directors last night discussed improvements necessary on lines and pumping facilities in the Alto area, including Sutton Manor and parts of Mill Valley, to bring equipment up to standard to stop pollution of bay waters.

Stanley M. Bala, Mill Valley city engineer, listed necessary improvements but, according to Director Carl O. Heynen Jr., no cost was mentioned.

The board asked the County Local Agency Formation Commission to change its application for a Southern Marin sanitation district to a sanitary district, since the latter allows election of a board and the former does not. The preliminary proposal on the district is to be heard at a commission meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Center.

Firemen Save Woman Trapped In Fairfax Home

Mrs. Amelia McCall of 148 Olema Road was taken out through a bedroom window after firemen, called by a neighbor, broke the window to get in. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for smoke inhalation.

Source of thes moke was a burning chesterfield in the living room, which firemen believed had been ignited by a forgotten cigarette. The blaze did about $800 damage to a wall and furniture in the room.

Mrs. McCall, who lives alone, was awakened by the smoke, but was unable either to get out of the house or to reach the telephone.

Board Votes Garbage Pay

The Novato Sanitary District Board also:

1. Annexed the Stanford Oaks subdivision of eight acres on Center Road opposite the Lu Sutton School and a lot belonging to L. O. Zechlin on Virginia Avenue.

CHURCH

Alinsky demonstrated the invective which is nearly his trademark as he talked about the Oakland City Council.

Noting that councilmen had unanimously termed him a "rabble-rouser," he said Oakland politicians "have their ears fastened, not on their heads, but on the places where they sit down."

He pulled out a package of diapers and said was a gift for Oakland's new mayor, John Reading, and the city council.

He also said Sargent Shiver and his anti-poverty team have a "zookeeper mentality."

They are, he charged, "trying to keep the animals in the zoo." He said this was "the same mentality" shown by Los Angeles Police Chief William Parker during last year's rioting in Watts.

In Marin, Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of San Rafael's First Presbyterian Church, predicted that the Redwoods churches will agree to give Alinsky funds, "but not without a great deal of discussion and controversy."

A vote on the matter by the North Coast Presbytery was scheduled for last week, but was postponed to a special meeting June 4. Between now and then, said Baker, there will be several briefings of church elders and members throughout the presbytery.

One of them was held Sunday at Christ Presbyterian Church in Terra Linda. Another, for the benefit of elders from all Marin Presbyterian churches, will be at 8 p.m. Thursday at the San Rafael church.

Baker said he has heard much controversy from church members, but "it has been individual, not organized opposition" to Alinsky's presence.

Alinsky, who is 57, is using Carmel as the base of his operations.

tire regiments of Viet Cong have been operating.

Several hundred coolies were digging a giant ditch around the village, filling it with bamboo spikes as a protection against guerrilla infiltrations at night.

American and Vietnamese officers said large units of guerrillas were still operating almost within immediate vicinity. As they spoke, there was a sound of distant explosions and two planes flew low over the jungle.

Later, Ky visited the giant Chu Lai base of the U.S. 1st Marine Division where he paid tribute to Americans wounded in combat.

Marin Considers Watts Job Plan

Marin County supervisors learned today that Vern Hawley, chairman of the employment task force of the Marin County Human Rights Commisison, will talk to Los Angeles officials and employers later this week on a minority employment plan that reportedly has been successful in Watts.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr noticed a report on the plan under which private employers joined together in offering and finding jobs.

Behr though the same plan might work in Marin County.

He said such a report should be distributed as widely as possible in all languages to alert the average person to the dangers hanging over humanity.

Thant said the causes of tension are the East-West political struggle, the growing gap between the have and have-not nations, the breakup of the colonial system and racial discrimination in several forms.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, Kennedy said the commission could be asked to make recommandations on "vital issues," including:

1. How to increase "informal governmental contacts" with Red China, as well as scientific, educational, cultural, athletic and tourists contacts.

2. The problem of Chinese Communist membership in the United Nations.

3. Whether the present U.S. embargo on all trade with Red China should be modified to allow "a limited trading relationship...on goods which could not be used to fuel Chinese war machines."

4. How to increase Chinese participation in international arms control negotiations.

The senator said any overtures probably would be rejected quickly by Red China.

But, he added, "if offered patiently and imaginatively and persistently enough, they might be accepted—not all at once, perhaps none immediately—but eventually, through the steady effect of chipping away at China's self-imposed isolation."

A Communist summit conference on Viet Nam strategy and the Soviet-Chinese conflict will likely be held early in July, informed sources said today in London.

Top leaders of Russia, the East European countries and several leading Communist parties outside the Red bloc appear to have agreed on the conference, the sources said.

Its chief aim will be to coordinate Communist policy and assistance to North Viet Nam and seek a joint line on the feud with Red China.

McNamara said South Vietnamese political unrest cut allied military operations by more than half and prompted administration fears of civil war and the overthrow of the government in Saigon.

McNamara made the disclosures as he fielded questions from the floor of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce convention yesterday.

"The tempo of military operations was adversely affected by the political disorders," McNamara said. He estimated operations against the Viet Cong were reduced 50 to 70 per cent.

But he said theadministration had feared more severe effects.

McNamara also acknowledged that despite the bombing of North Viet Nam the number of Communist infiltrators is three times above the level of a year ago.

And, he added, "we probably will have to increase the number of our troops."

In Detroit, U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the United Nations "is not going to join, as it did in Korea, in the military defense of Viet Nam against aggression."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, speaking at Concord, N.H., predicted U.S. defeat in Asia because of President Johnson's "apparent resignation to a long war in Viet Nam."

Petaluma Couple Hurt On Highway 101

A Petaluma couple were only slightly injured when their car went off Highway 101 a mile north of Atherton Avenue, Novato, and rolled over at 6 p.m. yesterday.

The couple, Arnold T. Albertson and his wife, Betty Ann, both 36, were treated at Novato General Hospital for cuts and bruises.

New Answer Entered In Tunnel Case

Attorney Boris H. Lakusta yesterday filed a brief on behalf of the city of San Rafael, opposing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's latest legal try to abandon service through the Puerto Suello Tunnel.

In spite of the railroad's claim that the legal fight was over—and the fact that the Morrison-Knudsen Co. is in the process of re-building the tunnel—NWP attorneys went ahead last month with a brief in their appeal of an earlier ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The railroad attorneys insisted "a vitally important legal question" was at stake, even though the tunnel was to be rebuilt.

Yesterday's brief by the city said the ICC acted properly in its refusal to re-hear one of the railroad's applications to abandon the tunnel. It also contended the legal question at stake is moot.

Similar briefs were filed by the ICC, the state Public Utilities Commission and the Santa Fe Railroad, which has also opposed the tunnel's closing.

The briefs will be considered in Federal District Court in San Francisco on June 17.

in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor. The 12 candidates made it virtually certain there would have to be a runoff on May 24. Raymond Gary, who was governor in 1954-1958, was expected to lead the field but there was no agreement as to who might be the other candidate in a runoff.

Contending for the Republican nomination for senator in Oklahoma are Pat J. Patterson and Don Kinkaid, both of Oklahoma City, and Clifton Wood, Ardmore.

In Ohio, Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes has opposition for renomination from William L. White, a Mount Vernon businessman eh defeated by a 9-1 margin four years ago.

Bidding for the Democratic nomination for governor are state Sen. Frazier Reams Jr., Toledo, and Harry H. McIlwain, a Cincinnati attorney and member of the legislature.

Robert Taft Jr., son of the late U. S. senator, is seeking the Republican nomination to Congress in the First district. He is opposed by William E. Flax, a Cincinnati attorney and member of the John Birch Society.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, Democrat, is unopposed for renomination in New Mexico. The state's two representatives Thomas Morris and E. S. Johnny Walker, Democrats, also are unopposed for renomination.

State Sen. Gene Lusk and former Gov. John Burroughs are contending for the Democratic nomination for Governor. In a primary contest for the Republican nomination are Clifford J. Hawley and David F. Oargo, both of Albuquerque.

In the air war American planes struck in massive strength at Communist supply dumps and routes in both North and South Viet Nam. A spokesman said the pilots blasted caves loaded with war goods only two miles from Vinh, a North Vietnamese city of about 50,000 which has become a major supply center.

Other pilots bombed within five miles of Than Hoa and knocked out three radar sites, destroyed bridges and bridge approaches, ripped up 50 yards of railroad track, hit 20 supply warehouses and smashed trucks.

The pilots were attempting to take the sting out of the forthcoming Viet Cong rainy season offensive which is expected to begin any day now.

NOVATO TEACHERS ASK PAY RAISES

Biggest Jumps Proposed For Extra Units Of Education In Association Request

The Novato Teachers Assn. last night asked the Novato Unified School District trustees for salary increases which would give the biggest percentage raise to those with the most education.

Marlowe Lancaster, association representative, asked for a new scale that would start at $5,700 and go to $12,010. per year. The present scale runs from $5,520 and $10,656.

A beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree would get an increase of $180 per year, while a teacher with an additional 75 hours and 12 years of experience would be increased $1,354.

The proposed pay scale would add $250,000 to the district's salary cost next fiscal year, Lancaster estimated.

Trustees set 8 p.m. next Monday to study the proposal and the preliminary budget.

The Novato Unified School District Also:

1. Heard from Richard Banwell, school architect, that he could design an air conditioning and heating unit for each room at half the cost of a central plant for the new junior high school at Wilson Avenue and Vineyard Road. However he said maintenance for the individual units over a 10-year period would be double that for a central plant. The board left the decision on which to use up to the architect.

2. Hired Dalton, Graupner and Barber to audit the school's books for $1,500.

3. Set standards of 704 for elementary, 864 for junior high and 1,800 for high school student capacities, and 10 acres for elementary, 20 acres for junior high school and 40 acres for high school site sizes. It also adopted these as general areas for future schools: Bahia, Black Point, School Lane and two in San Marin for elementary; Bugeia Lane and San Marin for junior high schools and Deer Island for the third high school.

4. Granted a leave of absence to Shirley Young, fourth grade teacher at Olive School.

5. Accepted resignations of Teresa Bremer, English Teacher at Hill Junior High School; Mary Dean, on leave; Louise de Lorimier, Girls' physical education at Hill Junior High School; Helen Farris, third grade at Lynwood School; Donald Fifer, industrial arts at Novato High School; Nancy Frank, fourth grade at Lynwood School; Marianne Hansen, second grade at Lynwood School; Melrene Moon, kindergarten at West Novato School; Bonnie Peterson, life science at Novato High School, and Sharon White, fourth grade at Lynwood School.

6. Hired Lile Adams to teach fifth grade at Hamilton School at $6,162; Michael Colletto, boys physical education at Novato High School at $6,162; Janet Cousins, third grade at Olive School at $6,483; Frances Cuzner, English at Novato High School at $5,805 Catherine Detweiler, English at Hill Junior High School at $5,841; Sandra Gariffo, English at Novato High School at $6,162; Alrene Grialou, first grade at Meadow Park School at $5,520; Marilyn Kilgannon, fifth grade at Hamilton School at $7,446; Virginia Meyer, school nurse at $6,804; Ralph O'neill, psychologist at $10,408; Frances Phillips, kindergarten at West Novato School at $6,804; Douglas Scott, counselor at Novato High School at $8,492, Martha Wells, second grade at Lynwood School at $8,730, and Joanne Wheeler, sixth grade at Hamilton School at $6,162.

Gemini Craft Goes On Rocket For May 17 Trip

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Technicians bolt down the Gemini 9 spacecraft to the top of its Titan 2 booster rocket today, as astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan make certain their spaceship is ready to fly.

Thursday and Friday, Air Force Lt. Col. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Cernan will rehearse their flight plan inside a practice capsule at Cape Kennedy. Gemini 9 is due to fly May 17.

The space flight calls for a two-hour, 25-minute walk in space by Cernan, several rendezvous and docking exercises with an Agena target satellite, and firing the Agena's main engines while Gemini 9 is attached to it in space.

The entire mission is expected to last three days.

City Council Seeks Parks In Belvedere

In three actions to encourage development of city parks, the Belvedere City Council last night sought a lease from the state for a Lagoon Road Park, set up a park and recreation commission, and recommended passage of a county-wide parks bond issue.

The council directed City Mgr. William L. Cavalli to ask the state how much a lease would cost for the 1,000 foot-long Lagoon Roard property. Cavalli told the council that the Division of Highways stipulated that no fixed structures could be erected on the site.

Councilman Edwin J. Drechsel asked if children's swings would be considered fixed structures. Cavalli answered that "from previous experience" the state would permit them. Mayor John R. Moore told Cavalli to "write them real quick" to find out the cost of the lease.

The council endorsed the county bond issue after Cavalli reported the tax cost to the city would be about the same under a county issue or a city bond issue. He said that under the counuty issue the city would receive $40,500 at a cost of 2.25 cents on estimated current assessed valuation, versus 2.5 cents with a city bond issue.

Cavalli said that under the county program, the city's funds would be allocated whenever it adopted a park program. Councilman Sally Mathews promptly moved that action on a program be started.

The council established the parks and recreation commission after recommendation by the recreation committee it replaces. The present committee thought its present powers were vague.

The new commission will have five members for two-year terms, appointed by the council, with a non-voting member each from the council and the Reed School District. Mayor Moore said he would make appointments at the next council meeting.

The council then discussed various possible park programs including restoration of the city's dormant walking paths and acquisition of the McGinnis property on Belvedere Point for a view park. It took no action on these.

Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock was absent.

Late Hours For Car Wash Denied By Hub Commission

The coin-operated car wash at 80 Red Hill Avenue, San5 Anselmo, can continue to operate for another year at least, but it cannot remain open until midnight, not even during the summer, the San Anselmo Planning Commission decided last night.

Western Associates, owner of the car wash, had asked that the 10 p.m. curfew on the establishment be eased to midnight during the summer. Tenants of a nearby apartment objected. Planning commisisoners voted only to extend the car wash use permit another year.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

1. Approved a use permit to allow Helen O. Gui to teach accordian and guitar to not more than three students at a time in her home at 205 The Alameda. Lessons must be concluded by 9 p.m., commisisoners stipulated.

2. Denied a request by Wilfred S. Sache for a variance allowing a six foot fence at 19 fern lane. Previous owner of the house applied for the same variance earlier this year and was also denied.

3. Recommended city council acceptance of annexation of 14 and one-half acres in the Short Ranch area to San Anselmo. The annexation has been approved by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

4. Agreed to recommend the city council extend for one year its approval of a tentative map for the third and fourth units of the Indian Rock subdivision, provided developees install underground utilities.

Commisisoner James Murphy was absent.

Three Feet Too Far

Swedish Ship Sails Into New York Port

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Swedish American Line's new passenger ship, the sleek, 601-foot Kungsholm, steamed into New York harbor to end its maiden voyage yesterday.

The liner was greeted by four salutes fired from the tip of Manhattan by a cannon recovered from a Swedish warship that sank off Stockholm 338 years ago. Fireboats also shot plumes of water into the air to welcome the twin-stacked liner and her 304 passengers.

TEACHER'S REFLECTIONS—Dr. Arthur F. Corey, state executive secretary of the California Teachers' Association, will speak on "A Teacher's Reflections on School Boards" at the Marin County School Boards' Assn. meeting May 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael.

Warenback Pledges Work For Campus

Melvin S. Warenback said last night that if he is elected county supervisor, he will form a committee of Marin civic leaders to work for a University of California campus in Marin County.

"Marin County is the logical place for a university campus," Warenback said. "And as your supervisor I would extend every effort to convince the university that it should be placed here."

He said that a new UC campus not only would contribute to "our cultural lives and the enrichment of our young people but would also provide a real incentive to the attraction of light industry to the county."

Polio Victims Awarded Cash In Sabin Suits

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A jury has awarded $140,000 to two men who charged that they contracted polio from taking the Sabin oral vaccine.

The Superior Court jury of seven men and five women returned the verdict against Charles Pfitzer and Co. of New York, the manufacturer, yesterday after three hours of deliberation.

Richard G. Grinnell, 62, of Los Altos, was awarded $60,000, and Carlos C. Benedetti, 36, of Livermore, received $80,000. Grinnell, president of a steel products firm, has a permanently withered left arm. Benedetti, unemployed for several months, has a withered right leg.

The men said that they took the Sabin oral vaccine on sugar cubes during the San Francisco Bay Area Medical Association's "K.O. Polio" campaign in September, 1962. Within a year, they said, they had contracted polio. Grinnell filed suit for $200,000, Benedetti for $500,000.

Corte Madera Sign Ordinance Passes

Corte Madera Town Council last night voted 3-to-1 to adopt an amendment to the town zoning ordinance dealing with signs in commercial zones and nonconforming sites in residential areas. Councilman Holmes S. Norville was absent.

Councilman William W. Collier voted no, saying he feared the land development which might begin across the street from his residential area on Tamal Vista Boulevard. Property across the street is zoned highway commercial.

Collier moved the ordinance amendment be set aside temporarily and the planning commission be instructed to think about rezoning the property to something more suitable, such as administrative and professional.

"We've got development stopped there now," he said, reminding the council that development in highway commercial areas has been frozen until adoption of the amendment. Development was halted last July, when the planning commission began working on the amendment.

Tamal Vista Boulevard is a residential street and should have an enforced load limit on it, Collier said. "Anything on that street over two tons shakes the houses."

Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff said administrative-professional zoning "has not been exactly successful in Corte Madera. To zone the land that way would only bring financial problems to the property owners."

However, Wagstaff seconded Collier's motion to put off the amendment and voted with him. Edward W. Colthurst and Charles F. Pendleton voted no and the tie vote defeated the motion.

When Pendleton moved adoption of the amendment, Wagstaff switched and voted yes with Colthurst and Pendleton. Collier voted no.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

1. Approved transfer of $2,748.32 to pay for widening Paradise Drive. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said restoration of the drive, necessitated by damage during relocation of a sewer line last fall, cost $15,956.45, but the contractor responsible was required to pay only $14,030 damages.
2. Postponed to May 16 public hearing on rezoning of three acres on the southwest corner of Conow Street and Casa Buena Drive.
3. Denied the request of Ruth Beatty for rezoning of property at 35 Deer Run Road from single family to duplex residential.
4. Introduced an amendment to the personnel ordinance allowing straight time pay in lieu of time off for holidays worked by police and firemen, 90 instead of 60 accumulated days of sick leave, and town employees to take vacations at any time in year rather than between April and October only.
5. Accepted Wagstaff resignation from the planning commission. Mayor Colthurst declared the position open and said councilmen would consider all replacement suggested to them.
6. Declared May 22 "Maritime Day" and the month of May "Senior Citizens Month."

Arrests Smash Marajuana Ring With Big Haul

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Federal agents and sheriff's deputies say they have smashed an alleged marijuana ring with the arrests of five men and three women and the seizure of 400 pounds of marijuana bricks valued at about $160,000.

Investigators said they arrested the eight yesterday as the bricks were being transferred from a camper to an automobile.

Officers said the marijuana allegedly came from Mexico and was being wholesaled in Long Beach, Orange County and the Hollywood area.

Art Festival Site On Council Agenda

Should the annual Sausalito Art Festival be held downtown on Bridgeway next to the Bank of America or at its location for the past several years at Central School playground?

This question will be discussed at the Sausalito City Council meeting at 8 p.m. today. The Art Festival committee has applied to the city for use of parking lot 2 at Bridgeway and Bay Street. City Mgr. Charles A. Brown has taken the stand that, if the fair is held downtown, "it will hurt no one but the merchants. It will hurt business."

County School Board Seeks Own Purse String Control

Marin County Board of Education last night agreed to talk over with the board of supervisors the possibility of taking over the control of its own purse strings.

Almost in the same breath, the education board members expressed concern that their detailed budget for 1966-67 showed an increase of $174,000 over last year and called another meeting to discuss it further.

If the education board gets its own fund control, it will mean future budgets will be approved by the board and will not be dependent on final decision of the supervisors.

Asst. Supt. Robert Stannard said, "Some boards of education may consider the supervisors are not particularly interested in education functions or trained in education functions."

Instead of the money coming from the general rate, Stannard said, the supervisors would be asked to raise the money with a special education tax levy. He said the levy next year, based on the present budget, would be eight cents.

Members discussed briefly budget proposals for the coming year before calling a special meeting May 16 at 8 p.m. in the Corte Madera administration office to discuss details.

The general fund budget totalled $423,949, compared with $320,916 this year, and the special education budget, $624,784 compared with $553,493 this year.

Increase in the superintendent of schools office salaries was responsible for an increase of $11,646 in the general fund budget. There was a notable increase also in salaries of teachers in the special education program, reported William G. Vanasen, director of business services.

Handicapped Children To Ride County Buses

Marin County Board of Education last night decided against placing its transport system for handicapped children in the hands of a private contractor.

Members agreed to stick with the present system despite the "headaches" of increasing costs and old buses.

Chairman James A. Carroll said, "If I were my child subwould not like my child subjected to the changes involved for a saving of five per cent."

William G. Vanasen, director of business services in the county superintendent's office said the staff decided to explore the possibility of changing the system of transport when faced with annual cost increases and the prospect of "retiring" seven of its 11 buses this year.

Several representatives of Servi-Car, a franchise transportation business, attended, offering to take over the transportation of the 260 handicapped children for the $426 per child it cost the county for the 1965-66 school year.

Several school bus drivers were present but did not speak until after the decision.

Said one woman driver "We would like to thank the board. We have wonderful children and we love them very much. They are very precious to us."

The Marin County Board of Education also:

1. Was told by County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis that federal funds have been approved for setting up a supplementary education center to explore the unmet needs of pre-school and school-age children in Marin, Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties.

2. Accepted the resignation of Robert J. Manthey, special education teacher at Bel Aire School, Tiburon.

Two Tomales Study Groups Given Chores

The Tomales High School District board last night named two committees to work on improvement of education.

One committee is to work with Tomales High School teachers, seeking suggestions on improving the quality of education and the functioning of the high school. The other is to work with elementary schools in the high school district, and the high school, to see what can be done to coordinate the educational program from kindergarten through high school.

Named to the second committee were: Harvey Balzar, principal of Bodega Bay Elementary School; David Raffo, principal of Tomales Elementary School; Howard Broze, principal of West Marin Elementary School, and Anthony Matulich, superintendent of Tomales High School. No date was set for its first meeting.

The committee appionted to study improvements at Tomales High School is made up teachers Gwendolyn Gibson, Robert De La Vergne and Carl Anaclerio; superintendent Matulich, and trustees Joseph Tremari and Mrs. Jean Adams. It will hold its first meeting at 7 p.m. next Monday.

Behr Will Speak On Park Bond Issue

Peter H. Behr, Marin County supervisor, will speak on the county park bond issue to be voted on in the June 7 primary at a meeting of the Mill Valley Unit, Marin Conservation League, at 8 p.m., May 11, at the Outdoor Art Club, Mill Valley.

Behr will answer questions from the floor concerning the $4.3 million bonds. He is co-chairman of the park bond compaign committee.

State Senate Orders Study Of LSD Use

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has ordered a legislative investigation of hallucination-causing drugs like LSD with an eye toward outlawing their promiscuous use.

The upper house yesterday adopted a resolution providing for the study.

The author of the measure, Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, also called for passage "right now" of a bill restricting the use of the thrill drugs to recognized research projects conducted in hospitals.

That bill has been rejected twice by the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee but its backers still hope to revive it.

Belvedere Votes Student Job Plan

The Belvedere City Council approved a city summer work program for students last night.

The council authorized City Mgr. William L. Cavalli to employ six students for the summer at a cost of $2,880. The students will be employed on city crews from June 20 to Sept. 2 for four hours a day at $1.50 an hour.

The council also approved hiring Whitney Simpson, a high school student, as supervisor of student work crews at $2 an hour. Simpson is a Belvedere police cadet.

The council also offered several suggestions for the student work crews. Councilman Thomas S. Price suggested cleaning the city's dormant walking paths, and Councilmen Sally Mathews and Edwin D. Drechsel suggested finishing San Rafael Avenue and Lagoon Road cleaning projects.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

1. Reappointed Burton Jacobson, William Rafter and Leslie Graham to four-year terms on the planning commission.
2. Reappointed Dr. John Flint as fire commissioner.
3. Appointed Drechsel to the finance committee and Mrs. Mathews as city representative to the Assn. of Bay Area Governments.
4. Authorized Cavalli to get a lawyer to draw up petitions for residents of Crest, Cliff and Eucalyptus roads, now private roads, to set up special assessment districts to finance fire main extensions.
5. Proclaimed May as clean-up month and the week of May 16 as "clean-up week."
7. Authorized conversion of sewer lift stations 3 and 5 from gasoline powered engines to natural gas-powered, at a cost of $150 each.

MAYOR ASKS MILL VALLEY NEWSLETTER

Mill Valley city councilmen last night heard a proposal that the city send out a one-page newsletter every three months to promote communications between the city government and the people.

Mayor Albert E. White, who introduced the idea, said it could be done by direct mail for about $100 an issue. He suggested the first mailing be July 1.

"I think this is a great idea to give an idea of what is happening," responded councilman Rodric L. Robinson. He said the city of Santa Rosa has such a brochure, which he finds "very interesting."

White said he gets questions such as, "How come I don't know what's going on in City Hall?" White said he would bring the subject up again in two or four weeks and, meanwhile, would welcome anyone's ideas.

Only one of the Great Lakes, Lake Michigan, is entirely within the United States.

Novato School Budget Up; No Tax Hike Seen

A preliminary budget for $6,495,511 for fiscal 1967 for Novato Unified School District was presented to district trustees at their meeting last night by Supt. James G. Bunker.

The budget is nearly a million dollars more than the $5,666,429 budget for the current fiscal year.

Althought he had not made any calculation on the possible tax rate, Bunker said he thought it would be approximately the same as this year—$5.19 per $100 assessed valuation.

The largest share of the budget goes into salaries, $3,020,575 for teachers' salaries. The Novato Teachers Assn. last night asked for increases which would add approximately $250,000 to that figure.

Adding the salaries of the counselors, secretaries and clerks, plus textbooks and educational supplies, the total for instruction in the proposed budget is $4,201,946. Other items in the budget include: Fixed charges, $296,715; transportation $118,881; debt service $309,682; transfers, $284,050, and reserves $271,095.

The largest sections of the 24 sources of income were estimated as: Local taxes, $2,405,400; federal, $801,221; state elementary, $1,470,000, and state high school $915,257.

The trustees set 8 p.m. next Monday to study the budget and the teacher salary requests.

Restaurant Rolls Back Its Prices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The line formed early today outside the Flor d'Italia Restaurant, which celebrated its 80th anniversary by rolling prices back to 1886 for the first 100 customers.

The menu: Antipasto, hors d'oeuvres, mixed green salad, minestrone soup, ravioli, choice of veal scallopini or roast chicken, choice of ice cream, sherbet, fried cream, spumoni or cheese, and coffee, tea or milk —and a bottle of wine.

The price: 35 cents.

Mill Valley Harbor Money Pledge Asked By Builder

"Tight money" in California prompted Paul B. Fischer, who holds a lease option on the Mill Valley small craft yacht harbor, to ask the Mill Valley City Council last night to change the agreement so money to finance the project will be easier to obtain.

The change, simply, would be from the city to "try" to provide its own permanent financing to "shall" provide it.

No action was taken by council, Mayor Albert E. White saying the subject will be discussed on May 16, when Fischer is slated to pick up the six-month option.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said that by the change, "the city would obligate itself either to seek a division of Small Craft Harbor loan or bond issue or go through city-sponsored devenue bond issue.

Jordan said the city would not pledge city credit or assets of taxpayers. The bond buyers would be taking the risk.

Fischer, a Corona Del Mar developer, reported his company has had such a favorable response from business wishing to be established at the harbor that he is considering doing the whole harbor, except for restaurant and hotel, "All at once. Our production schedule calls for completion in one year."

Business interested, he said, include a boat distributor, yacht repair company, engine specialist and engine repair company, in addition to marine hardware and sporting goods outfits.

Soils tests prove that bulkheading, an important aspect of the harbor, is feasible, the developer said.

The council voted 3 to 1, George E. Wickham voting "no and Michael Wornum absent, to endorse the $4.3 million county park bond issue on the June 7 ballot, following presentation by County Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

Wickham voted against the proposal, he said, "because some place along the line we have to stop and see how we're going to pay for these things."

Councilman Rodric L. Robinson countered that these lands must be preserved now or forever lost.

Behr said parks, hence tourism, will help reduce taxes.

Specifications for community television antenna hookups were approved and it was announced bids for a franchise for one company to install the service will be opened at 2 p.m., June 6, and the council will consider bids that evening at 8 p.m., Mayor White said any interested company may bid.

Specifications are: First outlet, $25; additional outlets, $10 each and FM outlet, $10. Monthly service charge will be $5 for the first outlet, $1 for added outlets and no charge for FM. Relocation if you move within the city is $10 and reconnection, $5.

The franchise rate must be based on the above rates, said City Mgr. Bert Balmer, and rates are based on overhead lines.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

1. Awarded W. K. McLellan Co., San Rafael, contract for overlay of East Blithedale Avenue on its low bid of $9,666.
2. Gave certificates of appreciation to Rodric L. Robinson and Dean N. Meyer for service on planning commission and parks and recreation commission, respectively.
3. Approved variance for Edward Goliti Jr. to allow one parking place instead of two for a house on Redwood Lane. Five neighbors objected.
4. Denied Kirsten Mills a permit to set up a day nursery for up to 24 children at 2 Dorset Lane.
5. Approved time extension from April 30 to Sept. 30 to allow contractor Ira Coburn to finish the public library. However, the library is expected to be ready for use by mid-June.
6. Set preliminary 1967 budget hearings for May 11, 18 and 25 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.
7. Set May 16 for hearing on the new sign ordinance.
8. Adopted resolution authorizing condemnation of two parcels of property owned by Adolph and Mary Biggio for proposed extension of Sycamore Avenue.
9. Agreed to investigate parallel parking in front of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and parking on the small bridge on Locust Avenue between Walnut and Sycamore avenues, both asked by Mrs. Frances Ferrario.
10. Discussed but took no action on a proposal from City Mgr. Balmer to amend the business license ordinance to prohibit vehicles from outside the city doing business in Mill Valley without licenses and driving the streets without names of companies on sides of trucks.
11. Agreed to write the Mill Valley School District board expressing interest in meetings with the board to discuss areas of mutual concern.
12. Proclaimed May as "Vehicle Safety Month."

Cycle, Scooter Riders Injured

An Oakland motorcyclist and a Novato man riding a motor scooter both suffered facial cuts and bruises when they were throw from their vehicles in separate accidents Sunday. Both were treated at Marin General Hospital.

Richard L. Leslie, 29, of 2478 Center Road, Novato, was injured on Butterfield Road near Legend Road in Sleepy Hollow at 5 p.m. when his scooter ran off the road and into some gravel, the highway patrol reported.

William Judkins, 25, of Oakland, was injured when he drove his motorcycle off Highway 1 south of Olema about 10 a.m. while attempting to pass a car, the patrol said.

Dredging Bid Under Estimate

A low bid of $196,743, well under the estimate, for dredging of Gallinas Creek was submitted yesterday by Shelmaker Co. of San Francisco.

The work had been estimated at $221,298, Asst. County Public Works Director Arthur T. Knutson said.

Other bidders were Western Pacific Dredging Co. at $298,340 and Utah Construction and Mining Co. at $343,286.

An assessment district is proposed to pay the cost of the dredging. Supervisors will receive the bids tomorrow at the same time they hold a public hearing on the proposed district formation.

Seadrift Group Elect Directors

Seadrift Property Owners Assn., meeting at an annual gathering Sunday in Stinson Beach, elected three directors, Hal E. Moore of Ross and Milton M. Gilmore and Joseph L. Seligman, of San Francisco. Seligman was re-elected.

The association, reported president Philip A. Crane Jr. of Kentfield, discussed recent reassessments of property but decided it is up to each individual to take any action in questioning the assessment hikes.

ALFRED C. KUEHL

Cabinet Aide Gives Award To Marinite

Alfred C. Kuehl of Kentfield, veteran landscape architect with the National Park Service, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Award by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

The citation accompanying the Interior Department's highest honor noted Kuehl's "many contributions in the field of park development and design . . . and the consistently high caliber of his work."

Kuehl, who lives at 10 Rock Road, joined the park service in 1933 as resident landscape architect for Grand Canyon National Park nine other undeveloped park systems in the Southwest.

Since then, he has played a prominent part in the development of numerous parks including several in Alaska. He was credited by Secretary Udall with pioneering the design and construction of many road projects "still regarded as some of the finest examples of their kind."

Kuehl is with the Department of the Interior in San Francisco. He has resided in Kentfield for 15 years.

CHP Man Seeks Return To Job

SAN JOSE (AP)—Fired highway patrolman William H. Brennan will find out May 20 if he will get his job back.

At that time, the officer investigating his case will present a recommendation to the state Personnel Board on the fate of Brennan, who was dismissed from the patrol last October after he was arrested in connection with the fatal shooting of Roland C. Strange, 30, of San Jose.

The 33-year-old ex-officer was acquitted of murder in January but was not reinstated. The state argued that Brennan's behavior after Strange's shooting indicates he should not be reinstated. Brennan's attorney, James Boccardo of San Jose, argued Brennan is mentally capable of reassuming duty.

Senate Finance Man Backs Unruh In Accrual Dispute

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature today appeared ready to give Gov. Edmund G. Brown more "accrual" than he really wants.

Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, chairman of the key Finance Committee, said late yesterday he favors extending the accrual bookkeeping plan to the state income tax, a move that would generate an additional $260 million in one-time windfall revenue.

BACKS UNRUH

Miller thus threw his support to a proposal advocated by a coalition led by Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, and including most Republicans in the lower house.

Although the governor does not like the proposal, he has indicated he will accept it. If the rest of the Senate follows Miller's lead, the plan could form the basis of a settlement ending the legislature's money-and-politics deadlock.

Brown wants to use accrual—a system which permits receipts to be put on the books before the money is actually received—on most state revenue except for the income tax.

The governor's plan would provide $250 million in one-shot "paper" revenue, enough to wipe out a predicted deficit and balance the $4.6 billion budget without an election-year tax increase.

INCOME TAX

Unruh and Assembly Republican leaders want to include the income tax. Unruh wants to use the windfall revenue to eliminate the need for a $295 million higher education construction bond issue. The GOP lawmakers want to use it to establish a reserve fund to head off the need for a tax increase next year.

Miller said he favors Unruh's approach. But state Finance Director Hale Champion, a top Brown adviser, has said the bond issue is a must, whether the income tax is accrued or not.

Miller said he would prefer to use any additional windfall revenues to finance construction at the University of California, state colleges and junior colleges on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The senator is the author of legislation to convert college construction to a pay-as-you-go plan through the use of tidelands oil revenue beginning next year. But previously, he had said one more bond issue was needed to keep college construction going until the new plan was in operation.

If the stalemate over the budget and the accrual plan for balancing it is broken, the legislature could begin the drive for adjournment.

OTHER ISSUE

However, at least one other issue—constitutional revision — is blocking a quick end to the session.

The Assembly passed a comprehensive overhaul of four articles of the state's archaic and rambling Constitution. But a Senate committee last week cut out most of the reforms proposed in the measure, drafted by a 60-member citizens committee.

Some key assemblymen say they will continue to fight for the original version of the constitutional reform and will oppose adjournment until the measure is enacted.

Senate leaders, such as Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-West Point, on the other hand, say they will not go along with "hasty" revision of the state's basic law.

But most lawmakers are anxious to end the session so they can return to their home districts to campaign for the June 7 primary election, now just a little more than a month away.

Patrick Sticks To Guns In Condemning Polling

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

William Penn Patrick, a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said Monday political polls were a threat to democracy.

Patrick held a news conference in Los Angeles with his attorney, Melvin Belli, and said he filed an answer in San Francisco to a suit brought against him by Mervin Field and the California Poll.

Field charged Patrick, a Tiburon cosmetic manufacturer, with damaging his reputation.

Patrick said the suit had forced him to become an unwilling "crusader for the little man to warn the public of the gimmicks of polls."

He claimed previously that Field conducted a false and misleading poll in behalf of former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher. The charges led to the suit by the pollster.

Patrick repeated the allegation yesterday, charging that the poll had been purchased by Christopher for $16,000. He said the timing of the poll, released around Feb. 15, was designed to influence either Christopher or Ronald Reagan, another GOP candidate, to drop out of the race.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty claimed that the California Democratic Council made "communism" an issues in the gubernatorial campaign.

Yorty, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said the council brought the issue into the campaign by "suggesting we get out of Viet Nam on Communist Party terms."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, State Controller Alan Cranston, and Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson also drew criticism yesterday.

Spencer Williams, Republican candidate for attorney general, said in San Jose that Brown should "alter his course of premeditated irresponsibility and face up to the awful truth of his own record."

In San Francisco, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor Lloyd Hand, former protocal chief in the nation's capitol, said Democrats should not "embarass" their party by foting for Anderson.

Hand, who opened his Northern California campaign headquarters in San Francisco Monday, said Anderson "demonstrated his inability to hold the reins of government."

San Jose Mayor Joe L. Pace, seeking the GOP nomination for state controller, charged incumbent Cranston with failing to act "in the growing tax assessment scandal."

Early Pension Bill Signed For Police

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Police officers, covered by the state employes' retirement system, may now take their pensions when they are 50 years old. The previous minimum was 55.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday signed into law a bill by Assemblymen Richard J. Donovan, R-Chula Vista, and John Quimby, D-San Bernardino, reducing the minimum age.

News Union Men In Conference

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of 10 newspaper unions journey to City Hall today to explore with Mayor John V. Lindsay ways of ending a nine-day strike against the yet-to-be-published papers of the World Journal Tribune Corp.

The mayor, who summoned them, was expected to try to get the unionists to warm up to his idea for a fact-finding panel.

Foreign Car Stolen

David W. Walker reported to San Rafael police yesterday that his 1966 Triumph sedan had been stolen while parked outside his home at 175 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, the preceeding night.

AWAY FROM IT ALL-

Some Unusual Lighthouse Keeping On Angel Island

By BETTY FROST

Many a Marin matron, feeling hemmed in by the demands of suburbia, longs to "get away from it all." . . . This is what it might be like . . .

Living on the outer edge of Marin in a sylvan atmosphere with an incomparable marine view and no neighbors within a mile is a serene woman for whom frenetic community involvements seem as remote as the six-acre rock in Alaskan waters where she formerly made her home.

Mrs. Trueman Cook is the wife of the last lighthouse keeper on the Pacific Coast. And her home is at Point Blunt on the southernmost tip of Angel Island. Most of Angel Island is in Tiburon but Pt. Blunt is just outside the border and is technically in San Francisco. Her husband has spent 32 years as a keeper in the lighthouse service.

As the civilian keepers reach retirement age, U.S. Coast Guard personnel take over their functions which have been considerably changed in recent years due to automation. Mr. Cook works at the low, square watch room high atop Pt. Blunt, where he also supervises the unmanned lighthouses at Southampton Shoal and Point Stuart and maintains a visibility watch on the southeast lighthouse on Alcatraz, and it keeps him too busy to be concerned with the fact that he is among the last of a vanishing breed.

"There are pressures for Mr. Cook, but not for me," says his wife.

The Pt. Blunt light station is staffed by men from the U.S. Coast Guard base at Yerba Buena Island. A 20-minute ride on Coast Guard launch takes the Cooks to Yerba Buena, and they also can drive a truck across Angel Island to take the state park ferry at Hospital Cove.

"MY LIFE IS FAR less isolated here than at other stations," says Mrs. Cook. "There are 11 families now living at the state park." And she can get to Tiburon by the ferry and occasionally goes to San Francisco. She seemed especially pleased to have visitors the day of our interview. Pt. Blunt light station is not open to the public. Any personal company which the Cooks might have there is rather hard to arrange, since they are dependent for transportation upon the U.S. Coast Guard launch and its schedule, geared to shift changes for the lighthouse crew.

The couple came to Angel Island in August, 1962, after other posts in the 12th Coast Guard District and a long stay on Sentinel Rock, 42 miles from Juneau, Alaska. "It might as well have been 4,200 miles," says the pleasant gray-haired woman.

During their years on Sentinel Island, supplies and mail came once a month. They ordered their clothes by mail from a Seattle store and lived off the land as much as possible. Mr. Cook fished for salmon. They had crab and clams and delicious wild berries, she said. Even their Labrador dog ate salmon, which Mrs. Cook canned in the season when it was plentiful. During the short growing season they had flower and vegetable gardens. The lady of the lighthouse said she learned to make bread, although her first attempts were disappointing, "and we had some very well-fed seagulls" who ate the remains.

The Cooks have two sons and a daughter, all grown, and five grandchildren. Mrs. Cook used the Calvert home study method to teach her daughter, who did not attend a formal school until their return to California.

"My daughter was a good student and in spite of the limited opportunities, she was on the national honor roll in high school," Mrs. Cook said, her eyes shining with pride.

THE BEAUTIFULLY equipped kitchen in the spotless six-room cottage built at Pt. Blunt by the Coast Guard in 1960 is a source of special pleasure to Mrs. Cook. There were many years when she did not have all the appliances which are taken for granted in this country. The electric current used at Sentinel Rock ruled out standard washing machines, dryers, refrigerators, freezers and electric stoves. "We longed for television," she said, "but now we find we don't like it too much," Mrs. Cook remarked.

A native of San Francisco, the former Ruth Inglis has lived all of her life near the water. She and her husband love to watch the boats on the bay, and try to identify the passing parade of ships. However, in her opinion, "water is all right for transportation, but not for pleasure."

Since the official opening of the San Francisco Bay yachting season Sunday, the men in the watch room will be keeping an alert lookout on weekends. Racing yachtsmen, who often consider Pt. Blunt a miniature "Tierra del Fuego," making a comparison with the treacherous waters off Cape Horn, may

THOUGH SHE seemingly has all the comforts of suburbia, Mrs. Trueman Cook lives a remote life at Pt. Blunt lighthouse on Angel Island, nearly at the center of the Bay Area's millions. Once every two weeks she boards the Coast Guard launch to get provisions in San Francisco to cook for her husband, who is the last lighthouse keeper on the Pacific Coast. Here she crochets, a skill she taught herself in lonely months on Sentinel Island, Alaska.

Youngster Sure That Grown-Ups Would Never Buy From Fat Rack

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teen-age questions to Youth Asked For It, care of Helen Help Us! the Independent-Journal.

DEAR HELEN:

You hardly never have much about us in your column. Please do! — THE HOPSCOTCHERS (KIDS UNDER 12)

DEAR HOPSCOTCHERS:

"Sorrybouthat"—and to show I really mean it, here's a whole column for the "little" league.—H.

DEAR MRS. BOTTEL:

I am not exactly skinny, but I'm not that fat. It makes me mad when my mother takes me shopping and they always bring us to the "chubby" dresses. Don't people that make clothes know we don't like to be called "chubby?" Why don't they get another name for them? I bet grown-ups would never buy clothes if they had to go to the "fat" rack.—MARY JANE.

DEAR MARY JANE:

You are so right! There's no reason why clothes can't be labeled "-X" or "fuller-cut" for the "not exactly skinny" crowd. Or . . . Suggestions, anyone?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have always tried to say hello to Paul, but old as he is, he says girls are his enemies. One day this mean boy starts hitting me with his glove so I start socking him and he throws me on the floor. Then Paul starts hitting him and chases him away. But he still won't speak to me. Mrs. Helen, how can you talk to a boy if girls are his enemies?—HELPLESS.

DEAR HELPLESS:

Be a friendly enemy until time takes care of the problem. He'll be sitting on your doorstep within a year. Wanta bet?—H.

DEAR MRS. B.:

My family is happy and hardly ever fights. I thought everybody was until my friend invited me to spend the night. Her parents were fighting, the house was a mess and the kids didn't look too happy or clean.

While we were in bed my friend told me her folks were getting a divorce. I felt like crying because she was crying. I didn't know much about divorces until then and I think they're just terrible.

Ever since I've been especially nice to my friend, but she looks like a sad beagle. Why don't they let the kids take part of saying something in the Divorce Court? They should think how bad the children feel, and maybe know how they want to run away or die or something, and then maybe the Divorce Court would go out of business. —LUCKY, SAD AND MAD.

P.S. I'm 11. Please correct my spelling. Thank you.

DEAR HELEN:

I am 10. I have an older brother, 17, and everything I could want, but I have a problem. Anything that goes wrong, guess who gets blamed? If something is lost, or messed up, or goes out of whack; or if there's mud on the floor or fingermarks on doors. Everything—it's always me. Why?—BLAMED.

DEAR BLAMED:

You're the youngest, honey, and therefore the most likely suspect. So you're "guilty until proven innocent." It isn't quite fair, but it happens in most families . . . as our 11-year-old Suzie can tell you.

(After reading your letter, I've decided to reform. Hope it has the same effect on your folks.)—H.

DEAR HELEN:

There are six girls at school who are always getting angry with each other, even if we run around together. We pair off, and talk about the rest, but we can't keep the same friend, even a week. It's two and two and two, and always feuds. What causes this? — CAN'T KEEP A FRIEND

DEAR CAN'T:

To pair off and feud is part of growing up. The cause? Jealousy, unsureness, competition, immaturity, and the need to have one best friend. This "banty hen" stage wears off in high school.—H.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPING—

Mrs. Cook is an avid reader, and a regular patron of the Tiburon branch of the Marin Public Library. She is particularly interested in local history and the history of the West. She also has always enjoyed gardening, although this activity is curtailed because of a hip injury she suffered a year ago. She takes great delight in a family of seals which she observes at play below her island home, and has befriended a deer, which comes at her whistle, and answers to the name of "Pete." Pete considers oranges a delicacy, and is partial to all kinds of fruit, which he takes from her hand.

THERE ARE NO last-minute trips to the supermarket for forgotten items for the "lighthousekeeper." She shops once every two weeks, going to Yerba Buena by launch, thence to the commissary at the Presidio to select a fortnight's provisions. Mail is received twice a week.

The great fear in this kind of isolated life is illness or accident, she explained. Mrs. Cook suffered a sudden and severe illness on Angel Island last year and found that the Coast Guard, which rescues everyone else, also takes care of its own. She was taken to the shore on a stretcher by Coast Guardsmen, and since the stretcher was too wide for the cabin of the boat, it was strapped on top. An ambulance met the boat at Tiburon and she was admitted to Marin General Hospital. Now recovered, she finds amusement in recalling the incident.

Inside the neat home, Mrs. Cook displayed mementoes of their previous stations — pictures of the more traditional if less comfortable cylindrical lighthouses where Trueman Cook had duty. A particular treasure is a picture of Mr. Cook with the late Rev. Bernard Hubbard, the famed "glacier priest," whom they knew well in Alaska.

She casually called attention to the small suitcase near her bed. "We are required to keep a suitcase packed and ten days' provisions on hand at all times in case of any emergency," she said. Questioned as to whether this made her nervous, she shrugged, "We are used to it. It is a life like any other life."

STILL WANT to get away from it all, suburbanites?

OH, THAT WEDDING

Keeping List To 'Close Friends' Size

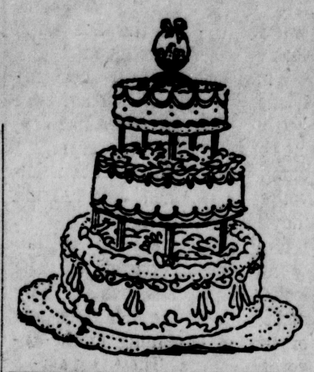
WASHINGTON (UPI) —A dozen attendants will precede Luci Johnson down the aisle when she weds Patrick J. Nugent Aug. 6 in ceremonies that certainly will be among the most spectacular ever seen in the capital.

Luci's older sister, Lynda Bird, will be her maid of honor; Mrs. James Ray of Hale Center, Tex., will be matron of honor. The list of 10 bridesmaids made public by the White House over the weekend is liberally sprinkled with teen-agers, mostly old friends from Texas, though Luci has protested the label of "teen-aged bride."

She will be 19 on her wedding day and Pat will be 23.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, the First Lady's press secretary, said about a thousand invitations will be mailed for the wedding at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the nation's largest Roman Catholic church and the seventh largest church in the world.

President and Mrs. Johnson were having trouble keeping the wedding down to the "close and family friends" size. There were questions, too, whether the White House will be big enough for the indoor reception the Johnsons plan after the ceremonies.



Luci has made it clear she wants a national wedding. But Washington consultants describe the size of the bridal party, which will include 11 ushers, as "sensational."

The President, who prefers business suits on most public occasions —even at his own inauguration, might be expected to show up at his daughter's wedding in morning coat and striped trousers.

The best man will be the bridegroom's father, Jerry P. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill. He will be standing in for Pat's brother, Marine Lt. Gerard Nugent Jr., 27, who is serving in Viet Nam. Lt. Nugent's wife, Phyllis, will be a bridesmaid.

Mrs. Azevedo, member of the Marin County Planning Commission, will speak on housing density; Mr. Joske will speak on parks and recreation; Mrs. Evans will talk about the work of the Louise A. Boyd Science Museum in educating children on conservation, and Mrs. Donnelly will describe the work of the Marin Conservation League.

The executive board will meet at 11 a.m., to be followed by the business meeting of the club at 1 p.m.

After the program, tea will be served by Mesdames A. P. Buhman, Marion Shirley, Ray Sollman, George A. Sweeney and Orpha Smith.

COUNCIL ASKING TO OPEN STREETS

Baar Hits State Highway Work As Cause Of Traffic Congestion

The San Rafael City Council wants the State Division of Highways to provide connections to two streets that were closed off by construction of the new southbound Highway 101 on-ramp last fall.

The streets are Francisco Boulevard West and Irwin Street, south of the viaduct.

Councilmen said last night that closing of the two city streets has created a hardship on a segment of the population and a traffic problem in the Lincoln Avenue-Second Street area.

Councilman Louis H. Baar said the highway division created the problem with its project "and we're stuck with it. Let's ask them to fix up the monster they created."

The council unanimously passed a resolution requesting the highway division to start planning for direct connection from the Lincoln Avenue-Second Street area to Francisco Boulevard West and Irwin Street.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles showed drawings of his proposal to re-establish one-way traffic on Francisco Boulevard eastbound and on Irwin Street southbound.

The highway division proposed a connection from the on-ramp to Rice Lane, which would run south of the existing Francisco Boulevard West, Rawles reported. But, Rawles said, the division didn't want to provide a connection to Irwin Street because it involves crossing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Overruled the planning commission to grant Richard M. Lewis permission for a 20-foot high, free-standing identification sign for a dry cleaning shop at 118 Bellam Boulevard. The vote was 4-1, with Councilman Charles W. Aby dissenting.

2. Appointed Roy M. Michael, president of Royce Finance Plan, who was selected by Dr. Aby, to serve on the charter revision committee, and postponed action on appointment of a member of the library board.

3. Passed to print an ordinance designating fire zones to follow use rather than zoning, and setting the area between Second Street and Fifth Avenue and between Irwin and E streets as Fire Zone 1, the most restrictive.

4. Approved plans and specifications for storm drain installations on Fourth Street at A Street and Lootens Place and set May 16 at 8 p.m. for opening of bids.

5. Unanimously voted to ban parking from 4 to 6 p.m. on Lincoln Avenue, between Second and Pacheco streets.

6. Voted 4-1 to prohibit northbound left turns off Lincoln Avenue at Fourth Street, Fifth and Mission avenues. Dr. Aby dissented.

7. Approved installation of four-way stop signs at Vistawood Way and Ridgwood Drive, after receiving a recommendation from the traffic committee for stop signs on Vistawood and a request from residents of the areaf or stop signs on Ridgewood.

8. Approved installation of a stop sign for southbound traffic on Rice Lane at the DuBois Street extension.

9. At request of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, agreed to re-establish all-day parking on Lindaro Street from Second Street to Albert Lane, now a two-hour parking zone, on an experimental basis.

10. Approved six change orders involving construction at the new city hall, four adding $573.87 to the cost and two changes resulting in $210 in credits, and permitted the contractor Wright and Oretsky to substitute Rafael Floor Covering for Okulove Floors as one subcontractor. This brought to 17 the number of change orders on the city hall.

11. Approved the final map of a nine-lot subdivision planned by Arthur C. Nicolaisen at the end of Reservoir Road.

12. Passed to print amendments to the business license ordinance, allowing only annual payment of license fees and eliminating six-month and quarterly payments.

13. Received a request from R. L. Pardini of Perma-Bilt Development Corp. to consider joint participation with the county, Dixie School District and Perma-Bilt to extend Las Gallinas Avenue to provide access from Lucas Valley to the Northgate Shopping Center.

14. Postponed for two weeks action on a planning commission recommendation to hire a consultant to revise the city zoning ordinance, either the Institute for Planning and Development of San Francisco or Warren W. Jones and Associates of Berkeley.

15. Took no action on a claim by Richard L. Law of 122 Palm Avenue for $40 he spent for spraying to protect his home against elm beetles. Law claimed the city failed to spray its trees in front of his house, causing the infestation of beetles.

16. Referred to the city's insurance carrier a claim from Mrs. Eleanor Kasnoff of 15 Carlson Avenue, San Anselmo, for $10,000 for injuries reportedly suffered in a traffic accident at Lincoln Avenue and Second Street Feb. 21. Mrs. Kasnoff claimed the city failed to have a warning sign or barrier at an abutment at the south side of Second Street. City Engineer Ely Caillouette said the state still had jurisdiction over the area at the time of the accident.

18. Postponed until Monday decision on replacement of a police patrol car which was damaged recently.

19. Agreed with a complaint by Councilman Harry A. Barbier that hazardous conditions exist at the old Coleman School on Grand Avenue, and that owners of the property should have the windows boarded up.

20. Received a report that R. L. Thompson, operator of an auto wrecking yard at 51 Jordan Street, is operating at the former United Ambulance building at 615 Fourth Street in violation of the zoning ordinance, and authorized City Atty. David Menary Jr. to file a complaint against him.

Drowsy Driver Gets Slightly Hurt Nose

Daniel B. Hallinan, 17, of 61 Peninsula Road, Belvedere, suffered a bruised nose when his car struck a parked car on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, just east of McAllister Avenue, Kentfield, at 5:45 a.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Highway patrol officers reported that Hallinan had fallen asleep at the wheel. The parked car was registered to Jerry N. Morgan of 80 Broadmoor Avenue, San Anselmo. Hallinan was treated at Marin General Hospital.

San Rafal Opens Bids On Furniture

The San Rafael City Council got a new batch of bids for furniture for the new city hall last night, from 13 bidders and covering baout 200 items such as various desks, chairs and files.

The council referred the bids to Milton Schwartz, who is in charge of furnishings design for the new city hall, and set a special meeting for 8 p.m. next Monday to award contracts.

The first bids were rejected three weeks ago after some bidders claimed they did not have time to prepare their bids and objected that specifications limited competition.

Councilmen also objected then to specifications that called for six chairs which retail at $980 each for lobby furniture. The city did not seek bids on lobby furniture this time.

Administrative Asst. John T. Goodale said it will be a sizeable job to tally the bids which were opened yesterday afternoon, because the bids were made "item by item" and there were more than 200 items.

Some firms bids on only a few, some on half the items and others on more, Goodale said.

Among firms bidding was California Correctional Industries, operated by the State Department of Corrections, including a wood office furniture factory at San Quentin Prison.

Other bidders were Mo Dorman and Co., Robert Morry Inc., TAB Sales, Ray's Office Machine Services, Paul Zell Designs, Stevenson's Inc., A. Lietz Co., M. G. West Co., Frederick Post Co., James Hill and Co., Marin Office Equipment Co., and Western Contract Furnishers.

The council also opened six bids on a drainage correction project on Magnolia and Palm Avenues, with the cost to be shared half-and-half by the city and the Dominican Convent.

Maggiora and Ghilotti of Corte Madera was low bidder at $16,038, on the recommendation of Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles, who said he wanted to determine whether the firm had all the necessary licenses for the job.

Six Bids Received For Road Work

Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael was apparent low bidder at $58,305.65 for the extension of Civic Center Drive northward to the Terra Linda interchange in bidding at the Civic Center yesterday.

The were six other bids submitted, ranging up to $84,754.

Award To Kiwanis

Kiwanis International has been presented a Freedom Foundation Distinguished Service Award for its "Freedom Leadership Program" it has been announced by Joseph E. Saccone, president of the Kiwanis Club of San Rafael.

City Denies Utility Change On San Pedro

The San Rafael City Council last night stuck to a policy of "streamlined" utilities along San Pedro Road, rather than undergrounding planned by Marin County.

Supervisors requested that the council approve undergrounding in the city portion of the project, about 500 feet.

Undergrounding along the full stretch has been estimated to cost $48,000 more than the "streamlined" system, which is partial undergrounding with metal poles down the center island.

Councilman Louis H. Baar said the additional cost would be "a waste of money."

If the entire San Pedro Road project were to have underground utilities, "the city would get stuck for all the cost in areas like Loch Lomond," Councilman Fred E. Jensen noted. "It would cost a fortune."

"It's no use undergrounding a four-lane highway," said Councilman Harry A. Barbier.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said he didn't think the council's decision would hold up the project.

Sentence Date Set In Beating Case

Michael Pardee, 21, San Anselmo musician, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor child-beating. Sentencing was scheduled for 3 p.m. May 24.

Pardee, of 181 Oak Avenue, originally faced a felony charge in the April 4 injuring of his 8-month-old daughter, Lisa. He pleaded to the lesser offense prior to the preliminary hearing yesterday.

Hot Water Set For Astronauts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Astronauts on the upcoming Apollo moon projects can look forward to hot water with their meals, something unheard of in Mercury and Gemini crewmen's diets.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief of center medical programs of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said that the dried food will be reconstituted with hot water rather than the cold water used for previous meals.

Dr. Berry explained that hot food requires less energy to digest than cold food.

County May Curb Felling Of Trees

An ordinance that would require property owners to get a permit before cutting any tree on their property is being studied by Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker.

Zucker told the planning commission yesterday the county has no control of trees on private property. "I feel it a large problem," Zucker said.

Commissioner Michael Praszker agreed that it was a "knotty one" at least.

Zucker said the ordinance would not ban tree cutting, but would regulate it on a permit basis.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

1. Postponed, over the protest of Alan Rosenberg representing Romac-Pacific, consideration of architectural supervision for a garage at Almonte Boulevard and Shoreline Highway. The commission wanted to know Mill Valley's views, since the garage would be close to the city. Rosenberg conceded that Mill Valley would oppose the plan since it had been against an earlier version, but the commission continued consideration to May 16 just the same.

2. Postponed indefinitely consideration of a change in the planned industrial zone requested by the Marin County Redevelopment Administration to allow industrial development in the zone without the permit procedure.

3. Approved tentative map of Terra Linda Terrace, a 17-lot tract planned on seven acres by Las Palmas Construction Co. at Mahogany and Butternut Drives in Terra Linda. One condition of approval was that the firm seek annexation of the entire parcel to the Terra Linda Community Services District. There are 4.8 acres now outside the district.

4. Postponed consideration of architectural supervision for a motel, coffee shop and cocktail lounge near Commodore Helicopters on Richardson Bay, planned by Commodore Properties.

5. Set hearing May 16 on rezoning of the Muir Woods Park area, where residents want a zone that will require large lots.

6. Postponed to May 16 consideration of development plans for the Lucas Green shopping center at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road.

7. Approved a sub division asked by B. M. Messinger between Cabin and Marin avenues in Tamalpais Valley, with condition that a 20-foot-wide access road be provided.

8. Approved 5-1, with Commissioner William F. Upton dissenting and Commissioner Claude Stoller abstaining, plans for a facade on the Marin Garden Apartments to cover one building backing on Highway 101 south of Corte Madera. Commissioners earlier voted down a proposal for a mansard roof on one side of the building.

9. Adjourned at 3 p.m.

The dinner will start with a no-host cocktail hour at 7 p.m.

Officially, the head-hunting has ended among the Naga tribesmen of India. But rumors to the contrary persist. Heads are important to the Naga (other's, that is) because the Naga believe that possessing the head transfer's the victim's strength to the hunter.

'MOTHER OF US ALL'

Music Views Told By Virgil Thompson

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Composer-critic Virgil Thomson had many interesting things to say about music but not much about his own style of writing in a press conference yesterday afternoon at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francsico.

Denying the influence of other composers on his style, he said, "I don't have a style."

The near 70-year-old celebrity is in the Bay Area in connection with the northern California premiere of his opera, "The Mother of Us All," with libretto by Gertrude Stein. It is to be presented Sunday at 8 p.m. in Angelico Hall as the final program of the season of the Marin Symphony Orchestra, assisted by the College of Marin Opera Workshop.

"The Mother of Us All," he explained, grew out of his desire to write an opera about American politics, preferably in the 19th Century when "cities were like villages and village people were all mixed up with celebrities."

"It was Gertrude Stein," he said, "who decided it should be a feminist opera." She also decided it would center around the career of Susan B. Anthony and the winning of political rights for women, and she chose the other historical characters in the opera, who include Daniel Webster, John Quincy Adams, Ulysses S. Grant, and Lillian Russell.

Asked about his reputation for preferring the simplest possible techniques, he said he always does that wherever it is suitable, as it is in this opera where both words and music are plain and straightforward.

In a lecture last night at Temple Rodef Sholom in Santa Venetia, he explained further that the music is basically 19th Century grassroots music built around hymns, ditties, sentimental romances and military marches.

"Characterization is the essence of opera," declared Thomson.

Regarding contemporary music, he commented, "Some of the repertory is pretty hard to take, but it possibly communicates on some level."

Of special interest, since the College of Marin Opera Workshop is assisting in the production of the opera, was his appraisal of college worskshops in comparison with the small opera houses of Europe.

"They do some of the same kind of thing in bringing opera to small towns and cities and offering opportunities for training. I'm all for the big opera workshop movement," he stressed." But it is very different from what is done in the small opera houses of Europe, and it is completely unknown there."

Thomson thinks the writing of opera under commisison is "a little bit under the domination of the Ford Foundation, particularly in literary subject matter. Their tendency has been toward social content prose, something on the Arthur Miller side. Unless opera is the poetic theater, there is no future for it."

He maintained that the most perspicacious composers do not get involved in this kind of thing.

Thomson's next opera, commisisoned by the Metropolitcan Opera and the Kousevitzsky Foundation for performance in about 1968-69, is about Lord Byron.

Marinero Plan Wins Approval From Tiburon

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night approved development plans for a 38-unit Marinero Heights project with two exceptions.

Chairman Stephen H. Nash reported the commission asked the developers, Tiburon Development Associates, to redesign 10 carports fronting Marinero Drive so that cars would not back into the street. The commission also required the developer to have the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. place lines underground.

The company plans 10 duplexes, four triplexes and six single-family dwellings between Marinero Circle and Ranch Road.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

1. Granted Thomas J. Belton of Belvedere permission for a pizza parlor at Main Street and Tiburon Boulevard.
2. Approved a recommendation by the design review committee that Belvedere Land Co. be allowed to construct a one-story office building on Beach Road next to the Post Office, which will house branches of the Marin County Library and the Novato Savings and Loan Assn.
3. Heard City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose review a new draft of a proposed commercial sign ordinance. Discussion was postponed.

Lack Of Toll Fee Ends Boys' Trip

Five runaway Seattle boys were held today by San Francisco authorities after their truck was stopped at the Golden Gate Bridge when they couldn't pay the toll.

The California Highway Patrol said the teen-age boys drove up to the toll plaza about 9 p.m. Saturday. When they gave conflicting stories about their destination, the toll plaza officer called the patrol, who turned them over to the San Francisco Youth Guidance Center.

The boys, Richard E. Reynolds and John F. Wall, both 15, Ronald W. Hansen, 16, and Gene W. Triplett and Gordon A. McNair, both 17, had driven from Seattle in a truck belonging to young McNair's father, the patrol said.

Heavy January Snow, Pain Cripples Football Player

By HANS KRAUS, M.D.
(Second in series)

Steve was a big strong boy, an athlete and an all-A student. At 17, he weighed 220 pounds and was a much-sought after football player. He played three years of varsity ball at a good eastern school.

Then he graduated and entered a training program with a big manufacturing firm. A son of impoverished parents, he was eager and competitive and he worked hard.

The competitive pace quickened and the demands of his job increased. He had to give up running in the morning and workouts in a gym. By the time he was 35, he was vice president.

He grew tense without knowing it. His weight crept up to 250 pounds. His panting breath told him he was getting out of shape —but everyone knew him as the former terror of the football field. Then it happened simply and undramatically.

It was a heavy January snow —two feet deep. He had to shovel a path down the driveway to the street. It seemed like hard work, but he stuck to it. Finished, he felt a muscle twinge low in his back.

He ignored it, but by the time he had driven to the office, he had trouble getting out of the car. There was a sudden stabbing pain in the lower back. Stooped, he struggled through the day. At home, it got worse and he went to bed. After two days flat on his back, he came to our clinic for help.

We found that his stomach muscles and hip flexors were weak and his hamstrings were stiff and tense. When I told him this, he protested. "Doctor, I'm an athlete. I played football. I'm strong as an ox."

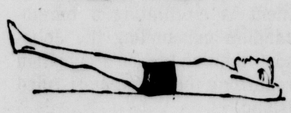
"You were an athlete," I replied, "and if you're strong as an ox, why can't you shovel the driveway without straining your back?"

With proper exercise, he recovered, but he didn't have to fail the test of daily activity in the first place.

We have developed six simple tests that can tell you whether you are a prime candidate for back trouble. Try them out and see for yourself. If you have back trouble now, or other problems, check with your doctor before taking these tests.

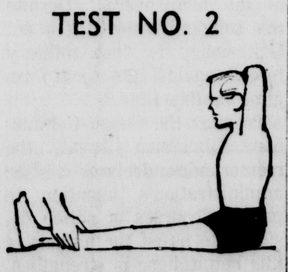
First, make yourself comfortable. Take off your shoes and really relax. Don't rush and don't push. Do not strain.

TEST NO. 1



Lie flat on your back on the floor with your hands clasped behind your neck and with your legs straight and touching. Keep your knees straight and lift your feet so that your heels are 10 inches above the floor. If you can hold that position for 10 seconds, you've passed this test. It means that your hip flexors have sufficient strength to carry your body.

TEST NO. 2



Lie flat on the floor again with your hands clasped behind your neck. Have someone hold down your legs by grasping your ankles or hook your ankles under a heavy chair that won't topple. Now, roll up into a sitting position. You can pass this test by doing one sit up. It shows whether your hip flexors and your stomach muscles combined are strong enough to handle your body weight.

TEST NO. 3

Again, lie flat on the floor with your hands behind your neck, your ankles held down. But this time keep your kees in bent position, heels close to buttocks and feet flat on the floor. Roll up into a sitting position to pass this test. It gauges the strength of your stomach muscles.

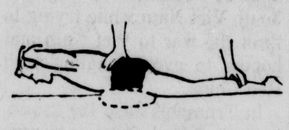
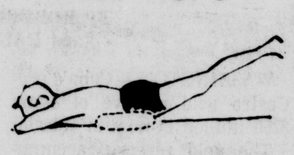
TEST NO. 4



Turn over on your stomach. Put a pillow under your abdomen. Clasp your hands behind your neck and lie flat on the floor. Have your helper hold the lower half of your body steady by placing one hand on the small of your back and the other on your ankles. Now lift the upper part of your body and hold it steady for 10 seconds. It reveals whether your back muscles are strong enough.

TEST NO. 5



Stay on your stomach. Fold your arms under your head. Make sure the pillow is still under your abdomen. Have your helper now hold your back steady with both hands. Now lift your legs up, being sure to keep your knees straight, and hold the position for 10 seconds. This is a test of your low back muscles.

TEST NO. 6

Stand up straight and make sure your feet are together. Now relax, lean over and touch the floor with your fingertips without bending your knees. If you pass this test, it shows you have sufficient flexibility in your back muscles and your ham strings, the muscles in the back of your thighs. If you fail, it is because your muscles have become shortened and tense—not because your arms are too short or your legs too long. This is the last test.

How did you do? Be honest with yourself—because you are the only one who will lose or gain by it. If you passed all six Kraus-Weber tests, you meet the MINIMUM levels of MUSCLAR fitness.

That means you have enough strength and flexibility for your weight and height.

But if you failed even one of these tests, you should consider yourself below par — below par because one of the important muscle groups that help carry your body through life is too weak or too tense.

Evidence in the clinic shows that if you failed one or more of these tests, and you do not yet have back pain, the odds are excellent that you will suffer back pain in the future.

The tests were developed by Dr. Sonja E. Weber of Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital in New York City and myself. We were working in a clinic for children with bad posture—and we developed 15 tests to determine how bad posture is related to lack of musclar ability.

We took the six tests and applied them to patients in a special back clinic at the hospital in 1944, and they enabled us to diagnose not only when muscles were weak and tense, but what muscle groups were involved. Then we could prescribe certain exercises for those muscle groups.

In later articles, we will tell you what specific exercises to do to correct the problems uncovered by the tests.

The human body is a symphony of motion — bone and muscle in delicate interplay. But a tense and inactive life can weaken sections of it, and lead to the discordance of pain and disease.

Rights Commission To Discuss Bremond

The Marin County Human Rights Commission will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Civic Center to discuss the firing of Walter Bremond as director of community relations services for the county.

The commission is also to discuss appointment of commissioners in its reorganization under a new ordinance. The ordinance, which will not take effect for two weeks, reduced commission membership from 22 to nine.

TAM TRUSTEES SUPPORT CENTER

District's $6,000 Will Help Operate Study Center Two Nights A Week In Marin City

Trustees of Tamalpais High School District last night voted to contribute a maximum of $6,000 to the Marin City Study Center, after hearing the project has benefited district pupils.

Mrs. Ellen Binckley, chairman of the advisory board for the study center, told trustees that high school students within the district are benefiting directly from the center—"the students who are tutoring open up another avenue of learning for other students."

Recommending the financial contribution, James L. Pierce, director of instruction, reported the limited number of Tamalpais district students who need the help would be afforded "a much enriched opportunity" with increased financial aid.

The extra money will assist the study center to open two nights a week instead of one, and provide bus transportation for students from Marin City to Richardson Bay School. Mrs. Binckley told trustees that many Marin City girls were reluctant to walk home from the study center at night in the dark, and the bus would appreciably increase attendance.

The Tamalpais district's contribution is to demonstrate "local interest and support of this federally financed project." Supt. Chester G. Carlisle advised trustees that the contribution was an "appropriate" expenditure of district funds.

The board also voted to apply for federal funds for textbooks for visually handicapped students.

The district's building use policy was updated by trustees. The policy now bans organizational dances on school property, and adds specific restrictions.

District officials had discussed abandoning the rule that school facilities are not to be scheduled for use on Sundays, trustees were told, but it was decided to retain the rule. The only two exceptions are Sunday recreational swimming and Tamalpais High School graduations.

The Tamalpais High School District Board also:

1. Re-employed 276 certificated personnel, 24 of whom acquired tenure by the action.

2. Hired two new teachers: Mrs. Martha M. Myricks, a graduate of San Francisco State College, to teach English at Tamalpais High School, and Miguel A. Campas, a San Francisco State College graduate, to teach driver education for the district.

3. Accepted resignations of: Gordon Chan, Sir Francis Drake High School science teacher, who is leaving for a position with College of Marin; Nathelle D. Taylor, Drake social studies teacher, who is getting married this summer; Mrs. Betty Bailey, Tam High teacher who is leaving to take care of her infant son; Mrs. Lois Polanshek, Tam High physical education teacher, and Mrs. Clara L. Wheeler, home teacher, who is retiring.

4. Granted a three-week special leave to R. R. Genetti, Drake science teacher who will be one of 11 high school physics teachers selected from the nation to act as consultants for high school summer institutes in India. Genetti needed the leave for the last three weeks of the school year; the assignment will extend through July.

5. Learned that a meeting of high school and elementary trustees will be May 21 to hear about articulation programs.

6. Tabled until next meeting a request to waive the statute of limitations on a claim for personal injuries suffered during physical education by Ann Bastian of Belvedere, a Redwood senior.

7. Agreed to tour the new library at Drake High School on May 16 at 7 p.m. before the next board meeting.

Lafayette Man Condition Good

Dr. Herbert C. Enos of Lafayette was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital, recovering from a scalp wound received in a boating quarrel Sunday near Angel Island.

A prominent Piedmont builder, Dean Morrison, 58, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon after Enos, a 48-year-old psychiatrist, was allegedly struck with a boat hook after a near collision of the two men's boats near Hospital Cove.

Morrison is scheduled to appear in San Rafael Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Young City Council Urges Jobs For Teen-Agers During Summer

Expansion of San Rafael's program of summer employment for youth was urged yesterday by the city council.

It wasn't the regular council, though, but one made up of San Rafael and Terra Linda high school seniors, who took over the reins of government briefly during "Youth in Government Day," sponsored by the San Rafael Kiwanis Club.

The call for more jobs for teen-agers followed lengthy discussion of the availability of funds, kinds of work to be done, and levels of pay.

Student Mayor Christopher Taylor and fellow council members Karen Goldberg, Cris Owen, Rod Fenz and Jeff Heintz voted unanimously that the $5,000 proposed budget for this purpose be increased by the adult city council. The students noted that this represented an increase over last year's $3,500 for teen-age summer jobs, but were not satisfied that enough was being done.

Student Councilman Fenz also called on city departments to look into the hiring of students with "higher skills such as typing" for better paying jobs than provided by the Public Works Department's anti-litter cleanup program.

The 18 seniors chosen as city officials-for-a-day spent the morning with city department heads studying their operations. After lunch at Dominic's Restaurant, they heard students reports on the departments and conducted a council meeting.

Sausalitan On U.S. Grand Jury

Mrs. Marian L. Frick of 16 Bulkley Avenue, Sausalito, was sworn in yesterday as a member of a new Federal Grand Jury which is expected to look into anti-trust cases at the outset of its four-month term.

Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli swore in the jurors in San Francisco, and told them they would meet twice this month. Federal grand juries usually meet only once a month.

Two Novato Youths Finish Army Training

They are David Mull of 673 Orange Avenue and Kenneth Smith of 1 Oak Park Drive, both 1965 graduates of Novato High School. Mull and Smith entered the Army under the "buddy" system and are scheduled to attend aircraft maintenance school at Fort Rucker, Ala., after their two-week leave.

Completes Training

Philip L. Ferris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Ferris of 26 Alderney Road, San Anselmo, has completed eight weeks of Coast Guard recruit training at Alameda.

Corte Madera Budget Holds No Tax Hike

Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher last night handed town councilmen first copies of his proposed $748,008 budget for fiscal 1967 and said it would maintain this year's property tax rate of $1.04 per $100 assessed valuation.

Usher's budget runs $121,648 more than the $626,360 budget for this year. The increase is compensated by extensive use of gasoline tax and urban thoroughfare funds, he said.

PUBLIC WORKS

Largest budgeted increase, he said, is for the public works department $414,643 next year as compared to $221,413 this year. Most of this year's street improvements were done with funds carried over from the fiscal 1965 budget, he said.

Largest public works project planned is connection of Tamalpais Drive to Paradise Drive east of Highway 101 for $140,000. Another $11,300 would go for removal of curb ponds on Lakeside Drive and Mohawk Avenue in Madera Gardens.

Usher's budget calls for use of $58,373 ing as tax funds, plus al lof the city's remaining urban thoroughfare funds—$40,000.

PAYROLL UP

Usher said the city's annual payroll will increase by about $25,000 in fiscal 1967, but the fire department budget will drop by $24,770 and the building and grounds budget will drop by about $60,000.

He attributed the payroll rise to normal increments, plus the cost of living increases granted by the council last week. Fire department and building and grounds budgets were higher last year because of purchase of a new pumper and renovation of the town hall, he said.

For other revenue to the city, Usher said he expects $220,000 in sales tax and $10,000 in motel tax money.

The council made no comment on the budget last night. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst said he wants to organize council field trips for firsthand acquaintance with budget needs before setting formal budget hearings.

Kindness To Animals Noble But It Can Be Overdone

Kindness to animals is a noble thing, but it can be overdone. You can even kill an animal with too much "kindness."

The annual flood of baby animals is starting to come into the museum. They are usually dubbed "orphans" by their well-meaning finders, but a great percentage of them have anxious parents watching their offspring being removed from their natural habitat.

"Our sad experience with the baby Harbor Seal is an excellent example," says Mrs. Williams. The baby seal received wide publicity and was a highly appealing youngster. But she is dead. All the medical attention and intensive care by both the museum staff and the few "experts" on the raising of seals in the Bay Area could not combat the diseases to which she was exposed by artificial environment. Chances are, if she had been left where she belonged, she would be alive and healthy.

Deer are one of the most common "orphans" that well-meaning individuals adopt and attempt to raise. It is true that occasionally they are deserted by their mothers. This is usually due to a weakness in the infant which the mother can detect. Nature does not provide for weakness, and although it may seem cruel to us, it is often kinder in the long run.

But fawns are too often picked up the second they are seen and whisked away to a home where the human parents discover that raising a baby animal is not as much fun or as easy as one might think.

Birds are probably the most numerous victims and one of the most difficult to cope with. Nests do fall from trees or trees are cut down and occasionally prolonged disturbances will make a bird desert its young. But even if a bird has been touched by human hands, the parents will return and care for it.

If you spot a baby seal "abandoned" on the beach or a fawn "orphaned" in the hills, don't let kindness get the best of you. The baby animals may not be lost or abandoned at all and may have parents watching over it the very moment that you are picking it up out of kindness.

And that act of kindness may mean the end for the baby animal.

During a sample spring day last year, the Boyd Museum had 25 or 30 baby birds, four fawns, and five baby gray squirrels.

"This type of menagerie keeps the museum staff pretty busy," says Mrs. Williams. "So we do plead strongly that unless there is absolutely no alternative but death for the baby if left, please tell your children, friends and relatives to leave the wildlife where it belongs."

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

LITTLE BOY KEEPS SECRET TO HIMSELF

An intensive search by 100 men for a six-year-old boy ended where it began—safely under the child's own bed.

Police, firemen and volunteers looked high and low in the entire area of the lad's home in Bayville, N.Y. He had been reported missing at noon.

Late that night a policeman made a routine check under the bed—and there he was.

Earlier in the search his grandmother had looked under the bed and the youngster wasn't there. But the frightened boy kept his previous whereabouts a big secret.

Youngsters are often a mystery to parents and elders even when they don't disappear.

Why they are by turns friendly, close-lipped, delightful and "ornery" is something known to God alone.

Show love for children in a firm but compassionate manner. Then they are more likely to grow into that greatest mystery of all—a man or woman who is responsible, wholehearted and good.

"Train a boy in the way he should go; even when he is old, he will not swerve from it." (Proverbs 22:6)

Let me never lose patience with others, Lord, no matter how their actions provoke or baffle me.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The proposal of William M. Bennett of Kentfield, member of the public utilities commission and at the same time a candidate for nomination at the primaries for attorney general, that the "poor" get free public utilities, marks a new high in nonsense proposed by a political candidate.

As a member of the public utilities commission, Bennett is well aware of the fact that a utility, even though governed by state regulations, is entitled to a certain amount of profit. And no business makes a profit when it gives away services.

So what Bennett is doing, in effect, is suggesting that charges be imposed on the taxpayers to pick up the utility tab for the so-called "poor."

HE ADMITS this by saying that the proposal is "socialism in a sense, and let the PG&E pick up the money from fat customers like you and me."

Bennett should know what it is to be "fat." He has drawn $25,000 of taxpayers' money annually for several years as salary for being a member of the public utilities commission. But probably the rest of the customers of the utilities, after paying taxes for support of the commission, are not so fat, especially after April 15, the date of federal and state tribute contributions for support of governments advocating the philosophy of "give it all away."

Primarily, utilities concerns are financed through stock purchased by people who eke out enough from their earnings to make an investment. These investors expect a return on their money and are, under the system of free enterprise, entitled to such a return, as they have earned the money. Thus, Bennett's proposal is something like asking a bank to donate a portion of its savings investments to the "poor."

THERE IS NO definition of "poor" in the Bennett proposal, just as there is no definition of an accurate nature in the federal program which now is donating billions of dollars to eliminate poverty. The word "poor" is a relative term, and can apply to welfare recipients who squander donations from the taxpayers on jewelry, television, and other non-essentials before they pay their utility bills.

The word "poor" in fact, is a relative term. People who make a comfortable living by working are "poor" in relation to those who earn perhaps more than a comfortable living. But because an individual who earns a comfort or two after taxes has more than those who are living off subsidies from the taxpayer, Bennett feels the excess earned by those who may be considered "well-off" should be diverted to welfare channels for additional gifts to those who won't work for their lights and gas.

Generally, the state gives the welfare recipient enough to pay for his gas and lights. The taxpayer pays for them anyhow, so any additional gifts would be nothing but an added burden on the producer.

IF BENNETT had to work for a living in private enterprise instead of drawing $25,000 a year of the taxpayers' money, he might understand the difference between being at the public trough, and producing goods and services for the benefit of the economy.

Give San Anselmo Police Bouquets

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Please include this in your "bouquets."

A small burglary occured in my home, and within a few hours, the very efficient San Anselmo Police Department had the confession of the two young culprits, and the return of the stolen goods.

I wish to commend these two police officers for their prompt and courteous service — they did as good a job as would have been done by "77 Sunset Strip" or "The San Francisco Beat." Thanks, boys.

Taxpayer Revolt Is Suggested

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Having received notice of proeprty tax reappraisal from the county assessor today, I feel compelled to voice my indignation at the way we taxpayers are being treated. According to the assessor, if mine is any criterion, property values have been increasing at a rate in excess of 10 per cent per year since 1961 after allowance for depreciation.

In actual fact, values have generally been increasing at a rate of nearer 3-4 per cent per year, after depreciation. More recently, values have leveled off and are probably in the start of a period of decline.

At the present assessment and tax rate levels, a property owner can expect to pay the full price for his place purchased in 1961 all over again every 30 years. This is becoming confiscatory and must be brought to an abrupt halt right now.

Last year it was the citizens of Belvedere and Tiburon who were stabbed by over assessments, and thank the Lord they're still fighting the battle in the courts.

This year it is Ross Valley's turn, and those of us who feel this abuse must join together and perhaps join with southern Marin to let the taxing authorities know that we're completely fed up.

It may take an actual taxpayer's revolt; if necessary, we could withhold payment of property taxes next December and the following April we bring the county authorities to their collective knees.

It only costs 6 per cent in penalties, and the tax money you retain can earn up to 5 per cent at the bank, so that the net cost to the individual is only about 1 per cent of his taxes.

Right now the tax delinquency rate in the county is over 5 per cent. Think for a moment what might happen if that jumps to, say, 25 per cent. Think about it!

Many Back United Nations

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A recent letter to the editor regarding the United Nations pointed out that many elected and non-elected officials in Marin County support the United Nations.

This is indeed a fact of which the Marin chapter of the United Nations Assn. is justly proud.

The United Nations has also been supported by distinguished elected and non-elected officials throughout the world, including presidents Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson, the World Council of Churches, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Pope John XXII and Pope Paul VI who made the United Nations the focal point of the historic first papal visit to the United States.

To encourage and support the United Nations, the UNA of the USA welcomes to membership not only the many elected and unelected officials in its ranks but all citizens who are determined "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war . . . to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights . . . to establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom."

The above quotation from the preamble to the charter of the United Nations is the guiding promise for which the United Nations Assn. works. Anyone wishing to join the Marin chapter may do so by sending $7 for a single membership or $10 for a family membership to UNA, Marin, Box 277, Ross.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

ONE OF THOSE insufferable after-dinner speakers who never knew when to stop (and had then left the hall immediately) inspired Adlai Stevenson to bring the festivities to a more cheerful close with, "Gentlemen, Samson slew a thousand in a night with the jaw-bone of an ass. Our guest speaker has just put two thousand to sleep with the same implement and in only half the time."

This was a bit of the wit of Adlai Stevenson—extracted from his speeches by Bill Adler—and here are some others.

1. (In 1952) "I don't feel like a gift from Providence and I really don't believe I am. I feel very much like a corn-fed Illinois lawyer who's gotten into the big time unintentionally."

2. (Speaking about President Eisenhower). "Golf is a fine release from the tensions of office, but we are a little tired of holding the bag."

3. (In 1952) "I feel like the young man who was engaged to marry one of twin girls. Both were extraordinarily beautiful. His uncle asked him one day, 'When you want to kiss and hug your girl, how on earth do you tell them apart?' The young man grinned and replied fervently, 'Uncle, I don't even try!'"

PUNSTERS ON PARADE:

Heard about the horse who had his hair dyed? He signed up for the Kentucky Derby—and won under an assumed mane.

Teacher: What do two pints make? Pupil: A cavort.

'No Sanctuary' Policy Must Be Spelled Out For Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says "there is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

Does this mean that, if Red Chinese planes attack U.S. planes or forces in Viet Nam and then flee back to "sanctuary" in their homeland, American planes will pursue them and bomb them in Red China?

Maybe. But until this is spelled out further in words or deeds, what the State Department said will have to carry a question mark behind it.

IT IS now one war and 15 years later than the Korean war in which the American policy was not to do any fighting in or over Red China even though the Chinese invaded Korea massively under the label of "volunteers."

It was this policy which brought on the historic clash in 1951 between President Harry S. Truman, who wanted to avoid direct war with Red China, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who wanted to bomb it. Truman fired him finally.

In a basic sense Truman's position was similar to President Johnson's today.

TRUMAN was determined to resist North Korean Communist aggression against South Korea but if possible to limit the war to Korea since enlargement, through the involvement of Red China, might lead to World War III.

Johnson has been determined to resist the aggression of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese Communists against South Viet Nam while trying to limit the war to Viet Nam and hoping to avoid tangling with Red China.

In Truman's case the "sanctuary" of Red China was preserved and later a truce achieved, even though the Red Chinese were up to their necks in Korea.

FOR THE PAST 10 days the air war over North Viet Nam has been expanding dramatically, with U.S. fighter planes in a series of dogfights with Soviet-designed MIG-21s.

Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department press officer, was asked Tuesday if the Red planes had come into North Viet Nam from Chinese bases. He said "we have no information which would lead to such a conclusion."

But, explaining that he was repeating a position stated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the past, McCloskey said about the possibility the MIGs came from Red China: "There is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

THEN, HOWEVER, he declined to say whether the "no sanctuary" policy means American planes may chase enemy jets into Communist China if the Red craft flee across the frontier.

Until he is willing to say whether that's what it means, then what meaning does "no sanctuary" have at all, unless it's meant to make the Chinese think twice because as of now they don't know what Rusk has in mind?

It was last July 11 that Rusk said North Viet Nam's supporters "must take fully into account" that in the Viet Nam war "the idea of sanctuary is dead."

At that time other U.S. sources said Red China had been told those who might join in an attack on South Viet Nam could not expect immunity from reprisal.

At least saying there is no sanctuary in this war is further than the U.S. government was willing to go in the Korean War. But then the United States was far less equipped for a big war than now.

Cuba Gold Reserve Has Gone To Russia

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Cuba's pre-Castro gold reserve of some $250 million is now in Russia.

The gold reserve, accumulated by the non-Communist governments that preceded Fidel Castro, was transported to the USSR in Soviet ships over a period of months. Credited as being in charge of this tightly guarded operation was Alfredo Alphonse, close henchman of Castro, and the long mysteriously vanished "Che" Guevara.

Inside details have been revealed by a former high-placed Castro official who defected in Madrid. There have been a number of such defections abroad in recent months. A few have been revealed, but most are still unannounced for security reasons.

ACCORDING TO the defector's account, the $250 million Cuban gold reserve was "commandeered," in effect, by Moscow as payment on the huge quantities of weapons, food, and economic and industrial aid supplied to the Castro regime, which is known to be heavily in arrears on large debts owed the Soviet bloc.

Intelligence authorities estimate it's costing the Reds $1 million a day to keep Castro-ruled Cuba's grossly mismanaged and floundering economy afloat.

The defector said that some of the Cuban gold was used to finance espionage activities in the U.S.; some of the gold went for a deposit of five million in U.S. dollars in a Canadian bank to pay for machinery and parts urgently needed in Cuba.

Lazero Pena, long-time Cuban Communist and member of Castro's inner ruling clique, is in charge of subversive machinations in the Dominican Republic and Haiti, the defector said.

Campaign funds for former Dominican President Juan Bosch were being funneled through Organization International Travello (OIT), he said. Also, Castro labor leaders reputedly have established close ties with Dominican laborites through the leftist Federation of World Syndicates, with headquarters in Prague.

WHILE THE OFFICIAL account of Moscow's confiscation of Cuba's gold reserve has been shelved, the State Department is circulating a memorandum expounding the Johnson administration's position regarding the Communist-ruled island.

Prepared by Robert Sayre, deputy assistant secretary for inter-American affairs, the backstage document, titled "Statement on Cuban Policy," is being made available to key members of Congress and Latin American diplomats. The following points are stressed:

While the Castro regime is not currently deemed a "direct military threat to the U.S. or Latin America," it is considered a "focus of subversion in the hemisphere." Despite this subversive threat it is not U.S. policy to "use military force" against the Castro regime at this time.

To meet the Cuban Communist subversion threat, the memorandum declares it is the administration's intention to pursue "courses of action designed to assist the nations of this hemisphere in strengthening their ability to resist subversion rather than take any direct action against Cuba. . . . We intend to continue on this course in the conviction that it is the most effective means, under present circumstances, of attaining our objective of a free Cuba."

THE NAVY is setting up a surveillance for a freighter believed enroute to the U.S. with a cargo of 10,000 tons of Rhodesian chromite.

The ore, a vital ingredient in the manufacture of high-grade steel, reputedly is being transported in a Greek-owned ship due to arrive off the East Coast sometime next week. Its alleged destination is Mobile, Ala.

Plastic Bird Nest, Hospital Service And Income Tax Strain

The late Robert Benchley one time had to undergo an operation, the nature of which I have forgotten, if I ever knew. Soon after he recuperated he wrote a comical account of it entitled: "Speaking of Operations."

This he sold, probably for much more than the cost of the operation and the hospital bills.

I recently did a short hitch in Novato General Hospital. Not being as comical as Robert Benchley, I will not try to duplicate his treatise on his sickness.

I WOULD LIKE to make one observation. Novato Hospital has excellent service. Other hospitals may be bigger. Others may have better and more expensive equipment, or may be serviced by more doctors. But none can ever give better service, I believe.

Nurses, nurses aides, orderlies and volunteers are so busy that they are always darting in and out of the room. One just has to think of something one needs and someone is there to furnish it.

LOOKING OUT of my back window one day last week, I thought that my eyes must be playing tricks on me. A second glance confirmed what I had seen the first time.

A robin flew by, trailing plastic streamers up to a foot and a half long behind him.

In just a few minutes he went by again, trailing the plastic streamers. He gained speed and flew high up into a big pine tree across the street.

The robin would go into the tree, leave his load of plastic streamers and then fly into the yard next door to get more.

I remembered that the neighbors had just thrown their Christmas tree out by the garage where it stood, a forelorn looking object during the winter rains. The tree had been decorated with plastic streamers and as spring came, these fell off with the needles of the tree.

THIS SUPPLY of building materials was just too inviting for the robin. Trip after trip he made all morning and into the afternoon. He would fill his beak with 15 to 20 of these plastic ribbons and then streak off for his nest high in the pine tree, the plastic streaming behind him.

Up in the tree his mate was weaving the nest. She was unaccustomed to the use of such modern material, and occassionally she let a piece of it get away. It would come fluttering down to earth. Some of them she wove into the nest, but the long ends of them baffled her and they hung down.

As the afternoon sun swung around to hit the limb of the tree, there the mother robin sat in her nest—the gawdiest bird's nest I've ever seen. It glistened and gleamed in the sun. The wind fanned the streamers from it, making it a shimmering object high in the tree.

So it's come to that—plastic bird's nests.

WITH INCOME TAX behind us, everyone heaves a sigh of relief to get the yearly accounting done. We can sympathize with everyone who has to go through the annual ritual of paying tribute to the gods in Washington.

Somewhere in the back of our mind, we realized that this was the harvest season for the income tax consultants. We knew that this was the time of year when they made it, but big.

Little did we realize how it affected them physically and mentally. A sign on the Marin-Sonoma Income Tax Service in the Patio Building in Novato told the story.

The office was closed. On it was this sign:

"Gone to enjoy a long rest!

Birth Defects Strike One In 16, Meet Told

One child in 16 is born with a significant, and often preventable, birth defect, Dr. Virginia Apgar, birth defects specialist for the March of Dimes, told the Marin County chapter at its annual dinner last night at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael.

Almost all significant birth defects develop in the first three months of pregnancy, she noted. Specific vaccinations can prevent some causes of birth defects, as can close attention to the mother's diet.

Dr. Apgar noted that in pregnancy, an excess of vitimins can be as dangerous as an inadequate amount. She said that too much radiation, even from X-rays given long before the mother gets pregnant, can cause defects.

Five or six specific defects can be fairly accurately predicted for the child of a particular couple, even before they are married, she said, and added that a close look at the medical history of the two families of the baby's parents should preceed the couple's decision to have a child.

Research into birth defects, and early diagnosis and treatment for children with birth defects, has been the major goal of the March of Dimes since 1958. Dr. Apgar estimated that the foundation has spent 24 million dollars in this field of research since 1958.

She said that a third birth defect center, in addition to those in Oakland and San Francisco, is being planned for the Bay Area.

The most plentiful source of silver, almost from the beginning of its history, has been galena, the lead ore which usually, though not invariably, contains a small proportion of the more precious metal.

Forced Fluoridation Might Take Away One Of Our Last Liberties

A modern Hamlet, brooding on a current dilemma, might sacrifice meter and put it thus: "To fluoridate or not to fluoridate, that is the question." Concededly, that's not blank verse—nor is it a soliloquy, what with everyone getting into the act.

Communities are being torn apart on the issue. Little old ladies have doffed their comfortable tennis sneakers for spiked shoes, "the better to kick you with, my dear." And slippered pantaloons are bashing each other's heads with ancient shillelaghs I had thought long turned into ploughshares.

MORE TEETH STREW the battlefield than the proponents of forced fluoridation can hope to save in 10 generations even if they win. In fact, the carnage is so frightful that I am astonished the United Nations hasn't taken the matter to the Security Council.

Previously uninvolved, I now feel obligated to enter the arena in the role of ending the bloodshed and negotiating an honorable peace. Here then, having duly sworn to tell the truth, I offer my testimony: offer my testimony:

First, all the evidence indicates conclusively that fluoridation reduces tooth decay in children. Whether it has the same effect upon adults is not so clear.

But the assertion that no recognized doctors or dentists see any hazard in it and that the opposition comes only from right-wing paranoids who think fluoridation is another Commie plot is utter baloney.

FOR AT LEAST a decade some highly reputable medicos have been warning that fluorine — "an irritating toxic gas, one of the most powerful oxidizing elements known, attacking water, most metals and organic compounds," says Webster's — may, stored in the body, have some disastrous after-effects.

Last year an article in the Saturday Review — hardly right- wing politically — told of a group of Canadian scientists — who could not have voted for Goldwater — who reported some shocking bodily deformities which they attributed to the accumulation of fluorine in the system.

AN EASTERN DENTIST I know is confining his use of it to children entirely, and doing so sparingly. "Some of the things I have seen remind me of calomel." That allusion escaped me and he went on to say that, until some decades ago, calomel was widely used as a cathartic and was in every family's medicine cabinet.

It did its work well but those who used it too often, it was discovered, might lose all their teeth before they were 30, due to the accumulation of mercury in their systems. Today, calomel's main use is as an insecticide.

And my own dentist, though he leans toward the majority in this dispute, tells me of an experience of his own. In a Southern community, the river had a very high fluoride content, and the three children of this particular family were warned never to drink anything but bottled water.

WHEN THE FAMILY moved here and he became their dentist, he found two of the children had good teeth, but the third lad's enamel was badly eroded. Puzzled, he questioned the youngster and discovered the boy hadn't liked the taste of the bottled water and secretly used to quench his thirst from the faucet.

Now I have no medical pretensions, but I think there is a common sense solution. By all means, let those who want their children to get the undoubted benefits of fluoridation use any of the many toothpastes that have been so treated — and use it themselves, if they wish.

And don't tell me there are families so poor they can't afford toothpaste. If there are such, let's use a few of the millions appropriated for the anti-poverty program to buy them some. Or, if that is unthinkable, I'd even be willing to be taxed additionally to provide for them.

BUT WHY COMPEL those who have doubts — stupidly or wisely — to drink fluoridated water? If bad teeth were a communicable disease, I could see some justification for the frantic commissars who demand compulsion.

But the teeth involved are our own and we ought to be allowed to do as we see fit with them. Or is Big Brother going to take away this almost last freedom we have, in the sacred name of the Great Society?

IN PRISON

Violin Is Returned To Face The Music

A violin has been sent back to San Quentin Prison after 13 years of good behavior on the outside.

The violin appears to have spent much of the years 1933 to 1953 at Folsom and San Quentin as the companion of a man doing time as a sex offender.

The worn violin—its battered leather case with rusty hinges testifying to a life of hard knocks—was among musical instruments collected by Sherman Clay and Co. music store in San Rafael for donation to inmate music classes at San Quentin.

Margo Margossion, operator of the store, said an unidentified woman brought in the violin and a guitar after reading in the Independent-Journal of the drive to collect instruments for the prisoners.

"She said she had bought the violin at a pawn shop many years ago and been told it was left there by a man who'd just got out of prison," Margossian said.

A metal tag, of the kind used by prisons to mark inmates' property, was attached to the inside of the case. It bore the number 54537. A search of prison records brought its history to light.

According to Gene E. Short, who teaches music at the prison, the violin will have the distinction of being the only one in the place.

Short, having conducted classes at San Quentin for three years, now has volunteer help from Ronald Cole, director of the Sherman Clay School of Music, and Sherman Clay instructor Ed Wood. The two men, who have sparked the drive for instruments, teach two nights a week.

San Rafael Compares Costs Of Own, County Park Bond

If the City of San Rafael were to have its own $500,000 park bond issue, the required tax levy would be 3.75 cents, according to Orrin Wendling, city finance director.

Under the county's proposed $4.3 million park bond issue, the tax levy has been estimated at 4.5 cents and the city would receive $511,000 as it share.

Wendling reported to the San Rafael City Council last night that the city wouldpay about $900,000 over the 20-year period of the county bonds.

If the county were to sell only $2 million in bonds for county facilities, the tax levy would be about 2.2 cents, he said. Then if San Rafael were to issue $500,000 in bonds at 3.75 cents, the total tax levy would be .95 cents, Wendling calculated. "We would be paying about $750,000 on the city issue and $440,000 on the county issue, for a total of $1,190,000."

San Rafael Student To Be In Musical

He called for a huge living room with fireplace and a complete wall of glass — a master suite which opens onto a private patio — 2 more large bedrooms and a big main bath—a family room with a walled play yard—and a steel and natural wood kitchen with a breakfast bar. The owner called in a professional landscape gardener who planted both beauty and efficiency. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Psychiatrist Says Dream Lack Related To Poor Night's Sleep

VAN DELLEN

The Denver psychiatrist, Dr. Franklin G. Ebaugh believes there is a better way to treat insomnia than with sleeping pills and alcohol. These drugs promote slumber, but do not recharge our batteries as follows a night of natural sleep. This in turn reduces efficiency during the day and creates enough tension by nightfall to keep the user awake.

Dr. Ebaugh blames the ability of barbiturates and heavy drinking to prevent dreaming. There is considerable evidence that dreaming is essential to restorative sleep, and when dreams are prevented the individual becomes irritable even though he slept like a baby.

THIS IS a new but plausible theory and time will tell whether it can be substantiated.

The toxic after-effects of these drugs also include irritability, lack of concentration, and other symptoms of "hangover." However, many people dream after taking a barbiturate.

Insomnia is closely related to the personality and emotional make-up of the individual. Some fight sleep because they hate to waste eight hours in a non-productive state.

MANY WORRY about their capabilities and are so wound up at night they cannot relax. Others seek sleep because it relieves them of responsibilities and cares. These individuals are likely to demand sleeping pills because of the belief that insomnia lessens their efficiency or because it helps them escape reality.

Still others have a phobia about loss of consciousness, a carry-over, perhaps, of the time when sleeping meant the surrender of their best weapon of survival, the ability to cope.

Improvement occurs when they accept the condition and learn to live with it. The individual must appreciate the need for sleep and not use it for escape.

MOST OF US work eight hours a day and can adjust the remaining 16 hours to allow sleeping at the most propitious time. When the person is worried and cannot sleep, he should do something constructive or enjoyable. The thought of getting out of bed and working often has a soporific effect.

HORMONE USES

Mrs. M. A. writes: Have you ever heard of female hormones being used in cases other than cancer?

REPLY

Yes. These hormones are most widely used in controling the uncomfortable symptoms associated with the menopause. They also are employed in other glandular disturbances.

HYPERTENSION

C. K. writes: If a person's blood pressure is more than 100 plus his age, does this mean he has high blood pressure?

REPLY

Not necessarily, especially if he is under 50. This calculation is no longer used. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on high blood pressure.

TWILIGHT THROAT

Mrs. G. O. writes: Do you know why my throat becomes sore as soon as it gets dark? It is all right during the day.

REPLY

To be honest, no. Persons who talk all day are likely to have a husky, raspy throat toward evening and the same occurs when there is prolonged exposure to irritating fumes or dust.

FACIAL PARALYSIS

R. B. A. writes: Could an ear infection paralyze the face on one side?

REPLY

Yes, because the facial nerve emerges in the vicinity of the ear.

Government Starts Drive On Hospital Segregation

By JACK C. LANDAU
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — The federal government has started a crash desegregation program to force all hospitals to comply with the non-discriminatory regulations of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The program is being mastermined by the secretary of health, education and welfare, John W. Gardner, who said recently that no Medicare or other federal medical payments will go to hospitals that discriminate between white and Negro patients, physicians, nurses aides and doctors in training.

The government will insist that hospitals offer biracial room and ward occupancy, and permit physicians of both races to use hospital facilities for their patients.

Gardner's press conference was obviously aimed at administering a public tongue lashing to segregationist hospital administrators, boards of trustees and community leaders, mostly in the South.

Officials say a recent survey of 8,500 hospitals across the nation indicates 500—almost all of them in nine southern states—are balking at compliance with federal desegregation requirements.

The 500 hospitals represent about 40 per cent of the 1,200 southern hospitals that otherwise qualify for Medicare payments.

This estimate of balking hospitals is higher than has been indicated by complaints filed by civil rights groups in protest of hospital segregation. In Alabama, for example, there are 13 accredite5d hospitals and 27 complaints were voiced. In Louisiana, of 115 hospitals there were 31 complaints; and in Mississippi, of 106 hospitals there were 28 complaints.

But federal officials point out that not all segregated hospitals have been cited in complaints filed with the agency.

For the past year, the U.S. Public Health Service and Gardner's office have been waging a quiet campaign to persuade southern hospitals to lower racial barriers.

These efforts have met with varying success. The department points to voluntary integregation at the North Mississippi Community Hospital in Tupelo; the Mississippi State University Hospital in Jackson; Mobile (Ala.) General and Providence Hospitals; the Medical College Hospital at Charleston, S.C.; the Milledgeville State Hospital in Milledgeville, Ga., and others.

But, as a public health service official noted, for "each success, there is a matching case of attempted non-compliance." For example; some hospitals have removed racial signs from restrooms but then locked the restroms and gave keys to white employees only; transferred Negro patients into wards for a public health service examination and later transferred them back; and insisted that Negro mothers want to nurse their children in all-Negro wards.

Public health service officials explain that refusals to desegregate stem from a number of causes. Hospitals administrators of many southern hospitals are frankly segregationist. Those who are moderate on racial matters are overruled by segregationist boards of trustees. Even if both administrators and trustees are willing, they often fearl local boycotts in segregationist communities.

Last Monday, there were indications of a showdown when 100 investigators from the Equal Health Opportunities Office in hew went to hospitals in southern and border states.

These investigators, anc regional public health service officials, will now step up their campaign to talk to local hospital officials and community leaders. They have already set up conferences at regional hospital association meetings.

Hospitals have a tremendous financial stake in federal health money. In adidtion to the $2 billion Medicare program, there is an additional $1.2 Billion a year for other federally supported construction and health service programs. This amounts to approximately 25 per cent of the $12 billion spent last year by the nation's hospitals.

Health Service Awards Study Grants

According to a report from the Service yesterday, $14.2 million was allocated ot 603 new research projects and fellowships; the remaining $40.4 million went to continue programs already in progress.

Elinor Donahue Has Top Memory At Party

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —A nice thing happened at a party this past weekend and since it involves a longtime friend of yours, maybe you'd like to hear about it.

The nice thing occurred in a modest little millionaires' hangout called the Bel Air Country Club, in a room about the size of the Rose Bowl. And the occasion was a get-together for the latest group of ABC-TV executives to be promoted to their inevitably short, happy reigns at the top. It is a little like fattening the bulls before letting them out into the ring. More than 200 of Hollywood's finest partygoers turned out to praise the brave bulls and get their ears, and hardly anybody could remember the names of their predecessors.

The nice thing took place near the end of the party, when I was just about worn down by the mental indigestion and sheer social discomfort of all such occasions, and I was angry at myself for breaking my vow to avoid them.

I flopped into a chair to recuperate, and as I looked around the room I noticed your longtime friend, Elinor Donahue, who portrayed the teenage daughter of Robert Young and Jane Wyatt in one of television's most successful series, "Father Knows Best." Miss Donahue was standing in a little group that included her distinguished-looking husband, Harry Ackerman, a top Hollywood television production executive.

I marveled at how Miss Donahue hardly seemed a day older, and how natural, wholesome and friendly she appeared at this function so well populated by sharks.

I had seen her in person only once before, and a long time ago. It was so long ago, in fact, that I didn't even own a television set at the time and had no idea who she was. I was bumming through Los Angeles on my way to South American, and some movie-connected relatives in Beverly Hills suggested that I sponge off them for a few days and taste the good life before heading back to thumbing and bus fares.

One beautiful afternoon, they took me to one of those beautiful daytime Beverly Hills parties, at a beautiful home with loads of beautiful people who wandered around a beautiful pool and a beautiful living room, almost as big as the Bel Air Country Club's.

A young lady and I struck up a conversation, and of course she was Miss Donahue. We had a pleasant talk, and later her agent asked me if I would please drive her home. I did, we said goodbye, and not until the party of the brave bulls did I see her again.

Anyway, I noticed her, and she happened to turn around, and smiled a smile of recognition. I wondered whether she was merely being polite, or whether she really could do such a nice thing as to remember somebody from so long ago. I went over, and was astounded as she remembered the details of that nice afternoon.

She told me she now had three children, and I told her I had a daughter, and I asked her how come she wasn't acting any more, and she said she no longer was interested in it, and we exchanged pleasantries and said goodbye. So that is the latest on your longtime friend. She has a fine memory. It was a nice thing.

School Officials Checking Book On Bill Of Rights

LOS ANGELES (P) — State school officials have had their first look at a new source book for teachers on the Bill of Rights, and they say it looks like a good tool for education.

The volume — "The Bill of Rights, a Source Book for Teachers"—was examined Saturday at an Education for Freedom conference here. Said one participant, UCLA Law School Dean Richard C. Maxwell:

"Up until now, teachers have been without materials to help them teach principles of the Bill of Rights effectively. No point of view is being represented by the new book except the belief in constitutional government.

"I have no fear that the material will be used by teachers to indoctrinate pupils with ideas for either left or right."

Officials said teachers of 12th grade history and civics classes will take part in special workshops this summer to learn to use the material.

The thick book is being financed by a $3,000 grant from the Constitutional Rights Foundation of Los Angeles and federal funds.

Senate Finance Textbook Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted to appropriate $13 million to buy new elementary school textbooks. That is $3.4 million more than Gov. Edmund G. Brown proposed but $6.1 million less than education leaders want.

Chairman George Miller Jr. D-Martinez, said the commitee took the action at a closed-doors session yesterday.

Although the action was not final, it indicated key senators were not willing to go along with the educators' full request.

Mrs. Johnson Aids Shade Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson did some spade work for the Department of Agriculture yesterday.

She planted a new variety of shade tree — the Bedford pear tree — on the grounds of the department's administration building.

The tree, which grows to a height of 50 feet, is being promoted as one that will eventually be planted across the nation as "a perfect shade tree."

Hare Goes To Greece After Cairo Talks

They reportedly will discuss U.S. economic aid to Greece, Greek-Turkish relations and the Cyprus issue.

Prince's Death Said Suicide

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI) —Police today investigated the death of Prince Freidrich of Prussia, a grandson of the last German Kaiser, whose body was found floating in the Rhine River Sunday.

Authorities ordered examinations to determine the cause of death but said there "can be no doubt" that the 54-year-old prince took his own life.

His family reported he had been in "a state of utter despair" for several weeks because of the impending breakup of his marriage of 21 years to Lady Brigid Guinness, heir to Britain's Guiness beer empire.

THEY'LL MISS HER PIES—Mrs. Mildred Jensen will miss the youngsters at Tamalpais High School when she retires in June from her job as school canteen manager. She doesn't want to quit, but the law says she must, for she'll be 70 in August. (Independent-Journal photo)

Retirement To Hit Tam Appetites

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"I'm a pie face," said Mrs. Mildred Jensen, canteen manager at Tamalpais High School for the past 10 years.

"All my girls are too," she added, meaning the three women who work with her.

"I just love food—cooking and preparing, especially home cooking. I don't care for bakery and restaurant cooking so much."

Mrs. Jensen would prefer not to retire, but under state law, she must. She will be 70 in August, the compulsory retirement age, but will leave work at the end of school in June.

A restaurateur 40 years before coming to Tamalpais, Mrs. Jensen has operated 30 eating houses, mainly in Wichita, Kans., and Spokane, Wash.

"Had I known of this kind of work, I would never have been in business for myself. I enjoy working with the students. I have liked the youngsters and I feel I have had a part of the school with them," she said.

She admitted she spoils them. "I bake for them. I cook for them." She said in strawberry season she makes strawberry pies so they won't eat so much candy.

Mrs. Jensen said the canteen bakes about 12 to 14 cakes per day.

"At the last of the year we always send some pies to the district office," she related. "Lemon chiffon is their favorite."

Working with the manager are Mrs. Clarisse Harris, six years at the canteen, who will become manager; Clara Schmitt and Mrs. Molly Lambretta. "When I first started they had no added help other than students," Mrs. Jensen said.

Now there are 15 students, some of whom are "sellers" who are paid for their work and others who work for credits to gain office experience.

"I try to teach them how to make a living," explained Mrs. Jensen. "In fact, I teach all the time. It doesn't do too much good sometimes but, if they don't do very well, they don't get a good grade."

"I have stayed younger with the young people. I can't convince anybody that I'm almost 70."

Mrs. Jensen said she starts work at 6 a.m. and gets off about 2 p.m., then goes home to San Francisco to prepare dinner for her husband, an assistant engineer at Edgewood Home. "We eat early at 5," she said.

Mrs. Jensen said she will be a housewife for a change on retirement.

At the canteen she and colleagues prepare hot dogs, hamburgers, cold sandwiches, roast a turkey every day. Asked her eating preference, she responded, "Pie."

Snakeroot, or milkwort, was once so well known as a panacea that quacks added it to all their nostrums along with such staples as snake oil and swamp water.

SCIENTIFIC RECORD?

San Rafael Students Labor On Frog's Stop-Go Heart

Three sophomores at San Rafael High School are claiming a new world record. They have stopped and started a frog's heart 19 times.

Uncertain of precedents and possible challenges, the three biology students announced the achievement today. The subject of the experiment wasn't present. He succumbed in an attempt to raise the record to 20.

Self-styled record holders are Doug Jones, Eric Sluser and Dale Anderson. They performed the experiment on a leopard frog in teacher Larry Lack's biology class last Friday, over a period of two and one-half hours.

According to Lack, the experiment, annually performed in high school biology classes, tests a frog's sympathetic and parasympathetic nervous systems. The subject is injected alternately with acetylcholine, which stops the heart's action, and with adrenalin, which restarts it.

Lack recalled that his college professor said eight times was the maximum number of times a frog's heart had been stopped and started. Previously at San Rafael High, four times was the record.

Now the three sophomores are waiting for challenges. Said Lack: "You have to admit it's different to crowding into telephone booths."

Church Loses Pay Telephone

Loss of a pay telephone in a burglary at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, Donahue Street and Drake Avenue, Marin City, was reported yesterday by sheriff's deputies.

Rev. Donald Schilling told officers entry was by breaking the window of a rear door. The telephone was ripped off a wall and carried away, he stated.

Amount of change in the telephone box was not known.

Longer Terms Being Levied To Fight Crime

LONG BEACH (AP) — California's crackdown on crime means longer prison sentences for robbers, narcotics dealers and violent offenders and tighter parole supervision, Gov. Brown said yesterday.

Brown told a convention of the California Peace Officers Assn. that under new state procedures, prison terms for robbery have been increased by 25 per cent.

"For assault with a deadly weapon, prison terms are up 17 per cent and for narcotics violations the terms have increased by 25 per cent," Brown said in prepared remarks.

The Adult Authority, Brown said, not only keeps convicts in prison longer, "it keeps the right people in prison longer" through new testing programs.

"Today, we can tell more successfully than ever before whether a man who has committed a violent crime is likely to commit a violent crime again," the governor said.

Marin City Pupil Wins Special College Chance

Gloria Alee of Marin City, an eighth grade student at Sausalito's Richardson Bay School, has been accepted to attend a special program to study English and mathematics at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., this summer.

Miss Alee, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn McBride of 713 Drake Avenue, will attend the school from June 29 to Aug. 24 and, if she completes the program successfully, will be eligible for a scholarship at Verde Valley School, Sedona, Ariz., in September.

The scholarship, reported Robert D. Thomson, Richardson Bay School principal, is paid from federal funds in conjunction with the Independent Schools Talent Search program of Hanover, N.H.

Last year two Richardson Bay School students, Stanley Davidson and Ernest Clark, both of Marin City, received full scholarships to Verde Valley School.

George M. Henderson of San Rafael, Marin district manager for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., will head the commerce and industry division for the 1966 United Bay Area Crusade in Marin County.

William H. Johnson, who heads the commerce and industry campaigns for five counties, announced the appointment today.

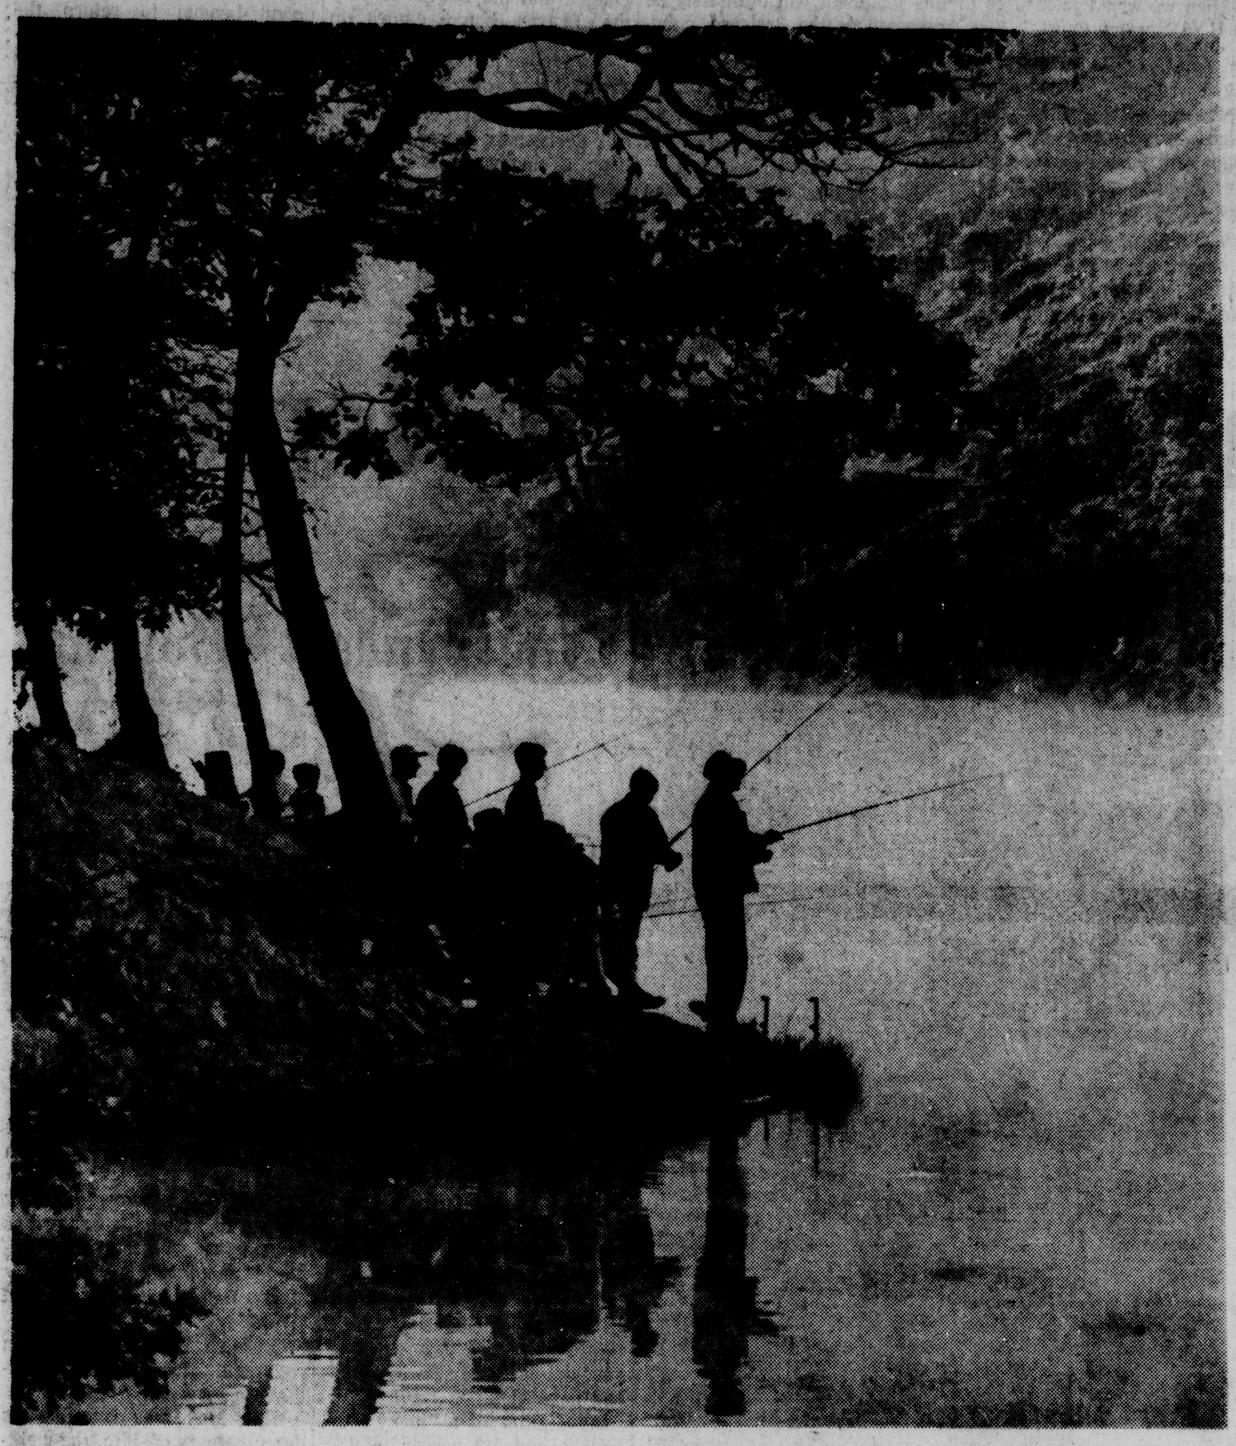
Marin Fishermen Strike It Rich On Trout Opener



BEAUTIFUL DAY—After the early morning fog lifted, Marin County fishermen enjoyed a beautiful day Saturday when they opened the 1966 trout season. At Lake Lagunitas (above), about 1,000 anglers lined the shore and caught approximately 7,000 fish on the first day.

QUIET! GENIUS AT WORK—Little Jim Preston of Ross was all business when Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean caught this picture of him reeling in a trout on opening day of the season at Lake Lagunitas. Youngsters were out in great numbers Saturday and most of them were rewarded with limit catches.

WINNING FISH—Keith Canghie brings out a 10½-inch trout as twin brother Ken (right) watches. This is the one that won a 50-cent bet between the San Anselmo brothers on who would catch the largest fish of the day.

GIRLS, TOO — Proving that the weaker sex can enjoy fishing too is nine-year-old Lori Jerome of San Rafael with a limit she caught all by herself. Her dad, Ronald, also took his limit of 10 fish.

TWO LIMITS — Chris Jones (left) and Mike J. Bouscal, both of San Rafael, display their limit catches taken at Lagunitas. Four months ago the state planted 10,000 catchable-sized trout in the lake and on opening day alone an estimated 7,000 were caught.

N.L. Reveals All-Out Battle In Antitrust Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League has picked up a symbolic torch in its battle to keep the Braves in Atlanta and instructed league attorneys to carry the flame all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

The torch was picked up by National League President Warren Giles, and the league's strategy in the case revealed by league attorneys Lou Carroll and Bowie Kuhn after a two-hour meeting of the 10 club owners yesterday.

Giles said the league will appeal all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if it has to — the first team the N. L. has flatly stated it intends carrying the case that far—and reiterated that expansion into Milwaukee could not be considered until all appeals had been decided.

"We are carrying the torch for all team sports — pro football, pro basketball and pro hockey — in this fight," Giles said, apparently referring to the antitrust facets of the case.

Giles' statement was part of the league's answer to the decision handed down last month by Circuit Court Judge Elmer Roller, who ruled the Braves violated state antitrust statutes in moving the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

Judge Roller, at the same time, ordered the Braves returned to Milwaukee by May 18 unless the National League made plans by May 16 to include a Milwaukee franchise by 1967. It is this decision that the National League first will appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Asked what would be the next step if the Wisconsin Supreme Court turned down the appeal, Carroll said:

"Then we would seek to go to the U.S. Supreme Court."

In revealing its strategy, the league issued a three-page, mimeographed press release which reaffirmed that the league will push its case up all legal avenues and will not consider expansion at this point.

"We shall exert every effort to obtain review of the judgment of the Milwaukee County Court and we are confident that this judgment will ultimately be reversed," the release said. "Until this situation is cleared up by the appellate court of highest resort, we cannot consider operation in Wisconsin by the Braves or by an expansion club."

The league statement also noted that the Braves could not be returned to Milwaukee without violating injunctions in Georgia and Texas courts "which require the National League and the Braves to play the Braves home games in Atlanta."

The statement then touched on the antitrust facets of the case, noting that "Judge Roller's decision is expressly based upon a finding that organized baseball, as it now exists, constitutes a monopoly and a conspiracy in direct violation of the Wisconsin antitrust laws."

And it went on to say:

"Notwithstanding that finding, the decision orders the National League to return the Braves to Milwaukee, presumably on the theory that so long as Milwaukee has a team, violations of Wisconsin law will be ignored. We cannot accept that."

In Milwaukee, Steven Keane, special counsel for the county, said, "They've taken their position. We'll do whatever needs to be done in regards to that position."

Donkeys To Romp In Marin Gym; Prep Hurlers Ahead Of Hitters

Today's riddle, children, is: What has four legs, long ears, goes hee-haw and dribbles all over a basketball court?

What's that you say? Hummpf! I haven't played basketball in years, wise guy!

The answer will be presented at College of Marin's gymnasium tomorrow, 8 p.m. when the college's Block M Club presents a donkey basketball game. Teams representing the Block M and college faculty will ride donkeys in a game that promises to provide plenty of spills, thrills, laughs and added chores for the janitorial department.

PITCHERS ARE way ahead of the hitters in the Marin Athletic League this season.

Of the 71 players who have had five or more at-bats, only 14 (20 per cent) are batting .300 or better while 36, or 51 per cent, are batting .199 or less.

Ten batters are in the .250 to .299 bracket and 11 are hitting between .200 and .249.

NOVATO HAS the best baseball school in the league, judging by the combined records of varsity, junior varsity and frosh teams.

The North Marin school's total record for all three teams is 14-3. Tamalpais is next with 12-6 while Terra Linda is third with 11-6. Then come Marin Catholic and Redwood with 8-10 each, San Rafael 5-13 and Drake 4-14.

HOW IS THIS for a great start? Eight-year-old Lon McEachern of Corte Madera pitched a perfect no-hit, no-run game last Saturday in his very first try at organized sports.

Lonnie's perfecto was a 24-0 victory for Kramer Shoes over Corte Madera Pharmacy in the Twin Cities Minor Little League season opener.

Major league scouts may file this clipping for future reference.

IN TWO games this season pitcher Steve Miller of San Anselmo has maintained a brilliant 0.82 earned run average for the Durham, N.C. Astros of the Class A Carolina League.

Miller, who lost his first outing of the season, won his second and at last report has a 1-1 record, having worked in 11 innings, giving up 12 hits, 8 walks and striking out 6, with that sparkling 0.82 ERA.

JOE ANSELMO, mastermind behind the 14-game winning streak of Litchfield's semi-pro baseball team of San Rafael is also a fair hand at bowling. Joe blasted games of 219 and 204 en route to a 592 series in the Nite Owls League at Nave Lanes last week.

THE QUIPPING POST:

A radio newsman, reporting on the Thad Spencer-Brian London fight last night, observed, "Both fighters were warned for using their heads." Spencer outthought London. By a decision.

And, in explaining his Redwood High School golf team's phenomenal 23-match victory streak, Coach Dick "You Gotta Have" Hart offered heartily, "We use the fast break." Otherwise, Dick is a pretty funny guy.

HONEY WINS BY A HAIR

Terra Linda sprinter Dick Honey (right) shades Tamalpais High School's Honor Jackson in the 100-yard dash during the schools' final dual meet of the season last Friday. Tam won the meet, and with it the varsity and Class B championships. Honey, who was clocked at 9.9, and Jackson, 10 flat, will be among the stars in the Marin Athletic League trials Thursday and Friday at Drake High School. Heavy favorite in the 100 will be Dean Lazzarini who placed fifth in the state meet last year and already has a 9.6 to his credit this year. (Independent-Journal photo)

An Explosive Situation

Juan Marichal will confront John Roseboro and the Dodgers in Candlestick Park tonight for the first time since last Aug. 22 when he bopped Roseboro on the head with a bat.

It will be a tense confrontation and potentially explosive. Every face-to-face encounter between Marichal and Roseboro will be that way from now on until their feud is ended, if ever. Neither displayed any willingness to shake hands this spring when the Giants and Dodgers met in an exhibition game April 3 at Phoenix.

"I'D HAVE to think about that," said Marichal when asked if he would shake hands with Roseboro who refused to make any comment whatsoever, referring all questions about the Aug. 22 incident to a Dodger front office spokesman, Red Patterson, the club's publicity chief.

Patterson declared Roseboro would not speak to Marichal unless spoken to first. Patterson also declared that the Dodgers had no intention of making any comment about the pending $110,000 suit Roseboro has on file against Marichal because it is not the policy of the Dodgers to make any remarks about court litigation in which the club is not a party.

IN THEIR April 3 encounter at Phoenix, Marichal and Roseboro spoke not a word to each other but Roseboro did hit a three-run homer off Juan. It should have been a routine second inning single but Jay Alou played it into an inside-the-park homer, first charging the ball, then pulling up short as it took a high hop over his head and rolled to the right field fence.

Before finishing his five-inning mound stint, Marichal went to bat twice. Neither time did he turn his head to look at the Dodger catcher.

MARICHAL DID turn and speak to Roseboro on Aug. 12 a moment before the fight started. Marichal protested a return throw by the Dodger catcher to Sandy Koufax. "It nicked my ear," said Marichal.

In the next instant Roseboro was charging Marichal and a few seconds later Marichal was swinging his bat. Once the bat came into play, the picture of the fight changed. So did the burden of responsibilty even though Marichal thought Roseboro was coming at him with his catcher's mask.

However, when the president of the National League later declared in an eight-day suspension and $1,750 fine of Marichal that Marichal was guilty of an "unprovoked" attack he was misinformed. Marichal was definitely provoked into the fight. But he made the mistake of resisting with too much force.

DODGERS INVADE

Juan-Don Battle In S.F. Tonight

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays continues his quest for the elusive National League home run record tonight facing Los Angeles' Don Drysdale who's been tough for the San Francisco Giants' slugger.

In 10 years, Willie has hit just 12 homers off the Big Dodger right-hander and only one each year the past five seasons. Mays had none at all in 1960.

Mays aims for a "lucky 13th" tonight and 512 career total.

Going into this opener of a three-game series at Candlestick Park Drysdale would seem to have a psychological factor in his advantage since the pressure has been on Willie ever since he equalled Mel Ott's career record of 511 homers. Mays belted the equalizer in Houston April 24.

Since then, Mays has only two hits in 18 times at bat, suffered an attack of the flu, a bruised hand and a bruised knee. Willie hurt his left knee Sunday and had to leave the St. Louis game in the fourth inning, but has told Manager Herman Franks he can play tonight.

Mays' assault on the record takes some of the drama out of the first National League game meeting between Giants pitcher Juan Marichal and Dodger catcher John Roseboro since their fight at Candlestick last Aug. 22 when Juan hit John with a bat.

They did face each other last April 3 in an exhibition game at Phoenix, Ariz. Roseboro hit an inside-the-park homer in his first time at bat.

Off the playing field there remained an aloofness as neither wanted to speak to the other. Roseboro has a $110,000 damage suit pending against Marichal and the Giants based on the bat incident, but the Dodgers have no part in the legal proceedings.

Los Angeles captured the 1965 World Series after beating out the Giants by two games for the National League pennant and their first meeting this year finds the two California clubs deadlocked for second place just one-half game off the Pittsburgh pace.

Marichal, who staged a 26-day holdout in a salary dispute, has started fast with four complete-game victories in as many starts. He signed for a reported $72,000.

Drysdale, who received an estimated $105,000 after a 32-day siege, is only 1-2 so far.

While Mays was collecting his dozen homers off him, the right-hander was compiling a 29-20 record against the Giants. A year ago, he was 2-2 while Marichal posted a 3-1 mark against the Dodgers.

Over all, the Dodgers won 10 and lost 8 to the Giants last year — the exact two-game margin of their pennant victory.

Giants Nip Santa Clara In 10th, 7-6

SANTA CLARA (AP) — Collegian Ray Henningsen of Santa Clara homered in the ninth and forced the National League Giants to 10 innings yesterday in San Francisco's 7-6 baseball victory over the Broncos.

All of the Giants' players except Juan Marichal and Willie Mays made the trip. Henningsen's solo homer came off Bob Priddy who eventually was the winning pitcher.

Rookie catcher Bob Barton with three hits was the Giants' batting star. He hit a double and drove in two runs in the Giants' four-run sixth inning.

CHANGES IN MARIN'S COACHING STAFFS

John Panagakis, head basketball coach and assistant football mentor at Novato High School is moving up to the junior college level next semester when he joins the College of Marin coaching staff.

Panagakis will be assistant basketball coach under Cal Riemcke at Marin, and will be head coach for the track and field team. He coached track at Novato before taking over the basketball team for the Hornets.

Novato Principal Robert Wesgerhof said yesterday a replacement for Panagakis has not been found.

In other prep coaching changes, Terra Linda assistant grid coach Don Boucher is moving to Petaluma High, and Marin Catholic head football coach Chuck Vaughan is dropping down a few notches to take over the freshman coaching job.

Boucher is assistant under Brad Squires at Terra Linda High, but will move up to head coach at Petaluma, replacing Don Read, brother of College of Marin football coach Dick Read. Don Read, who coached his Petaluma teams to three championships in three years, is moving up to Humboldt State where he'll be a backfield coach under Bud Van Deren.

Vaughan, whose football teams failed to win a league game in his two years at the helm (although the Wildcats have won only once since joining the MCAL), will be trying to build M.C. teams of the future when he takes on the frosh grid pob.

Moving up to take on the rugged varsity at Marin Catholic will be Joel Kiff, now the junior varsity grid coach. Mike Burke, being graduated at San Francisco State, will join the Marin Catholic staff as assistant varsity football coach.

Terra Linda Players Top Marin Stats

Fred Daniele, hard-hitting Terra Linda High School shortstop, is packing a .500 batting average after the first half of Marin Athletic League Play.

Daniele, who hit two homers in a recent game, has 10 hits in 20 trips to the plate. He's also the runs batted in leader with 11, five more than his nearest rival.

Terra Linda hurler Ed Beckley is leading the pitchers with a 3-0 mark.

MARIN MASTERS TOURNAMENT

Teener Wins Keg Title

Ninteen-year-old Steve Hargrove has been crowned the Masters bowling champ of Marin County.

Hargrove won the title last weekend in the Marin County Bowling Assn.'s fifth annual Masters, this time held at Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

The tournament went right down to the wire with Hargrove battling Mike Weddell, Masters champ in 1961 and '64, in the final six games. To get Marin's highest bowling honor, young Hargrove rolled a total of 27 games, hitting over the 200 mark 10 times.

Weddell had the high series of the tournament, 638, on games of 204, 210 and 224. High game honors went to Bob Morrison, 259.

Some 95 of the county's top bowlers entered the tournament, a record for most participation. The number was pared down to 16 after qualifying rounds April 23-24. Then in the championship action held last weekend, bowlers went at it, head-to-head, with two losses eliminating them.

Other top game and series scores bowled in the finals were:

Grid Dodgers Hire Jackie To Lead Fight For Survival In New League

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP) — The fledging Brooklyn Dodgers of the Continental Football League are looking for a fight — so they found a fighter to boss them.

They are tackling in metropolitan New York the entrenched Giants of the National Football League and the exciting Jets of the American Football League, but they have as their general manager Jackie Robinson, an outspoken Negro leader in civil rights and famed for never giving an inch during his brilliant baseball career with the old Brooklyn Dodgers.

"We are not kidding ourselves as to our problems," Jackie told a press conference yesterday when his appointment was announced.

This is a massive understatement.

The Dodgers will be competing for the entertainment dollar against the Giants, assured of a sellout in 67,000-capacity Yankee Stadium, and the Jets, who expect to go into their opener in Shea Stadium with an advance sale of 50,000 tickets against a capacity of 60,000.

And the Dodgers have yet to find a coach or a stadium or recruit a team. In fact, they received their franchise only last Saturday.

The Jets have exclusive football rights to Shea Stadium unless t hey waive them. The Dodgers hope they can be so persuaded, but this seems doubtful. Failing that, the new pro football team in the league considered tops in the minors will probably wind up in Randall's Island, a 20,000-capacity stadium in the East River not noted for its accessibility.

Robinson, who expects to go on with his civil rights work with New York Gov. Rockefeller as well as retain his banking and other business interests, promised that the coach when found will be the best available.

Although best known as a baseball player, and a member already of the exclusive Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., Robinson was one of the greatest all-around athletes of 25 years ago, and at UCLA was more famous as a football and basketball star than in baseball. He was also national champion in the broad jump and a first rate tennis player.

Robinson is the first Negro to become general manager of a top flight integrated professional team. His appointment comes a week after Bill Russell, also a Negro, was named as coach of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

The new Dodgers have solid financial backing. Jerry Jacobs, president of the club and also president of the Boston Tea Co., said Robinson was chosen because he was "a key executive, represented the Brooklyn Dodger image, and was a fighter."

The Dodgers will play in the Eastern Division of the league along with Philadelphia, Hartford, Norfolk and Toronto. In the Western Division are Montreal, Richmond, Wheeling, Orlando and Charleston. The league starts its second year in August.

Robinson has dreams for the future.

"We want to build a stadium in Brooklyn for both football and baseball, and we want to bring back major league baseball in future expansion plans," said Robinson. "We hope we can build this with 30,000 capacity in 1967 and make it 55,000 if convicted to baseball."

MATTER OF TYPES

76ers Tell Why Schays Ousted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "It was a question of types."

This was one explanation Irv Kosloff, owner of the Philadelphia 76ers, gave in announcing he had replaced Coach Dolph Schayes with Alex Hannum.

Schayes' ouster, after three years as coach of the National Basketball Assn. team, was announced yesterday.

Schayes said he was "disappointed" by Kosloff's decision.

"We did pretty well at Philly," said Schayes, the NBA Coach of the Year, from his home in Syracuse, N.Y. "I feel I didn't let anyone down."

Kosloff insisted that there is nothing he wants more than to have the 76ers win the NBA crown. He feels Hannum "is the type this team needs." Hannum was recently fired as coach of the San Francisco Warriors.

Kosloff replaced Schayes, who is quiet and soft-spoken with what he described as a "Dynamic, strong, take-charge type of coach."

"We had a good season, but it should have been better," Kosloff said in firing Schayes. "We should have won more than 55 games in the regular season and we never should have lost to the Celtics in the playoffs."

Schayes coached the 76ers to the NBA's Eastern Division championship this past season.

Schayes has been criticized for his purported difficulty in handling Wilt Chamberlain, his $100,000-a-year 7-foot-1 star.

Hannum, 43, is the only coach around who has been able to break the hold of the Boston Celtics on the NBA.In the 1957-58 season he piloted St. Louis to the NBA title, the only time any team has come out on top of the Celtics in the last 10 years.

Hannum also is credited with turning Chamberlain from an outstanding scorer, to a more all-round player.

While Chamberlain was with the Warriors, Hannum made him start passing and dribbling and playing more defense.

Welters To Sub In S.F. Boxing Card

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Postponement of a bantamweight boxing match between Jose Medel of Mexico and Rudy Corona of Los Angeles was announced yesterday by matchmaker Bennie Ford who has substituted a welterweight bout for the May 13 date.

Charley Shipes of Oakland, the California 147-pound champion, will battle Mauro Galvan, undefeated Mexico City boxer, in the feature which will reopen San Francisco's Winterland Arena to boxing.

Ford said Medel suffered back injuries while training in Mexico City so his fight with Corona, which was to have been the opening main event at Winterland, has been postponed until June 3.

Shipes posted a 26-1 record, suffering his only loss three years ago. Galvan, the top-ranked Mexican welterweight, boats a 30-0 record including 16 knockouts. They'll meet over 10 rounds with Shipes' title not at stake.

The Winterland Arena, once a popular auditorium for boxing, hasn't been used by the sport in 10 years.

Ross Valley, Woodacre, Stinson Reappraisals Bringing Protests

Reappraisal of 18,000 parcels of property, mostly in the Ross Valley, has already started to bring protests to the board of supervisors, but County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel doubts the objective will be as numerous or as loud as were heard last year over reappraisal of Tiburon Peninsula property.

Broemmel would not give any general indication on the range of increases, but said most of the area involved has not been reviewed for six years.

His office has also established new values for property at Stinson Beach and Woodacre. The greatest increases in the reappraisal this year are in the sandspit residential area of Stinson Beach, he said.

Mrs. Marie A. Christern of 10 Stetson Road, Kentfield, complained in a letter to Broemmel that the value of her property went up 28 per cent and the increase will cause a hardship in trying to pay taxes.

Broemmel said this complaint is typical of owners on fixed incomes. He said he deeply concerned in getting property tax relief for such owners.

"But, until the state law is changed, my hands are tied," he said. The law requires that he assess property at fair market value regardless of financial circumstance of the owners.

All property owners affected by the reappraisal have been notified, Broemmel said.

Information centers where owners can meet appraisers and ask questions on how the new values were derived have already been held in Stinson Beach, Woodacre and San Anselmo.

A center for Kentfield, Kent Woodlands, Ross and Greenbrae property owners will be held today and tomorrow at the Marin Art and Garden Center. Hours are from 1 to 9 p.m.

May 11-13, an information center for property owners in Fairfax and Sleepy Hollow will be held at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Planners Postpone Rezoning Of 10 Lots

The Marin County Planning Commission will take up a request for a zone change for 10 lots on Merrydale Road again on June 6, after the planning staff meets with the property owners making the request.

The planners postponed the item yesterday, and asked the staff to write to each of the property owners, setting up a special meeting to learn whether the applicants would consider planned residential zoning, with a 10-foot dedication, instead of the apartment zoning the applicants have requested.

The present zoning is residential-agricultural.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors sent the request back to the planners, asking that the planners consider whether a motel would be more appropriate than apartments at that location. But the planners indicated the problem is the same whether the use is a motel or apartments.

The main problem, the planners indicated, is the multiple ownership of the property. The planning staff is concerned lest each of the 10 lots have its own entrance and exit driveways, and that the design of the developments on the different lots would not be co-ordinated.

Today is Tuesday, May 3, the 123rd day of 1966 with 242 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase; the morning stars are Venus and Saturn; the evening star is Jupiter.

Florentine statesman and historian, Niccolo Machiavelli, was born on this day in 1469.

On this day in history:

In 1965, the body of assassinated President Abraham Lincoln arrived back in his home town of Springfield, Ill., from the nation's capital.

In 1948, the U.S. Supreme Court forbade the states to enforce agreements that bind owners not to sell property to racial and religious minorities.

A thought for the day—French satirist Rabelais:

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Opponent May Chuckle, But That Never Means He's Santa Claus

You may be sure that your opponents don't wear long white whiskers or red suits.

An opponent who roars "Ho, ho, ho" is not full of innocent merricent.

He is just crowing over his success.

Opening lead — ♡ 8

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts and shifted to the king of diamonds.

LAST LAUGHS

East took the ace of trumps and led his other diamond to the queen.

Back came a diamond, and East's ruff defeated the contract.

East laughed very pleasantly, but neither North nor South was amused.

Declarer would knock out the ace of trumps, and East would be unable to get the diamond ruff for lack of an entry to the West hand.

HOW TO TELL

The question is how South could tell what was going on.

If East had led from K-Q-x of diamonds at the second trick, it would be correct to take the trick with dummy's ace.

You can find the answer to this question by putting yourself in East's place.

How would you defend if you had the ace of spades, the ace of hearts, and two probable diamond tricks?

Would you lead the king of diamonds and thus risk losing one of your precious tricks?

It's very clear that East would sit tight and do nothing to rock the boat if he had the setting trick in his own hand.

The fact that East got very active at the second trick proved that he did not have all of the missing high cards.

This should have warned South to play the diamonds correctly.

DAILY QUESTION

's dealer, you hold:

♠ K Q J 6 2
♥ K 9
♣ Q J 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. This is a borderline opening bid even though you have 13 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton.

An aceless hand is worth about 1 point less than its apparent value. Moreover, your holding in diamonds is nothing to rave about.

Still, the strong spade suit is the decisive factor.

Most experts would bid this hand but would pass if the clubs and spades were exchanged.

NEW WAY TO CUT A RIBBON

The prow of this Cadillac convertible slices through a ribbon stretched across the drive-through teller's entrance at new Bank of Marin offices in Novato Saturday — instead of the traditional scissors. Driver of the car is Eugene McGillicuddy, owner and builder of the building. Riding with him were Richard Nave, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce; Marin County Supervisor William Gnoss; Mayor Wayne Womack of Novato, and bank manager Glen E. Tovani. Drive-in customers enter from the parking lot at the rear, stop at the teller's window and make their exit on Grant Avenue.

Big Loss By Stocks Reported

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed with a substantial loss today. Trading was active. Stocks retreated on a broad front.

A major factor in the market decline, brokers said, was the statement by Gardner Ackley, chief economic adviser to the President, questioning whether corporate profits were too high.

Here was the picture near the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.6 million shares compared with 7.07 million Monday.

Disappointment over General Motors' dividend action and wide publicity about its current problems helped drag GM common down to a loss of about 1½.

Recent wide gainers among airlines, aerospace issues and other glamor stocks took steep losses as investors reaped long-term profits.

Xerox lost 6, Eastern Air Lines, Braniff Airlines, Northwest Airlines and Admiral about 3 each, National Airlines and Zenith about 4, Boeing, General Dynamics, Motorola, Texas Instruments, Magma Copper, Delta Airlines, Pan American and United Air Lines about 2 each.

One bright spot was Hess Oil, advancing nearly 4 points as most active stock in response to British government approval of its purchase of a big holding Amerada, which rose more than 3.

Despite some brilliant earnings reports, the price trend was lower for electronics, including Radio Corp. which fell more than a point.

San Anselmo Ice Rink To Move To Larger Corte Madera Home

After 10 years of doing business on Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, Ray Schramm has his eyes on a Corte Madera site for a new, enlarged version of his Raydine Ice Skating rink.

Specifically, he and building contractor William H. McDevitt Co. will team up to construct a 14,000-square foot facility in Corte Madera's Fifer Industrial Park. They are hoping to have it ready for an opening by the middle of August—or it least before the summer is over. It will be about double the size of the San Anselmo rink, with an ice area of more than 9,000 square feet.

F. S. RASCO CO. at 1138 Fourth Street, San Rafael has finished its store remodeling from floor to ceiling and is having a combined grand opening celebration and 32nd birthday sale (for the department store chain) starting on Thursday.

CHARLES A. WRIGHT of San Anselmo is now associated with Lea and Whittaker, San Rafael mutual fund brokers, as a registered representative. Recently he has been with Francis and Murray, Mill Valley.

Prior to organizing SFO a few years ago he served in legal, research and administrative capacities in the airline industry and with the Civil Aeronautics Board. A Piedmont resident, he is well known in Marin.

He began his career with the old California Pacific Title Insurance Co. in San Francisco, and opened his own company (Sequoia) two years ago in Montecito Shopping Center, San Rafael.

He is president of Marvelous Marin Breakfast Club, past president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce and also the Kiwanis Club; director of Marin County Humane Society, Marin County Development Assn., Marin Visitors Bureau and Redwood Empire Assn. and trustee and treasurer of San Rafael General Hospital Foundation.

Sea Food Market To Be Reopened

Casserino's, called Sausalito's fisherman's wharf, has opened after being closed for the winter.

Fresh fish is soild at the fish establishment at Napa Street pier from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and a new feature this year will be an oyster bar where oysters from Tomales Bay will be sold on the half shell.

The oyster bar is expected to be opened within two weeks, reported Cass J. Gidley, owner of Casserino's.

All fish is supplied from boats coming into the dock. The business now has spring salmon and live Eureka crabs among other types of sea catches.

STUDENT CENTER—What is now the covered eating area at Redwood High School, wind-swept, dusty and sometimes rain-swept, will become a combination student lunch and study room and student activity center, looking something like this sketch by architects Gromme and Priestley, on completion of remodeling which is to start immediately after school closes for the summer.

Redwood High Eating Area To Be Rebuilt Next Month

Redwood High School is scheduled to begin reconstruction of its covered eating area June 20 in an attempt to remedy unsatisfactory conditions which have made the structure the object of many complaints.

The area, presently open to wind, rain and cold, will be remodeled into an enclosed "student union."

Seventy per cent of the new building will consist of a heated, re-floored room with tables for eating, eight new canteen windows and a portable stage. There will also be a separate faculty dining area with two canteen windows. The remainder of the area will be an open-air section containing more tables.

The entire building will have new floors of linoleum or cork tile and new ceilings. The inside walls will be lined with bulletin boards.

Aside from this, the students are to decorate the remodeled structure themselves.

Principal Donald Kreps said the building is to be "comparable to a college student union. It will bring the students together and closer to the faculty and will be the center of student activities." It will also be used for student dances, inside and out, with its portable stage and electric outlets for use by bands.

Further, the area will be used for study hall classes, giving the main building two more classrooms, The faculty lounge will also add more classrooms to the school, thus solving the problem of "traveling teachers" who have to share rooms with others.

Did You Know?

Wards LeGant® watch movements are frozen. Why? Because the skillful Swiss who make LeGant® watches lubricate them with super-refined oil costing $56,000 a barrel. To protect that oil Wards flies the movements here and then freezes them. When you buy a LeGant® watch it is really "fresh" from Switzerland! This is typical of the way Wards world-wide buying network seeks out the very finest . . . then brings it to you in its original state of excellence!

CROWDED POLLS IN MONTGOMERY—A Montgomery policeman watches from the street as voters jam the entrance to the Bell Street Fire Station as polling places open today in Alabama's Democratic Primary election. The polling place is located in a predominantly Negro precinct. It was the first experience of voting for many Negroes, thanks to the Civil Rights Act of 1965. (AP Wirephoto)

U. S. Bullets Strike Cambodian Territory

Alabama Primary Has Top Interest With Heavy Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Long lines at numerous polling places, including many Negroes voting for the first time, pointed to a heavy vote today in Alabama—one of six state primaries launching the preliminary balloting for the 1966 general election.

Federal poll watchers were on duty in seven Alabama counties, but the morning polling hours passed without any significant incident.

In New Mexico, extra state police were ordered into four counties to keep order and enforce election laws. Democratic factional fights had raised tension.

Florida had a surprisingly heavy early vote in the greater Miami area. Helping to get the voters out was the prospect of rain later in the day.

The other states holding primaries are Indiana, Ohio and Oklahoma.

But there is no contest elsewhere to compete for national attention with the big one in Alabama.

There, against a background of increased Negro registration, Gov. George C. Wallace, long a symbol of race segregation, hoped to get his wife named as the Democratic nominee to succeed him. He is barred from re-election by the state constitution.

Nine candidates are competing with 39-year-old Mrs. Lurleen Wallace for the nomination. One, Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, openly bid for the Negro vote and in advance of the balloting appeared to have it pretty solidly.

Mrs. Wallace is expected to lead the primary field but there were doubts she could get a majority. If no candidate gets a majority, there will be a runoff May 31.

The present eligible Negro vote is estimated at 235,000, about double that of two years ago, and roughly 20 per cent of the present electorate.

There has been increased Negro registration also in Florida but the primary campaign developed no indication there of any tendency toward bloc voting.

Gov. Haydon Burns, seeking the Democratic nomination for re-election, was in a contest with Mayor Robert King High of Miami; Scott Kelly of Lakeland, a former state senator, and Sam Foor of Tallahassee, publisher of a political newsletter. Burns was the favorite but most political analysts expected there would have to be a runoff between the two top men. It would have to be held May 24.

There are also contests over renominations of present Democratic senators in Alabama and Oklahoma. However, Sen. John J. Sparkman in Alabama and Sen. Fred R. Harris in Oklahoma were expected to have no great difficulty. Alabama Republicans will nominate candidates for governor and senator at a July convention. Oklahoma Republicans vote today on a Senate nomination.

Oklahoma also has a big field

Electric Shock Saves Mill Valley Child, 2

By STEPHEN COOK

Three Marin General Hospital doctors have been credited with saving the life of a 2-year-old Los Angeles girl last weekend by using a treatment never reported used on a child in the Bay Area before.

Christy Simons, granddaughter of Marjorie Sinka of 421 Marion Avenue, Mill Valley, was taken to the hospital Friday night with a heart beat of 280 per minute. Normal beat in a child of that age is 120 per minute.

Two pediatricians, Dr. C. R. Leininger and Dr. Paul A. Steinman, reportedly tried to reduce her heart beat with sedation, rest and other "simple measures" until early Saturday, but the girl did not respond.

The girl, who has a history of heart ailment, was transferred to the hospital's heart unit and the doctors called in Dr. Gerson Jacobs, a heart specialist.

Employing a treatment usually given only to adults, the doctors then reduced Christy's heartbeat to normal. The girl recovered so well that she flew with her mother, Bonnie Simons, to Los Angeles yesterday.

The treatment, as described by Dr. Jacobs, consisted of shooting a direct current of 2,000 volts of electricity through her heart, just as it contracted, for less than one-thousandth of a second. The voltage was repeated three times.

Dr. Jacobs said the treatment is not uncommon with adult heart patients, "But it has never been done in the Bay Area with a child, so far as I know. Children don't usually get these problems."

Dr. Jacobs said the treatment is known as "synchronized direct current electric shock treatment." He said the girl's mother informed him doctors in Los Angeles had applied the same treatment to her daughter in the past.

Dr. Jacobs reported that, though the treatment is rarely used on a child, "This is one of the safest of all treatments we

Park Bond Vote Plans Outlined

About 40 persons from cities and special districts in Marin were briefed last night on the campaign for the county's proposed $4.3 million parks bond issue, which will be voted on June 7.

In addition to an explanation of how the money would be distributed, they learned that a headquarters for the campaign has been set up at 1005 A Street, Room 211, San Rafael. Mrs. Aline McClain is in charge.

Available there, they learned, will be bumper strips urging passage of the bonds, plus copies of a fact sheet and the official argument in favor of the proposal, which also will be sent out with sample ballots.

Also accomplished at the meeting was the formation of a speaker's bureau which will provide someone to talk to any interested organization about the bond proposal. Mrs. McClain will be in charge of this, also.

Supervisors Peter H. Behr and Ernest N. Kettenhofen presided.

Senators Hit Bill On Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposition from the Democratic and Republican Senate leaders forestalled today a move to put a time limit on committee action on President Johnson's new civil rights bill.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said at the start of today's session he realized such a move would be "snowed under" and the vote would give "the bill a black eye it doesn't deserve."

He had blocked routine referral of the bill to the Senate Judiciary Committee when it was introduced last Thursday, opening the way for him to seek today to set a deadline for action.

The most controversial part of the bill would ban racial or religious discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing.

This part of the bill suffered a shattering and probably fatal blow yesterday when Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois called it "absolutely unconstitutional."

Dirksen coupled that with word that if the provision stays in he will not support any move to break a filibuster against the bill.

"If you can tell me what in-

Dispute Told Over Mental Health Funds

By RICHARD LYTTLE

The topic was expansion of mental health programs in Marin.

The place was the Civic Center.

But that was about all one could be absolutely sure of.

There was an apparent disagreement between Dr. Clyde Miller, director of the county's mental health services, and members of the Marin Assn. for Mental Health.

"There seems to be a lack of coordination," Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said. Mrs. Herbert J. L. Baum, a member of the association said that coordination was inadequate.

Dr. Miller said the disagreement went more to philosophical differences and he did not know how these could be "coordinated away." He thought that "perhaps our philosphies have to be articulated more carefully."

They were not articulated in today's hour-long session, prompted by Dr. Miller's re-

Marin City's Center Gets Federal Cash

Nerly $238,000 in federal urban renewal funds have been approved to set up a new community center in Marin City.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown made the announcement in Sacramento yesterday. The grant represents two-thirds of the expected cost of nearly $357,000 for the center, with the rest of the money already pledged by Marin County.

Exact amounts involved are $237,737 from the grant and $118,918 from county funds.

The new facility is intended to provide job training counseling, legal aid, health and vocational services, recreation and remedial education. It will house game and meeting rooms, a library, gymnasium, handicraft shop and play area for small children.

The predominantly Negro community has been the scene of several incidents of violence in recent months, which led to meetings with county supervisors and other officials. There, Marin City resident partly blamed lack of recreation facilities for the tensions which led to these incidents.

Unmarked Burials Discussed

The action came on the heels of a report in yesterday's Independent-Journal on the lack of any markings for graves of indigents.

Richard F. Wood, a candidate for county coroner, appeared before supervisors today, asking for action. He charged that it was the duty of the coroner to provide "decent" burials for indigents.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said he believed the I-J had performed a public service in calling attention to the situation, and that flat markers on graves would be "both proper and appropriate."

"I feel very strongly about it," he said.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, serving as chairman in the absence of Byron W. Leydecker, agreed.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said, "If I had my way all graves would be unmarked." He said grave markers were usually just a means of "designating financial status" of the deceased.

The board agreed to ask County Administrator Alan Bruce to look into the cost of markers.

CHURCHES FACING SPLIT ON ALINSKY

Controversial Poverty Worker's Plans For East Bay Worry Some Presbyterians

"Professional radical" Saul Alinsky held a press conference at the San Francisco Airport yesterday and gave a few ideas of what he intends to do for poor people in San Francisco and Oakland—if they say they want him to do it.

Meanwhile, a hot debate appeared shaping up among members of the Redwoods Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church—which includes Marin—as to whether they will share the $200,000 cost of supporting Alinsky's Bay Area operations.

Alinsky held his press conference after meeting with Negro leaders from West Oakland. He said he would move into the Oakland ghetto if the "actual, vital leaders" of the city's poor people invited him.

The San Francisco Presbytery, which includes Oakland, last month committed itself to the $200,000 project. Its members encouraged other Northern California presbyterys to help pay the cost.

This has brought denunciations of Alinsky by some Presbyterians, the Oakland City Council, and officials of the federal War on Poverty program.

At the airport, where he was about to board a plane for Philadelphia, Alinsky said he would, if invited into Oakland, and given money to work with, train poor people to "organize themselves around their own leaders." He predicted this would force Oakland officials to "become servants of the people and listen to them, and not to Knowland."

Ky Predicts Possible Delay For Elections

QUANG NGAI, Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky indicated today that the crucial general elections may be postponed.

"We will try to hold the elections by October," he said in an interview at the airbase here.

His original pledge in the face of Buddhist unrest a month ago was to have the vote "within three to five months," indicating September at the latest.

On the elections hinges Viet Nam's political future. The Ky government pledged them in the face of increasing demands for a civilian regime.

Ky made an unscheduled flight to this northern province to have a look at war-battered villages wrested recently from Viet Cong control.

He made his tour in a U.S. Marine helicopter. Heavily armed troops deployed and a plane constantly flew cover as the head of the military junta stepped over the scars of Viet Nam's fighting and tragedy.

He was greeted by silent crowds of men and women gathered near shell-smashed homes surrounded by firled sprayed by crop-killing chemicals.

"Pacification is progressing," Ky said. "In this area alone, 2,000 Viet Cong were killed in the past two months. This is great progress."

The premier said that pacification must "be carried effectively throughout the country" to permit the vote.

"We will try to hold the elections by October. If we are strong and determined, we can do it."

Board Orders Permit Hold For Eichler

Marin County supervisors today ordered 28 building permits, asked by Eichler Homes in Lucas Valley, held up pending a hearing on changes in the building code next week aimed at reducing the chance of fire.

The changes were asked after a 7-year-old girl was killed in a fire in Lucas Valley March 22.

County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost told supervisors that Eichler has 28 new permits pending. He asked authority to hold them up until he sees what action the board takes at the hearing on the proposed amendment. The board gave him the authority.

Protests By Reds Expected

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States acknowledged for the first time today that U.S. forces fired into the territory of nominally neutralist Cambodia, but said an artillery barrage directed against troops presumed to be Viet Cong was fired in self defense.

The development, certain to be regarded in Communist quarters as another escalation of the Vietnamese war, came as a military spokesman reported unusually heavy premonsoon air raids against North Viet Nam. Some targets were two and five miles from North Vietnamese cities.

American forces, expecting a major Viet Cong offensive with start of the rains in a few days, sent B52 bombers from Guam against Communist supply and storage areas near the Cambodian frontier while ground forces struck out at supply caches.

ESCALATION CHARGE

Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has repeatedly accused U. S. and South Vietnamese planes of hitting border villages, charging that such attacks were an escalation of the war. He has proclaimed neutrality but recognizes the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) as the only legal government of South Viet Nam.

Americans have been bitter because Hanoi has supplied its forces in the South via the Ho Chi Minh trail, which runs through Laos and Cambodia, and because attacking Viet Cong troops have retreated into Cambodia when defeated on the battlefields of South Viet Nam.

FIRST INFANTRY

A spokesman said U.S. artillery fired into Cambodia on Saturday and silenced "very heavy automatic weapons and mortar fire" being directed at U.S. soldiers on the South Vietnamese side of the border. Similar incidents have been reported before but today's was the first official confirmation.

The spokesman said a unit of

East-West War Warnings; Red Viet Summit Rumored

U.N. Secretary General Thant today warned of an impending World War II today, saying the Viet Nam conflict "Prevents a formidable obstacle" to improved East-West relations.

Today also, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called for new approaches at communication with Red China and a sweeping reassessment of U.S. relations with that country. London reported rumors at the same time of plans for a summit conference on Viet Nam between Red China and the Soviet Union.

U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara promised to continue course of limited war between proposals of "hawks" and "doves."

Speaking in France, Thant said that political, economic and racial tensions are threatening to push mankind into the total disaster of a third world war.

At the European Consultative Assembly, Thant called on the peoples of Europe to devote their talents and genius to efforts to prevent another global conflict.

Thant proposed that the Unit-

Britons Learn Of Tax Boosts In New Budget

LONDON (AP) — The Labor government announced today a tax increase on corporations and said a surcharge on imports imposed in 1964 will be lifted in November on all goods but foodstuffs.

The nation was spared a hike in income taxes, already among the highest in the world, and increases in imports on such items as beer, tobacco and hard liquor. Fearing increases on these, Britons had flocked to liquor stores and tobacco shops to stock up.

A 15 per cent surcharge on imports was imposed in November, 1964 and decreased to 10 per cent in April, 1965. The measure was aimed at strengthening the British pound sterling.

The tax on corporations now goes from 35 per cent to 40 per cent.

The increases were announced by James Callaghan, the chancellor of the exchequer, in presenting the national budget before Parliament.

Wolden Denies All Blame In Accessor Bribery Trial

Wolden spent all day yesterday denying evidence presented by the prosecution during the lengthy trial and contended that his former chief personal property auditor, Max J. Newstat, actually was to blame for the charges.

Newstat, a prosecution witness, has been associated with Wolden for 20 years. The assessor testified that Newstat had been doing secret work without his knowledge.

Defense attorney James Martin MacInnis asked whether Wolden had ever asked Newstat to refer certain business accounts handled by tax consultants. MacInnis referred chiefly to consultant James C. Tooke, Castro Valley, on whose records the present prosecution is mainly based.

"I never did," Wolden testified.

The assessor also said he never knew "until this investigation was under way" that Newstat had been keeping a secret file on personal property declarations of some accounts.

Wolden also denied doing any special favors in making hotel assessments in San Francisco. He testified that the major hotels now appear to be "in excellent proportion" to each other.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—An Atlas D ICBM was launched today down the Western test range. The launch was made in support of the Army's Nike X anti-missile missile program.

Tardy Students Given New Draft Test Dates

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Selective Service is going to give another chance to those college students who missed signing up for the tests which might help keep them out of the draft.

April 23 was the deadline for signing up for the qualification tests scheduled for May 14, May 21 and June 3 at 1,200 locations in the 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone and the District of Columbia.

About 1 million students had applied by the deadline, which fell on a Saturday. But additional thousands failed to sign up until the last moment — and then found their local draft boards closed that day.

Selective Service officials said yesterday that a fourth test would be given "in the latter part of June" for those who, "for some reason," were unable to take the exam previously. Details will be announced about the test within the next two weeks.

Paper Clip Saves Huge Jet From Test Hop Disaster

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—A paper clip saved a 500,000-pound XB-70A research bomber from breaking to pieces, says its pilot.

Air Force Col. Joseph Cotton, co-pilot when the 185-foot craft made a test run Saturday, said yesterday he used the clip to short circuit a balky relay panel and force a stuck nose gear down into landing position.

"I am convinced we would have broken the plane to pieces if we had tried to land without the nose gear locked in position," said the pilot, Al White of North American Aviation.

Cotton spent more than an hour talking to the ground by radio before locating the terminals in a junction box and fashioning a connection from a paper clip. This bypassed a faulty relay and provided the signal to force the nose gear down.

Cause of the malfunction was being investigated.

"I'm sure anybody could have gimmicked up something to short across between the terminals if they had the motivation I had," said Cotton.

Youth Accused Of Theft From Mother

A 21-year-old Larkspur youth was in county jail today for allegedly robbing his own mother —co-owner of a Tamalpais Valley grocery and liquor store — of an estimated $1,200 in cash and checks.

Booked for the burglary was Robert James Davis, 21, of Orange Street, son of Mrs. Margurite L. Davis, a partner of Dan's Groceries and Liquor at 254 Shoreline Highway.

Sheriff's officers said Davis, and two other youths, were arrested in a car by San Rafael police last night after an alert had been given for his apprehension.

Sheriff's inspectors said Kenneth Hoffield, also an owner of the store, reported that when he and friends went there for supplies about 1 a.m. yesterday, a station wagon was blocking the driveway. He entered the building's storeroom, he said, and encountered Davis.

Hoffield said he was startled, but said, "Hello, Bobby," got his supplies, and left. But he notified Mrs. Davis, who lives in an adjacent apartment. She called the sheriff's office.

The youth had fled before officers arrived.

Mrs. Davis said today her son apparently entered her apartment through a window, then entered the store through a connecting door.

Bullet Found Causing Liver Pain For Man

LIMOGES, France (UPI) — "The trouble is, doctor," said Joseph Deschamps, 46, "the medicine you keep giving me for these pains in my liver doesn't seem to be helping."

Puzzled, the doctor sent Deschamps off for an X-ray. It revealed why the medicine wasn't doing any good.

Deschamps had a rifle bullet stuck in his liver. But he couldn't remember being shot — at least not since June, 1940, when as a soldier he was wounded in the right hip by a German.

The bullet was never found. Doctors said today it must have worked its way around to Deschamp's liver during the past 26 years.

Sewage Plant Operator Gets Special Award

J. B. McFarlane, district superintendent, was honored with an award for proficiency during a meeting of the Tiburon Sanitary District board last night.

Board President Angelo P. Mirata presented McFarlane with the award from the California Water Quality Control Assn. for proficiency in sanitary maintenance. McFarlane's award was the highest the association can give, reported James Murray, board secretary.

"He's so good," Murray said, "that we've had no beef from any taxpayer since I've been on the board." McFarlane, 58, has been with the district four years.

The Tiburon Sanitary District board also:

1. Voted to commence condemnation procedings against the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for 150 feet of property adjacent to the Paradise Drive treatment plant, to construct a sludge dewatering plant.

2. Agreed to interview engineering firms on constructing the sludge dewatering plant at the next meeting.

3. Deferred action on a proposal to join with the Tiburon Fire District on an employee medical insurance plan.

Kentfield Civic League Opposes County Park Plans

Directors of the Kentfield Civic League, chafing under reappraisals of Ross Valley property, last night voted unanimously to oppose two county park land purchases.

Directors voted to tell county supervisors they oppose both the purchase of 18 acres of park land in Kentfield from the San Francisco Catholic archdiocese and purchase of the San Geronimo National Golf Course.

In both instances, the principal objection was that the purchases would take the property off the tax rolls.

Regarding the proposed purchase in Kentfield, they said "nobody in Kentfield needs or has asked for a park."

Directors also discussed the reappraisals and began making plans to meet with other improvement associations and civic groups in the area to discuss lightening "the confiscatory tax load," according to league secretary Kenneth Wiltz. All actions were at the unanimous vote of the seven directors present, he reported.

In just 10 years, the 19 million people in the nation's most populous state will gain an additional 5.7 million neighbors.

Based on past net migration rates, a Department of Finance report said the Golden State by the year 2000 would be home for one in seven Americans, compared with nearly one in 10 now.

"Saint John and the Virgin," a painting by Mrs. Betty Mobley of Novato, is being displayed this week at the Madonna Festival in Los Angeles, according to Mrs. Mobley.

This is the second consecutive year that a painting of hers has been accepted by the festival, she said. There are 500 entries from over California, with the theme of the festival stated as "The World of Motherhood." It is being held in the Wilshire Methodist Church.

Marin City Neighbors' Feud Sparks Shooting

A six-month feud between an ex-convict and his Marin City neighbor erupted last night in two shooting incidents, with the neighbor struck in both legs by a shotgun blast.

Given emergency treatment at Marin General Hospital for pellet wounds beneath the knees was Leroy Clark, 31, a laundry worker of 121 Drake Avenue. He was then transferred to Napa State Hospital for mental observation on a 72-hour commitment.

The ex-convict, Albert Clarence Jennings, 37, a laborer of 107 Drake Avenue, was booked in county jail for investigation of assault with intent to murder. He remained there at noon today in lieu of $5,500 bail.

Sheriff's officers said they have received about 20 telephone complaints in the past six months concerning haggling of the two men. They said Clark reported he was in his front yard about 9 p.m. yesterday when a shot was fired at him. It missed.

He notified his brother, Gene Edward Clark, 28, of 961 Drake Avenue, who left to notify sheriff's deputies.

Clark took refuge inside his darkened apartment. But after awhile, he ventured out to take garbage to a disposal area beside the building.

Sheriff's Inspector A. V. Menjou said Jennings reportedly was standing on a patio near his own apartment, about 50 feet away, and fired the blast that hit Clark.

Another neighbor, Levoy Elder of 123 Drake Avenue, heard the shot and went to Clark's aid. Gene Clark and officers arrived minutes later, and the victim was taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Inspector Menjou said he found a 20-gauge shotgun in a closet of Jennings' apartment, and two spent shells in a kitchen basket.

He quoted Jennings as saying Clark had been "hanging around" his apartment and had constantly aggravated him.

Jennings was sentenced to Illinois State Prison in 1948 for larceny. He was paroled Aug. 8, 1953. He has also served six months in Marin County jail in 1962 for possession of a weapon by a convicted felon.

Marijuana Suspect Held —In Holland

Wilhelm Alexander Rossknecht, 27, fugutive from Marin County on a felony charge of selling marijuana, has been arrested in Holland, the Federal Bureau of Investigation notified Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales today.

It was not immediately learned whether the suspect, of 10 Reed Lane, Sausalito, will waive extradition. Rossknecht, who also was charged by the FBI with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, is scheduled for trial in Marin Superior Court July 25.

He and co-defendants Peter Wright Lenihan, 31, of 420 B Street, Sausalito, and Ronald Keith Maska, 29, of Orange County, originally were scheduled for trial last Dec. 20. Rossknecht failed to appear, however, and a bench warrant was issued by Judge Thomas F. Keating for his arrest.

Bail was set at $4,400.

Two Marin Men Still "Critical" After Accidents

They are Ambrose J. N. Hollingworth of 31 Forrest Avenue, Fairfax, and Gerald A. McMahon, 25, of 7 Billou Street, San Rafael.

Hollingworth suffered a broken right leg, pelvis and back injuries when his car struck the center divider on Highway 101 a quarter-mile south of Waldo Tunnel Saturday and overturned.

McMahon sustained multiple injuries Sunday when struck by a car while running across the same highway near Corte Madera overpass. He was thrown 40 feet, the California Highway Patrol said.

Addition Suggested

Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission will consider a proposal to add a room to the rear of the Corte Madera Recreation Center when it meets at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in town hall. The Corte Madera Lions Club has proposed the addition of a small meeting room and storage area on the north side of the building.

LBJ Hope Of United Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, although faced with new divisions within the Atlantic alliance, said today he still has "great hopes" for a free, united Europe. And he outlined his own blueprint for the continent's future.

Johnson discussed the European outlook at length in an address at a White House ceremony marking the 1,000th anniversary of Polish nationhood.

Looking toward Eastern Europe, he pointed to signs that rigid Communist theory is loosing its hold on national economies. And he announced he is instructing Secretary of State Dean Rusk to send Congress long promised legislation that would authorize the President to remove special tariff restrictions that curb trade between Eastern Europe and the United States.

Johnson, speaking to several hundred Polish-Americans in the rose garden outside his office, said "it is not vain—on this day of great memories—to speak also of great hopes." He said that "chief among them is the future of Europe" and urged action to:

Free Europe of "artificial political barriers that block the free movement of people, ideas, and commerce."

Adopt internationaly inspected arms control arrangements to "remove the age-old fears of East and West alike."

Create a Europe of interdependent friendly nations in which all people "know again the responsibilities and rewards of free political choices."

Johnson cited principles which he said will guide American policy in striving to build the Europe he envisions:

"It remains our conviction that an integrated Atlantic deffense is the first necessity—not the last result—of the building of unity in Western Europe, for expanding partnership across the Atlantic and for reconciling differences with the East."

A drive for unity in Western Europe through which, he argued, "fruitful ties to the East can best be built."

terstate commerce is involved in selling or renting a house fixed to the soil, or where there is federal jurisdiction, I'll go out and eat the chimney off the house," Dirksen said.

Both Dirksen and Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said they would oppose any move to fix a deadline for action on the bill by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., reserved the right to make such a move when the bill was introduced in the Senate last Thursday.

In the past the Judiciary Committee, with Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., as chairman, has been a dead end for civil rights bills in the absence of instructions by the Senate to act within a specific time.

Engineer Picked For Plan Group

Rosenthal, who lives at 24 Nelson Avenue, was active as chairman of the library bond issue campaign last year. He was appointed from 12 candidates by Mayor Albert E. White.

Also appointed last night was Matt Copenhaver, architect, to the architectural advisory committee. Copenhaver, who resides at 21 Laurelwood Avenue, takes the seat of Niels Enevoldsen, who resigned.

quest for approval of an application for federal and state funds under the Short-Doyle Act.

Dr. Miller said a new program is involved which allows aid for new services, with the county share of cost only 6.5 per cent the first year, 10 per cent the second year, 17 the third and up to 25 per cent in the fourth year—the last being the normal county share under Short-Doyle funding.

Supervisors had a packet of forms detailing the application and showing a total county budget, including state and federal subventions of $762,299 for next year. County Administrator Alan Bruce said this was more than he will recommend.

Among the new programs included would be services for alcoholics, emergency inpatient care, hiring of a mental health educator, and something known as "traveling group children."

The last was what Mrs. Baum, speaking as chairman of the Inter-Agency Committee on Mental Health Resources and Needs, said was needed. She wrote a letter urging that this be emphasized and that Miller not try to get too many new things going at once.

Dr. Miller said that the service for children, called traveling because it would go to the patient's home for care, would call for five specialists with annual cost for salaries of $90,000.

Figures on other new services were not pinpointed.

Dr. Miller promised to return next Tuesday with more information and alternate applications. And next Tuesday is the deadline for submitting the applications.

Sanitary Board Asks For Costs On Alto Changes

Alto Sanitary District Directors last night discussed improvements necessary on lines and pumping facilities in the Alto area, including Sutton Manor and parts of Mill Valley, to bring equipment up to standard to stop pollution of bay waters.

Stanley M. Bala, Mill Valley city engineer, listed necessary improvements but, according to Director Carl O. Heynen Jr., no cost was mentioned.

The board asked the County Local Agency Formation Commission to change its application for a Southern Marin sanitation district to a sanitary district, since the latter allows election of a board and the former does not. The preliminary proposal on the district is to be heard at a commission meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Center.

Firemen Save Woman Trapped In Fairfax Home

Mrs. Amelia McCall of 148 Olema Road was taken out through a bedroom window after firemen, called by a neighbor, broke the window to get in. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for smoke inhalation.

Source of thes moke was a burning chesterfield in the living room, which firemen believed had been ignited by a forgotten cigarette. The blaze did about $800 damage to a wall and furniture in the room.

Mrs. McCall, who lives alone, was awakened by the smoke, but was unable either to get out of the house or to reach the telephone.

CHURCH

Knowland is publisher of the Oakland Tribune.)

Alinsky demonstrated the invective which is nearly his trademark as he talked about the Oakland City Council.

Noting that councilmen had unanimously termed him a "rabble-rouser," he said Oakland politicians "have their ears fastened, not on their heads, but on the places where they sit down."

He pulled out a package of diapers and said was a gift for Oakland's new mayor, John Reading, and the city council.

He also said Sargent Shiver and his anti-poverty team have a "zookeeper mentality."

They are, he charged, "trying to keep the animals in the zoo." He said this was "the same mentality" shown by Los Angeles Police Chief William Parker during last year's rioting in Watts.

In Marin, Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of San Rafael's First Presbyterian Church, predicted that the Redwoods churches will agree to give Alinsky funds, "but not without a great deal of discussion and controversy."

A vote on the matter by the North Coast Presbytery was scheduled for last week, but was postponed to a special meeting June 4. Between now and then, said Baker, there will be several briefings of church elders and members throughout the presbytery.

One of them was held Sunday at Christ Presbyterian Church in Terra Linda. Another, for the benefit of elders from all Marin Presbyterian churches, will be at 8 p.m. Thursday at the San Rafael church.

Baker said he has heard much controversy from church members, but "it has been individual, not organized opposition" to Alinsky's presence.

Alinsky, who is 57, is using Carmel as the base of his operations.

tire regiments of Viet Cong have been operating.

Several hundred coolies were digging a giant ditch around the village, filling it with bamboo spikes as a protection against guerrilla infiltrations at night.

American and Vietnamese officers said large units of guerrillas were still operating almost within immediate vicinity. As they spoke, there was a sound of distant explosions and two planes flew low over the jungle.

Later, Ky visited the giant Chu Lai base of the U.S. 1st Marine Division where he paid tribute to Americans wounded in combat.

Marin Considers Watts Job Plan

Marin County supervisors learned today that Vern Hawley, chairman of the employment task force of the Marin County Human Rights Commisison, will talk to Los Angeles officials and employers later this week on a minority employment plan that reportedly has been successful in Watts.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr noticed a report on the plan under which private employers joined together in offering and finding jobs.

Behr though the same plan might work in Marin County.

ed Nations undertake a thorough study of the probable effects of a nuclear war on the world's population and civilizations.

He said such a report should be distributed as widely as possible in all languages to alert the average person to the dangers hanging over humanity.

Thant said the causes of tension are the East-West political struggle, the growing gap between the have and have-not nations, the breakup of the colonial system and racial discrimination in several forms.

Kennedy, in Washington, urged President Johnson to appoint a special commission to recommend new approaches to China.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, Kennedy said the commission could be asked to make recommandations on "vital issues," including:

1. How to increase "informal governmental contacts" with Red China, as well as scientific, educational, cultural, athletic and tourists contacts.

2. The problem of Chinese Communist membership in the United Nations.

3. Whether the present U.S. embargo on all trade with Red China should be modified to allow "a limited trading relationship...on goods which could not be used to fuel Chinese war machines."

4. How to increase Chinese participation in international arms control negotiations.

The senator said any overtures probably would be rejected quickly by Red China.

But, he added, "if offered patiently and imaginatively and persistently enough, they might be accepted—not all at once, perhaps none immediately—but eventually, through the steady effect of chipping away at China's self-imposed isolation."

A Communist summit conference on Viet Nam strategy and the Soviet-Chinese conflict will likely be held early in July, informed sources said today in London.

Top leaders of Russia, the East European countries and several leading Communist parties outside the Red bloc appear to have agreed on the conference, the sources said.

Its chief aim will be to coordinate Communist policy and assistance to North Viet Nam and seek a joint line on the feud with Red China.

McNamara said South Vietnamese political unrest cut allied military operations by more than half and prompted administration fears of civil war and the overthrow of the government in Saigon.

McNamara made the disclosures as he fielded questions from the floor of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce convention yesterday.

"The tempo of military operations was adversely affected by the political disorders," McNamara said. He estimated operations against the Viet Cong were reduced 50 to 70 per cent.

But he said theadministration had feared more severe effects.

McNamara also acknowledged that despite the bombing of North Viet Nam the number of Communist infiltrators is three times above the level of a year ago.

And, he added, "we probably will have to increase the number of our troops."

In Detroit, U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the United Nations "is not going to join, as it did in Korea, in the military defense of Viet Nam against aggression."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, speaking at Concord, N.H., predicted U.S. defeat in Asia because of President Johnson's "apparent resignation to a long war in Viet Nam."

Petaluma Couple Hurt On Highway 101

The couple, Arnold T. Albertson and his wife, Betty Ann, both 36, were treated at Novato General Hospital for cuts and bruises.

New Answer Entered In Tunnel Case

Attorney Boris H. Lakusta yesterday filed a brief on behalf of the city of San Rafael, opposing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's latest legal try to abandon service through the Puerto Suello Tunnel.

In spite of the railroad's claim that the legal fight was over—and the fact that the Morrison-Knudsen Co. is in the process of re-building the tunnel—NWP attorneys went ahead last month with a brief in their appeal of an earlier ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The railroad attorneys insisted "a vitally important legal question" was at stake, even though the tunnel was to be rebuilt.

Yesterday's brief by the city said the ICC acted properly in its refusal to re-hear one of the railroad's applications to abandon the tunnel. It also contended the legal question at stake is moot.

Similar briefs were filed by the ICC, the state Public Utilities Commission and the Santa Fe Railroad, which has also opposed the tunnel's closing.

The briefs will be considered in Federal District Court in San Francisco on June 17.

in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor. The 12 candidates made it virtually certain there would have to be a runoff on May 24. Raymond Gary, who was governor in 1954-1958, was expected to lead the field but there was no agreement as to who might be the other candidate in a runoff.

Contending for the Republican nomination for senator in Oklahoma are Pat J. Patterson and Don Kinkaid, both of Oklahoma City, and Clifton Wood, Ardmore.

In Ohio, Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes has opposition for renomination from William L. White, a Mount Vernon businessman eh defeated by a 9-1 margin four years ago.

Bidding for the Democratic nomination for governor are state Sen. Frazier Reams Jr., Toledo, and Harry H. McIlwain, a Cincinnati attorney and member of the legislature.

Robert Taft Jr., son of the late U. S. senator, is seeking the Republican nomination to Congress in the First district. He is opposed by William E. Flax, a Cincinnati attorney and member of the John Birch Society.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, Democrat, is unopposed for renomination in New Mexico. The state's two representatives Thomas Morris and E. S. Johnny Walker, Democrats, also are unopposed for renomination.

State Sen. Gene Lusk and former Gov. John Burroughs are contending for the Democratic nomination for Governor. In a primary contest for the Republican nomination are Clifford J. Hawley and David F. Oargo, both of Albuquerque.

NOVATO TEACHERS ASK PAY RAISES

The Novato Teachers Assn. last night asked the Novato Unified School District trustees for salary increases which would give the biggest percentage raise to those with the most education.

Marlowe Lancaster, association representative, asked for a new scale that would start at $5,700 and go to $12,010. per year. The present scale runs from $5,520 and $10,656.

A beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree would get an increase of $180 per year, while a teacher with an additional 75 hours and 12 years of experience would be increased $1,354.

The proposed pay scale would add $250,000 to the district's salary cost next fiscal year, Lancaster estimated.

Trustees set 8 p.m. next Monday to study the proposal and the preliminary budget.

The Novato Unified School District Also:

1. Heard from Richard Banwell, school architect, that he could design an air conditioning and heating unit for each room at half the cost of a central plant for the new junior high school at Wilson Avenue and Vineyard Road. However he said maintenance for the individual units over a 10-year period would be double that for a central plant. The board left the decision on which to use up to the architect.

2. Hired Dalton, Graupner and Barber to audit the school's books for $1,500.

3. Set standards of 704 for elementary, 864 for junior high and 1,800 for high school student capacities, and 10 acres for elementary, 20 acres for junior high school and 40 acres for high school site sizes. It also adopted these as general areas for future schools: Bahia, Black Point, School Lane and two in San Marin for elementary; Bugeia Lane and San Marin for junior high schools and Deer Island for the third high school.

4. Granted a leave of absence to Shirley Young, fourth grade teacher at Olive School.

5. Accepted resignations of Teresa Bremer, English Teacher at Hill Junior High School; Mary Dean, on leave; Louise de Lorimier, Girls' physical education at Hill Junior High School; Helen Farris, third grade at Lynwood School; Donald Fifer, industrial arts at Novato High School; Nancy Frank, fourth grade at Lynwood School; Marianne Hansen, second grade at Lynwood School; Melrene Moon, kindergarten at West Novato School; Bonnie Peterson, life science at Novato High School, and Sharon White, fourth grade at Lynwood School.

6. Hired Lile Adams to teach fifth grade at Hamilton School at $6,162; Michael Colletto, boys physical education at Novato High School at $6,162; Janet Cousins, third grade at Olive School at $6,483; Frances Cuzner, English at Novato High School at $5,805 Catherine Detweiler, English at Hill Junior High School at $5,841; Sandra Gariffo, English at Novato High School at $6,162; Alrene Grialou, first grade at Meadow Park School at $5,520; Marilyn Kilgannon, fifth grade at Hamilton School at $7,446; Virginia Meyer, school nurse at $6,804; Ralph O'neill, psychologist at $10,408; Frances Phillips, kindergarten at West Novato School at $6,804; Douglas Scott, counselor at Novato High School at $8,492, Martha Wells, second grade at Lynwood School at $8,730, and Joanne Wheeler, sixth grade at Hamilton School at $6,162.

Gemini Craft Goes On Rocket For May 17 Trip

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Technicians bolt down the Gemini 9 spacecraft to the top of its Titan 2 booster rocket today, as astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan make certain their spaceship is ready to fly.

Thursday and Friday, Air Force Lt. Col. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Cernan will rehearse their flight plan inside a practice capsule at Cape Kennedy. Gemini 9 is due to fly May 17.

The space flight calls for a two-hour, 25-minute walk in space by Cernan, several rendezvous and docking exercises with an Agena target satellite, and firing the Agena's main engines while Gemini 9 is attached to it in space.

The entire mission is expected to last three days.

City Council Seeks Parks In Belvedere

In three actions to encourage development of city parks, the Belvedere City Council last night sought a lease from the state for a Lagoon Road Park, set up a park and recreation commission, and recommended passage of a county-wide parks bond issue.

The council directed City Mgr. William L. Cavalli to ask the state how much a lease would cost for the 1,000 foot-long Lagoon Roard property. Cavalli told the council that the Division of Highways stipulated that no fixed structures could be erected on the site.

Councilman Edwin J. Drechsel asked if children's swings would be considered fixed structures. Cavalli answered that "from previous experience" the state would permit them. Mayor John R. Moore told Cavalli to "write them real quick" to find out the cost of the lease.

The council endorsed the county bond issue after Cavalli reported the tax cost to the city would be about the same under a county issue or a city bond issue. He said that under the counuty issue the city would receive $40,500 at a cost of 2.25 cents on estimated current assessed valuation, versus 2.5 cents with a city bond issue.

Cavalli said that under the county program, the city's funds would be allocated whenever it adopted a park program. Councilman Sally Mathews promptly moved that action on a program be started.

The council established the parks and recreation commission after recommendation by the recreation committee it replaces. The present committee thought its present powers were vague.

The new commission will have five members for two-year terms, appointed by the council, with a non-voting member each from the council and the Reed School District. Mayor Moore said he would make appointments at the next council meeting.

The council then discussed various possible park programs including restoration of the city's dormant walking paths and acquisition of the McGinnis property on Belvedere Point for a view park. It took no action on these.

Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock was absent.

Late Hours For Car Wash Denied By Hub Commission

The coin-operated car wash at 80 Red Hill Avenue, San5 Anselmo, can continue to operate for another year at least, but it cannot remain open until midnight, not even during the summer, the San Anselmo Planning Commission decided last night.

Western Associates, owner of the car wash, had asked that the 10 p.m. curfew on the establishment be eased to midnight during the summer. Tenants of a nearby apartment objected. Planning commisisoners voted only to extend the car wash use permit another year.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

1. Approved a use permit to allow Helen O. Gui to teach accordian and guitar to not more than three students at a time in her home at 205 The Alameda. Lessons must be concluded by 9 p.m., commisisoners stipulated.

2. Denied a request by Wilfred S. Sache for a variance allowing a six foot fence at 19 fern lane. Previous owner of the house applied for the same variance earlier this year and was also denied.

3. Recommended city council acceptance of annexation of 14 and one-half acres in the Short Ranch area to San Anselmo. The annexation has been approved by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

4. Agreed to recommend the city council extend for one year its approval of a tentative map for the third and fourth units of the Indian Rock subdivision, provided developees install underground utilities.

Commisisoner James Murphy was absent.

Three Feet Too Far

Swedish Ship Sails Into New York Port

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Swedish American Line's new passenger ship, the sleek, 661-foot Kungsholm, steamed into New York harbor to end its maiden voyage yesterday.

The liner was greeted by four salutes fired from the tip of Manhattan by a cannon recovered from a Swedish warship that sank off Stockholm 338 years ago. Fireboats also shot plumes of water into the air to welcome the twin-stacked liner and her 304 passengers.

TEACHER'S REFLECTIONS—Dr. Arthur F. Corey, state executive secretary of the California Teachers' Association, will speak on "A Teacher's Reflections on School Boards" at the Marin County School Boards' Assn. meeting May 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael.

Warenback Pledges Work For Campus

Melvin S. Warenback said last night that if he is elected county supervisor, he will form a committee of Marin civic leaders to work for a University of California campus in Marin County.

"Marin County is the logical place for a university campus," Warenback said. "And as your supervisor I would extend every effort to convince the university that it should be placed here."

He said that a new UC campus not only would contribute to "our cultural lives and the enrichment of our young people but would also provide a real incentive to the attraction of light industry to the county."

Polio Victims Awarded Cash In Sabin Suits

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A jury has awarded $140,000 to two men who charged that they contracted polio from taking the Sabin oral vaccine.

The Superior Court jury of seven men and five women returned the verdict against Charles Pfitzer and Co. of New York, the manufacturer, yesterday after three hours of deliberation.

Richard G. Grinnell, 62, of Los Altos, was awarded $60,000, and Carlos C. Benedetti, 36, of Livermore, received $80,000. Grinnell, president of a steel products firm, has a permanently withered left arm. Benedetti, unemployed for several months, has a withered right leg.

The men said that they took the Sabin oral vaccine on sugar cubes during the San Francisco Bay Area Medical Association's "K.O. Polio" campaign in September, 1962. Within a year, they said, they had contracted polio. Grinnell filed suit for $200,000, Benedetti for $500,000.

Corte Madera Sign Ordinance Passes

Corte Madera Town Council last night voted 3-to-1 to adopt an amendment to the town zoning ordinance dealing with signs in commercial zones and nonconforming sites in residential areas. Councilman Holmes S. Norville was absent.

Councilman William W. Collier voted no, saying he feared the land development which might begin across the street from his residential area on Tamal Vista Boulevard. Property across the street is zoned highway commercial.

Collier moved the ordinance amendment be set aside temporarily and the planning commission be instructed to think about rezoning the property to something more suitable, such as administrative and professional.

"We've got development stopped there now," he said, reminding the council that development in highway commercial areas has been frozen until adoption of the amendment. Development was halted last July, when the planning commission began working on the amendment.

Tamal Vista Boulevard is a residential street and should have an enforced load limit on it, Collier said. "Anything on that street over two tons shakes the houses."

Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff said administrative-professional zoning "has not been exactly successful in Corte Madera. To zone the land that way would only bring financial problems to the property owners."

However, Wagstaff seconded Collier's motion to put off the amendment and voted with him. Edward W. Colthurst and Charles F. Pendleton voted no and the tie vote defeated the motion.

When Pendleton moved adoption of the amendment, Wagstaff switched and voted yes with Colthurst and Pendleton. Collier voted no.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

1. Approved transfer of $2,748.32 to pay for widening Paradise Drive. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said restoration of the drive, necessitated by damage during relocation of a sewer line last fall, cost $15,956.45, but the contractor responsible was required to pay only $14,030 damages.

2. Postponed to May 16 public hearing on rezoning of three acres on the southwest corner of Conow Street and Casa Buena Drive.

3. Denied the request of Ruth Beatty for rezoning of property at 35 Deer Run Road from single family to duplex residential.

4. Introduced an amendment to the personnel ordinance allowing straight time pay in lieu of time off for holidays worked by police and firemen, 90 instead of 60 accumulated days of sick leave, and town employees to take vacations at any time in year rather than between April and October only.

5. Accepted Wagstaff resignation from the planning commission. Mayor Colthurst declared the position open and said councilmen would consider all replacement suggested to them.

6. Declared May 22 "Maritime Day" and the month of May "Senior Citizens Month."

Arrests Smash Marajuana Ring With Big Haul

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Federal agents and sheriff's deputies say they have smashed an alleged marijuana ring with the arrests of five men and three women and the seizure of 400 pounds of marijuana bricks valued at about $160,000.

Investigators said they arrested the eight yesterday as the bricks were being transferred from a camper to an automobile.

Officers said the marijuana allegedly came from Mexico and was being wholesaled in Long Beach, Orange County and the Hollywood area.

Art Festival Site On Council Agenda

Should the annual Sausalito Art Festival be held downtown on Bridgeway next to the Bank of America or at its location for the past several years at Central School playground?

This question will be discussed at the Sausalito City Council meeting at 8 p.m. today. The Art Festival committee has applied to the city for use of parking lot 2 at Bridgeway and Bay Street. City Mgr. Charles A. Brown has taken the stand that, if the fair is held downtown, "it will hurt no one but the merchants. It will hurt business."

County School Board Seeks Own Purse String Control

Marin County Board of Education last night agreed to talk over with the board of supervisors the possibility of taking over the control of its own purse strings.

Almost in the same breath, the education board members expressed concern that their detailed budget for 1966-67 showed an increase of $174,000 over last year and called another meeting to discuss it further.

If the education board gets its own fund control, it will mean future budgets will be approved by the board and will not be dependent on final decision of the supervisors.

Asst. Supt. Robert Stannard said, "Some boards of education may consider the supervisors are not particularly interested in education functions or trained in education functions."

Instead of the money coming from the general rate, Stannard said, the supervisors would be asked to raise the money with a special education tax levy. He said the levy next year, based on the present budget, would be eight cents.

Members discussed briefly budget proposals for the coming year before calling a special meeting May 16 at 8 p.m. in the Corte Madera administration office to discuss details.

The general fund budget totalled $423,949, compared with $320,916 this year, and the special education budget, $624,784 compared with $553,493 this year.

Increase in the superintendent of schools office salaries was responsible for an increase of $11,646 in the general fund budget. There was a notable increase also in salaries of teachers in the special education program, reported William G. Vanasen, director of business services.

Handicapped Children To Ride County Buses

Marin County Board of Education last night decided against placing its transport system for handicapped children in the hands of a private contractor.

Members agreed to stick with the present system despite the "headaches" of increasing costs and old buses.

Chairman James A. Carroll said, "If I were my child subwould not like my child subjected to the changes involved for a saving of five per cent."

William G. Vanasen, director of business services in the county superintendent's office said the staff decided to explore the possibility of changing the system of transport when faced with annual cost increases and the prospect of "retiring" seven of its 11 buses this year.

Several representatives of Servi-Car, a franchise transportation business, attended, offering to take over the transportation of the 260 handicapped children for the $426 per child it cost the county for the 1965-66 school year.

Several school bus drivers were present but did not speak until after the decision.

Said one woman driver "We would like to thank the board. We have wonderful children and we love them very much. They are very precious to us."

The Marin County Board of Education also:

1. Was told by County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis that federal funds have been approved for setting up a supplementary education center to explore the unmet needs of pre-school and school-age children in Marin, Napa, Solano and Sonoma counties.

2. Accepted the resignation of Robert J. Manthey, special education teacher at Bel Aire School, Tiburon.

Two Tomales Study Groups Given Chores

The Tomales High School District board last night named two committees to work on improvement of education.

One committee is to work with Tomales High School teachers, seeking suggestions on improving the quality of education and the functioning of the high school. The other is to work with elementary schools in the high school district, and the high school, to see what can be done to coordinate the educational program from kindergarten through high school.

Named to the second committee were: Harvey Balzar, principal of Bodega Bay Elementary School; David Raffo, principal of Tomales Elementary School; Howard Broze, principal of West Marin Elementary School, and Anthony Matulich, superintendent of Tomales High School. No date was set for its first meeting.

The committee appionted to study improvements at Tomales High School is made up teachers Gwendolyn Gibson, Robert De La Vergne and Carl Anaclerio; superintendent Matulich, and trustees Joseph Tremari and Mrs. Jean Adams. It will hold its first meeting at 7 p.m. next Monday.

Behr Will Speak On Park Bond Issue

Peter H. Behr, Marin County supervisor, will speak on the county park bond issue to be voted on in the June 7 primary at a meeting of the Mill Valley Unit, Marin Conservation League, at 8 p.m., May 11, at the Outdoor Art Club, Mill Valley.

Behr will answer questions from the floor concerning the $4.3 million bonds. He is co-chairman of the park bond compaign committee.

State Senate Orders Study Of LSD Use

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has ordered a legislative investigation of hallucination-causing drugs like LSD with an eye toward outlawing their promiscuous use.

The upper house yesterday adopted a resolution providing for the study.

The author of the measure, Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, also called for passage "right now" of a bill restricting the use of the thrill drugs to recognized research projects conducted in hospitals.

That bill has been rejected twice by the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee but its backers still hope to revive it.

Belvedere Votes Student Job Plan

The Belvedere City Council approved a city summer work program for students last night.

The council authorized City Mgr. William L. Cavalli to employ six students for the summer at a cost of $2,880. The students will be employed on city crews from June 20 to Sept. 2 for four hours a day at $1.50 an hour.

The council also approved hiring Whitney Simpson, a high school student, as supervisor of student work crews at $2 an hour. Simpson is a Belvedere police cadet.

The council also offered several suggestions for the student work crews. Councilman Thomas S. Price suggested cleaning the city's dormant walking paths, and Councilmen Sally Mathews and Edwin D. Drechsel suggested finishing San Rafael Avenue and Lagoon Road cleaning projects.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

1. Reappointed Burton Jacobson, William Rafter and Leslie Graham to four-year terms on the planning commission.
2. Reappointed Dr. John Flint as fire commissioner.
3. Appointed Drechsel to the finance committee and Mrs. Mathews as city representative to the Assn. of Bay Area Governments.
4. Authorized Cavalli to get a lawyer to draw up petitions for residents of Crest, Cliff and Eucalyptus roads, now private roads, to set up special assessment districts to finance fire main extensions.
5. Proclaimed May as clean-up month and the week of May 16 as "clean-up week."
7. Authorized conversion of sewer lift stations 3 and 5 from gasoline powered engines to natural gas-powered, at a cost of $150 each.

MAYOR ASKS MILL VALLEY NEWSLETTER

Mill Valley city councilmen last night heard a proposal that the city send out a one-page newsletter every three months to promote communications between the city government and the people.

Mayor Albert E. White, who introduced the idea, said it could be done by direct mail for about $100 an issue. He suggested the first mailing be July 1.

"I think this is a great idea to give an idea of what is happening," responded councilman Rodric L. Robinson. He said the city of Santa Rosa has such a brochure, which he finds "very interesting."

White said he gets questions such as, "How come I don't know what's going on in City Hall?" White said he would bring the subject up again in two or four weeks and, meanwhile, would welcome anyone's ideas.

Novato School Budget Up; No Tax Hike Seen

A preliminary budget for $6,495,511 for fiscal 1967 for Novato Unified School District was presented to district trustees at their meeting last night by Supt. James G. Bunker.

The budget is nearly a million dollars more than the $5,666,429 budget for the current fiscal year.

Althought he had not made any calculation on the possible tax rate, Bunker said he thought it would be approximately the same as this year—$5.19 per $100 assessed valuation.

The largest share of the budget goes into salaries, $3,020,575 for teachers' salaries. The Novato Teachers Assn. last night asked for increases which would add approximately $250,000 to that figure.

Adding the salaries of the counselors, secretaries and clerks, plus textbooks and educational supplies, the total for instruction in the proposed budget is $4,201,946. Other items in the budget include: Fixed charges, $296,715; transportation $118,881; debt service $309,682; transfers, $284,050, and reserves $271,095.

The largest sections of the 24 sources of income were estimated as: Local taxes, $2,405,400; federal, $801,221; state elementary, $1,470,000, and state high school $915,257.

The trustees set 8 p.m. next Monday to study the budget and the teacher salary requests.

The menu: Antipasto, hors d'oeuvres, mixed green salad, minestrone soup, ravioli, choice of veal scallopini or roast chicken, choice of ice cream, sherbet, fried cream, spumoni or cheese, and coffee, tea or milk —and a bottle of wine.

The price: 35 cents.

Mill Valley Harbor Money Pledge Asked By Builder

"Tight money" in California prompted Paul B. Fischer, who holds a lease option on the Mill Valley small craft yacht harbor, to ask the Mill Valley City Council last night to change the agreement so money to finance the project will be easier to obtain.

The change, simply, would be from the city to "try" to provide its own permanent financing to "shall" provide it.

No action was taken by council, Mayor Albert E. White saying the subject will be discussed on May 16, when Fischer is slated to pick up the six-month option.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said that by the change, "the city would obligate itself either to seek a division of Small Craft Harbor loan or bond issue or go through city-sponsored devenue bond issue.

Jordan said the city would not pledge city credit or assets of taxpayers. The bond buyers would be taking the risk.

Fischer, a Corona Del Mar developer, reported his company has had such a favorable response from business wishing to be established at the harbor that he is considering doing the whole harbor, except for restaurant and hotel. "All at once. Our production schedule calls for completion in one year."

Business interested, he said, include a boat distributor, yacht repair company, engine specialist and engine repair company, in addition to marine hardware and sporting goods outfits.

Soils tests prove that bulkheading, an important aspect of the harbor, is feasible, the developer said.

The council voted 3 to 1, George E. Wickham voting "no and Michael Wornum absent, to endorse the $4.3 million county park bond issue on the June 7 ballot, following presentation by County Supervisor Peter H. Behr.

Wickham voted against the proposal, he said, "because some place along the line we have to stop and see how we're going to pay for these things."

Councilman Rodric L. Robinson countered that these lands must be preserved now or forever lost.

Behr said parks, hence tourism, will help reduce taxes.

Specifications for community television antenna hookups were approved and it was announced bids for a franchise for one company to install the service will be opened at 2 p.m., June 6, and the council will consider bids that evening at 8 p.m., Mayor White said any interested company may bid.

Specifications are: First outlet, $25; additional outlets, $10 each and FM outlet, $10. Monthly service charge will be $5 for the first outlet, $1 for added outlets and no charge for FM. Relocation if you move within the city is $10 and reconnection, $5.

The franchise rate must be based on the above rates, said City Mgr. Bert Balmer, and rates are based on overhead lines.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

1. Awarded W. K. McLellan Co., San Rafael, contract for overlay of East Blithedale Avenue on its low bid of $9,666.
2. Gave certificates of appreciation to Rodric L. Robinson and Dean N. Meyer for service on planning commission and parks and recreation commission, respectively.
3. Approved variance for Edward Goliti Jr. to allow one parking place instead of two for a house on Redwood Lane. Five neighbors objected.
4. Denied Kirsten Mills a permit to set up a day nursery for up to 24 children at 2 Dorset Lane.
5. Approved time extension from April 30 to Sept. 30 to allow contractor Ira Coburn to finish the public library. However, the library is expected to be ready for use by mid-June.
6. Set preliminary 1967 budget hearings for May 11, 18 and 25 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.
7. Set May 16 for hearing on the new sign ordinance.
8. Adopted resolution authorizing condemnation of two parcels of property owned by Adolph and Mary Biggio for proposed extension of Sycamore Avenue.
9. Agreed to investigate parallel parking in front of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and parking on the small bridge on Locust Avenue between Walnut and Sycamore avenues, both asked by Mrs. Frances Ferrario.
10. Discussed but took no action on a proposal from City Mgr. Balmer to amend the business license ordinance to prohibit vehicles from outside the city doing business in Mill Valley without licenses and driving the streets without names of companies on sides of trucks.
11. Agreed to write the Mill Valley School District board expressing interest in meetings with the board to discuss areas of mutual concern.
12. Proclaimed May as "Vehicle Safety Month."

Cycle, Scooter Riders Injured

An Oakland motorcyclist and a Novato man riding a motor scooter both suffered facial cuts and bruises when they were throw from their vehicles in separate accidents Sunday. Both were treated at Marin General Hospital.

Richard L. Leslie, 29, of 2478 Center Road, Novato, was injured on Butterfield Road near Legend Road in Sleepy Hollow at 5 p.m. when his scooter ran off the road and into some gravel, the highway patrol reported.

William Judkins, 25, of Oakland, was injured when he drove his motorcycle off Highway 1 south of Olema about 10 a.m. while attempting to pass a car, the patrol said.

Dredging Bid Under Estimate

A low bid of $196,743, well under the estimate, for dredging of Gallinas Creek was submitted yesterday by Shelmaker Co. of San Francisco.

The work had been estimated at $221,298, Asst. County Public Works Director Arthur T. Knutson said.

Other bidders were Western Pacific Dredging Co. at $298,340 and Utah Construction and Mining Co. at $343,286.

An assessment district is proposed to pay the cost of the dredging. Supervisors will receive the bids tomorrow at the same time they hold a public hearing on the proposed district formation.

ALFRED C. KUEHL

Cabinet Aide Gives Award To Marinite

Alfred C. Kuehl of Kentfield, veteran landscape architect with the National Park Service, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Award by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

The citation accompanying the Interior Department's highest honor noted Kuehl's "many contributions in the field of park development and design . . . and the consistently high caliber of his work."

Kuehl, who lives at 10 Rock Road, joined the park service in 1933 as resident landscape architect for Grand Canyon National Park nine other undeveloped park systems in the Southwest.

Since then, he has played a prominent part in the development of numerous parks including several in Alaska. He was credited by Secretary Udall with pioneering the design and construction of many road projects "still regarded as some of the finest examples of their kind."

Kuehl is with the Department of the Interior in San Francisco. He has resided in Kentfield for 15 years.

CHP Man Seeks Return To Job

SAN JOSE (AP)—Fired highway patrolman William H. Brennan will find out May 20 if he will get his job back.

At that time, the officer investigating his case will present a recommendation to the state Personnel Board on the fate of Brennan, who was dismissed from the patrol last October after he was arrested in connection with the fatal shooting of Roland C. Strange, 30, of San Jose.

The 33-year-old ex-officer was acquitted of murder in January but was not reinstated. The state argued that Brennan's behavior after Strange's shooting indicates he should not be reinstated. Brennan's attorney, James Boccardo of San Jose, argued Brennan is mentally capable of reassuming duty.

Senate Finance Man Backs Unruh In Accrual Dispute

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature today appeared ready to give Gov. Edmund G. Brown more "accrual" than he really wants.

Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, chairman of the key Finance Committee, said late yesterday he favors extending the accrual bookkeeping plan to the state income tax, a move that would generate an additional $260 million in one-time windfall revenue.

BACKS UNRUH

Miller thus threw his support to a proposal advocated by a coalition led by Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, and including most Republicans in the lower house.

Although the governor does not like the proposal, he has indicated he will accept it. If the rest of the Senate follows Miller's lead, the plan could form the basis of a settlement ending the legislature's money-and-politics deadlock.

Brown wants to use accrual—a system which permits receipts to be put on the books before the money is actually received—on most state revenue except for the income tax.

The governor's plan would provide $250 million in one-shot "paper" revenue, enough to wipe out a predicted deficit and balance the $4.6 billion budget without an election-year tax increase.

INCOME TAX

Unruh and Assembly Republican leaders want to include the income tax. Unruh wants to use the windfall revenue to eliminate the need for a $295 million higher education construction bond issue. The GOP lawmakers want to use it to establish a reserve fund to head off the need for a tax increase next year.

Miller said he favors Unruh's approach. But state Finance Director Hale Champion, a top Brown adviser, has said the bond issue is a must, whether the income tax is accrued or not.

Miller said he would prefer to use any additional windfall revenues to finance construction at the University of California, state colleges and junior colleges on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The senator is the author of legislation to convert college construction to a pay-as-you-go plan through the use of tidelands oil revenue beginning next year. But previously, he had said one more bond issue was needed to keep college construction going until the new plan was in operation.

If the stalemate over the budget and the accrual plan for balancing it is broken, the legislature could begin the drive for adjournment.

OTHER ISSUE

However, at least one other issue—constitutional revision — is blocking a quick end to the session.

The Assembly passed a comprehensive overhaul of four articles of the state's archaic and rambling Constitution. But a Senate committee last week cut out most of the reforms proposed in the measure, drafted by a 60-member citizens committee.

Some key assemblymen say they will continue to fight for the original version of the constitutional reform and will oppose adjournment until the measure is enacted.

Senate leaders, such as Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-West Point, on the other hand, say they will not go along with "hasty" revision of the state's basic law.

But most lawmakers are anxious to end the session so they can return to their home districts to campaign for the June 7 primary election, now just a little more than a month away.

Patrick Sticks To Guns In Condemning Polling

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

William Penn Patrick, a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said Monday political polls were a threat to democracy.

Patrick held a news conference in Los Angeles with his attorney, Melvin Belli, and said he filed an answer in San Francisco to a suit brought against him by Mervin Field and the California Poll.

Field charged Patrick, a Tiburon cosmetic manufacturer, with damaging his reputation.

Patrick said the suit had forced him to become an unwilling "crusader for the little man to warn the public of the gimmicks of polls."

He claimed previously that Field conducted a false and misleading poll in behalf of former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher. The charges led to the suit by the pollster.

Patrick repeated the allegation yesterday, charging that the poll had been purchased by Christopher for $16,000. He said the timing of the poll, released around Feb. 15, was designed to influence either Christopher or Ronald Reagan, another GOP candidate, to drop out of the race.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty claimed that the California Democratic Council made "communism" an issues in the gubernatorial campaign.

Yorty, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said the council brought the issue into the campaign by "suggesting we get out of Viet Nam on Communist Party terms."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, State Controller Alan Cranston, and Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson also drew criticism yesterday.

Spencer Williams, Republican candidate for attorney general, said in San Jose that Brown should "alter his course of premeditated irresponsibility and face up to the awful truth of his own record."

In San Francisco, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor Lloyd Hand, former protocal chief in the nation's capitol, said Democrats should not "embarass" their party by foting for Anderson.

Hand, who opened his Northern California campaign headquarters in San Francisco Monday, said Anderson "demonstrated his inability to hold the reins of government."

San Jose Mayor Joe L. Pace, seeking the GOP nomination for state controller, charged incumbent Cranston with failing to act "in the growing tax assessment scandal."

Early Pension Bill Signed For Police

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Police officers, covered by the state employes' retirement system, may now take their pensions when they are 50 years old. The previous minimum was 55.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday signed into law a bill by Assemblymen Richard J. Donovan, R-Chula Vista, and John Quimby, D-San Bernardino, reducing the minimum age.

News Union Men In Conference

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of 10 newspaper unions journey to City Hall today to explore with Mayor John V. Lindsay ways of ending a nine-day strike against the yet-to-be-published papers of the World Journal Tribune Corp.

The mayor, who summoned them, was expected to try to get the unionists to warm up to his idea for a fact-finding panel.

AWAY FROM IT ALL-

Some Unusual Lighthouse Keeping On Angel Island

By BETTY FROST

Many a Marin matron, feeling hemmed in by the demands of suburbia, longs to "get away from it all." . . . This is what it might be like . . .

Living on the outer edge of Marin in a sylvan atmosphere with an incomparable marine view and no neighbors within a mile is a serene woman for whom frenetic community involvements seem as remote as the six-acre rock in Alaskan waters where she formerly made her home.

Mrs. Trueman Cook is the wife of the last lighthouse keeper on the Pacific Coast. And her home is at Point Blunt on the southernmost tip of Angel Island. Most of Angel Island is in Tiburon but Pt. Blunt is just outside the border and is technically in San Francisco. Her husband has spent 32 years as a keeper in the lighthouse service.

As the civilian keepers reach retirement age, U.S. Coast Guard personnel take over their functions which have been considerably changed in recent years due to automation. Mr. Cook works at the low, square watch room high atop Pt. Blunt, where he also supervises the unmanned lighthouses at Southampton Shoal and Point Stuart and maintains a visibility watch on the southeast lighthouse on Alcatraz, and it keeps him too busy to be concerned with the fact that he is among the last of a vanishing breed.

"There are pressures for Mr. Cook, but not for me," says his wife.

The Pt. Blunt light station is staffed by men from the U.S. Coast Guard base at Yerba Buena Island. A 20-minute ride on Coast Guard launch takes the Cooks to Yerba Buena, and they also can drive a truck across Angel Island to take the state park ferry at Hospital Cove.

"MY LIFE IS FAR less isolated here than at other stations," says Mrs. Cook. "There are 11 families now living at the state park." And she can get to Tiburon by the ferry and occasionally goes to San Francisco. She seemed especially pleased to have visitors the day of our interview. Pt. Blunt light station is not open to the public. Any personal company which the Cooks might have there is rather hard to arrange, since they are dependent for transportation upon the U.S. Coast Guard launch and its schedule, geared to shift changes for the lighthouse crew.

The couple came to Angel Island in August, 1962, after other posts in the 12th Coast Guard District and a long stay on Sentinel Rock, 42 miles from Juneau, Alaska. "It might as well have been 4,200 miles," says the pleasant gray-haired woman.

During their years on Sentinel Island, supplies and mail came once a month. They ordered their clothes by mail from a Seattle store and lived off the land as much as possible. Mr. Cook fished for salmon. They had crab and clams and delicious wild berries, she said. Even their Labrador dog ate salmon, which Mrs. Cook canned in the season when it was plentiful. During the short growing season they had flower and vegetable gardens. The lady of the lighthouse said she learned to make bread, although her first attempts were disappointing, "and we had some very well-fed seagulls" who ate the remains.

The Cooks have two sons and a daughter, all grown, and five grandchildren. Mrs. Cook used the Calvert home study method to teach her daughter, who did not attend a formal school until their return to California.

"My daughter was a good student and in spite of the limited opportunities, she was on the national honor roll in high school," Mrs. Cook said, her eyes shining with pride.

THE BEAUTIFULLY equipped kitchen in the spotless six-room cottage built at Pt. Blunt by the Coast Guard in 1960 is a source of special pleasure to Mrs. Cook. There were many years when she did not have all the appliances which are taken for granted in this country. The electric current used at Sentinel Rock ruled out standard washing machines, dryers, refrigerators, freezers and electric stoves. "We longed for television," she said, "but now we find we don't like it too much," Mrs. Cook remarked.

A native of San Francisco, the former Ruth Inglis has lived all of her life near the water. She and her husband love to watch the boats on the bay, and try to identify the passing parade of ships. However, in her opinion, "water is all right for transportation, but not for pleasure."

Since the official opening of the San Francisco Bay yachting season Sunday, the men in the watch room will be keeping an alert lookout on weekends. Racing yachtsmen, who often consider Pt. Blunt a miniature "Tierra del Fuego," making a comparison with the treacherous waters off Cape Horn, may

THOUGH SHE seemingly has all the comforts of suburbia, Mrs. Trueman Cook lives a remote life at Pt. Blunt lighthouse on Angel Island, nearly at the center of the Bay Area's millions. Once every two weeks she boards the Coast Guard launch to get provisions in San Francisco to cook for her husband, who is the last lighthouse keeper on the Pacific Coast. Here she crochets, a skill she taught herself in lonely months on Sentinel Island, Alaska.

Youngster Sure That Grown-Ups Would Never Buy From Fat Rack

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teen-age questions to Youth Asked For It, care of Helen Help Us! the Independent-Journal.

DEAR HELEN:

You hardly never have much about us in your column. Please do! — THE HOPSCOTCHERS (KIDS UNDER 12)

DEAR HOPSCOTCHERS:

"Sorrybouthat"—and to show I really mean it, here's a whole column for the "little" league.—H.

DEAR MRS. BOTTEL:

I am not exactly skinny, but I'm not that fat. It makes me mad when my mother takes me shopping and they always bring us to the "chubby" dresses. Don't people that make clothes know we don't like to be called "chubby?" Why don't they get another name for them? I bet grown-ups would never buy clothes if they had to go to the "fat" rack.—MARY JANE.

DEAR MARY JANE:

You are so right! There's no reason why clothes can't be labeled "-X" or "fuller-cut" for the "not exactly skinny" crowd. Or . . . Suggestions, anyone?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have always tried to say hello to Paul, but old as he is, he says girls are his enemies. One day this mean boy starts hitting me with his glove so I start socking him and he throws me on the floor. Then Paul starts hitting him and chases him away. But he still won't speak to me. Mrs. Helen, how can you talk to a boy if girls are his enemies?—HELPLESS.

DEAR HELPLESS:

Be a friendly enemy until time takes care of the problem. He'll be sitting on your doorstep within a year. Wanta bet?—H.

DEAR MRS. B.:

My family is happy and hardly ever fights. I thought everybody was until my friend invited me to spend the night. Her parents were fighting, the house was a mess and the kids didn't look too happy or clean.

While we were in bed my friend told me her folks were getting a divorce. I felt like crying because she was crying. I didn't know much about divorces until then and I think they're just terrible.

Ever since I've been especially nice to my friend, but she looks like a sad beagle. Why don't they let the kids take part of saying something in the Divorce Court? They should think how bad the children feel, and maybe know how they want to run away or die or something, and then maybe the Divorce Court would go out of business. —LUCKY, SAD AND MAD.

P.S. I'm 11. Please correct my spelling. Thank you.

DEAR HELEN:

I am 10. I have an older brother, 17, and everything I could want, but I have a problem. Anything that goes wrong, guess who gets blamed? If something is lost, or messed up, or goes out of whack; or if there's mud on the floor or fingermarks on doors. Everything—it's always me. Why?—BLAMED.

DEAR BLAMED:

You're the youngest, honey, and therefore the most likely suspect. So you're "guilty until proven innocent." It isn't quite fair, but it happens in most families . . . as our 11-year-old Suzie can tell you.

(After reading your letter, I've decided to reform. Hope it has the same effect on your folks.)—H.

DEAR HELEN:

There are six girls at school who are always getting angry with each other, even if we run around together. We pair off, and talk about the rest, but we can't keep the same friend, even a week. It's two and two and two, and always feuds. What causes this? — CAN'T KEEP A FRIEND

DEAR CAN'T:

To pair off and feud is part of growing up. The cause? Jealousy, unsureness, competition, immaturity, and the need to have one best friend. This "banty hen" stage wears off in high school.—H.

Mrs. Cook is an avid reader, and a regular patron of the Tiburon branch of the Marin Public Library. She is particularly interested in local history and the history of the West. She also has always enjoyed gardening, although this activity is curtailed because of a hip injury she suffered a year ago. She takes great delight in a family of seals which she observes at play below her island home, and has befriended a deer, which comes at her whistle, and answers to the name of "Pete." Pete considers oranges a delicacy, and is partial to all kinds of fruit, which he takes from her hand.

THERE ARE NO last-minute trips to the supermarket for forgotten items for the "lighthousekeeper." She shops once every two weeks, going to Yerba Buena by launch, thence to the commissary at the Presidio to select a fortnight's provisions. Mail is received twice a week.

The great fear in this kind of isolated life is illness or accident, she explained. Mrs. Cook suffered a sudden and severe illness on Angel Island last year and found that the Coast Guard, which rescues everyone else, also takes care of its own. She was taken to the shore on a stretcher by Coast Guardsmen, and since the stretcher was too wide for the cabin of the boat, it was strapped on top. An ambulance met the boat at Tiburon and she was admitted to Marin General Hospital. Now recovered, she finds amusement in recalling the incident.

Inside the neat home, Mrs. Cook displayed mementoes of their previous stations — pictures of the more traditional if less comfortable cylindrical lighthouses where Trueman Cook had duty. A particular treasure is a picture of Mr. Cook with the late Rev. Bernard Hubbard, the famed "glacier priest," whom they knew well in Alaska.

She casually called attention to the small suitcase near her bed. "We are required to keep a suitcase packed and ten days' provisions on hand at all times in case of any emergency," she said. Questioned as to whether this made her nervous, she shrugged, "We are used to it. It is a life like any other life."

STILL WANT to get away from it all, suburbanites?

OH, THAT WEDDING

Keeping List To 'Close Friends' Size

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A dozen attendants will precede Luci Johnson down the aisle when she weds Patrick J. Nugent Aug. 6 in ceremonies that certainly will be among the most spectacular ever seen in the capital.

Luci's older sister, Lynda Bird, will be her maid of honor; Mrs. James Ray of Hale Center, Tex., will be matron of honor. The list of 10 bridesmaids made public by the White House over the weekend is liberally sprinkled with teen-agers, mostly old friends from Texas, though Luci has protested the label of "teen-aged bride."

She will be 19 on her wedding day and Pat will be 23.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, the First Lady's press secretary, said about a thousand invitations will be mailed for the wedding at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the nation's largest Roman Catholic church and the seventh largest church in the world.

President and Mrs. Johnson were having trouble keeping the wedding down to the "close and family friends" size. There were questions, too, whether the White House will be big enough for the indoor reception the Johnsons plan after the ceremonies.

Luci has made it clear she wants a national wedding. But Washington consultants describe the size of the bridal party, which will include 11 ushers, as "sensational."

The President, who prefers business suits on most public occasions —even at his own inauguration, might be expected to show up at his daughter's wedding in morning coat and striped trousers.

The best man will be the bridegroom's father, Jerry P. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill. He will be standing in for Pat's brother, Marine Lt. Gerard Nugent Jr., 27, who is serving in Viet Nam. Lt. Nugent's wife, Phyllis, will be a bridesmaid.

Mrs. Azevedo, member of the Marin County Planning Commission, will speak on housing density; Mr. Joske will speak on parks and recreation; Mrs. Evans will talk about the work of the Louise A. Boyd Science Museum in educating children on conservation, and Mrs. Donnelly will describe the work of the Marin Conservation League.

The executive board will meet at 11 a.m., to be followed by the business meeting of the club at 1 p.m.

After the program, tea will be served by Mesdames A. P. Buhman, Marion Shirley, Ray Sollman, George A. Sweeney and Orpha Smith.

Membership Tea

Court St. Raphael 1406, Catholic Daughters of America, will entertain prospective members at a Twentieth Anniversary Tea on May 12 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Paul Baldacci, 220 Canal St. Mrs. Charles Wettstein, chairman of extension for the court, is chairman. 3 lbs. short ribs cut into serving pieces. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and ground nutmeg. Marinate short ribs in one cup of red dinner wine, 2 bay leaves and one clove garlic cut in pieces for 4 to 5 hours. Remove short ribs from marinade and wipe meat dry. Heat 2 tbs. olive oil in a heavy iron pot — add ½ slice bacon and remove when crisp. Dust short ribs lightly with flour and brown on all sides in this oil and bacon fat over moderate heat. Add one chopped onion and cook till soft, then add strained marinade. Cover pot tightly, simmer short ribs 2½ to 3 hours or until tender. Add beef broth from time to time if needed.

COUNCIL ASKING TO OPEN STREETS

Baar Hits State Highway Work As Cause Of Traffic Congestion

The San Rafael City Council wants the State Division of Highways to provide connections to two streets that were closed off by construction of the new southbound Highway 101 on-ramp last fall.

The streets are Francisco Boulevard West and Irwin Street, south of the viaduct.

Councilmen said last night that closing of the two city streets has created a hardship on a segment of the population and a traffic problem in the Lincoln Avenue-Second Street area.

Councilman Louis H. Baar said the highway division created the problem with its project "and we're stuck with it. Let's ask them to fix up the monster they created."

The council unanimously passed a resolution requesting the highway division to start planning for direct connection from the Lincoln Avenue-Second Street area to Francisco Boulevard West and Irwin Street.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles showed drawings of his proposal to re-establish one-way traffic on Francisco Boulevard eastbound and on Irwin Street southbound.

The highway division proposed a connection from the on-ramp to Rice Lane, which would run south of the existing Francisco Boulevard West, Rawles reported. But, Rawles said, the division didn't want to provide a connection to Irwin Street because it involves crossing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Overruled the planning commission to grant Richard M. Lewis permission for a 20-foot high, free-standing identification sign for a dry cleaning shop at 118 Bellam Boulevard. The vote was 4-1, with Councilman Charles W. Aby dissenting.

2. Appointed Roy M. Michael, president of Royce Finance Plan, who was selected by Dr. Aby, to serve on the charter revision committee, and postponed action on appointment of a member of the library board.

3. Passed to print an ordinance designating fire zones to follow use rather than zoning, and setting the area between Second Street and Fifth Avenue and between Irwin and E streets as Fire Zone 1, the most restrictive.

4. Approved plans and specifications for storm drain installations on Fourth Street at A Street and Lootens Place and set May 16 at 8 p.m. for opening of bids.

5. Unanimously voted to ban parking from 4 to 6 p.m. on Lincoln Avenue, between Second and Pacheco streets.

6. Voted 4-1 to prohibit northbound left turns off Lincoln Avenue at Fourth Street, Fifth and Mission avenues. Dr. Aby dissented.

7. Approved installation of four-way stop signs at Vistawood Way and Ridgwood Drive, after receiving a recommendation from the traffic committee for stop signs on Vistawood and a request from residents of the areaf or stop signs on Ridgewood.

8. Approved installation of a stop sign for southbound traffic on Rice Lane at the DuBois Street extension.

9. At request of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, agreed to re-establish all-day parking on Lindaro Street from Second Street to Albert Lane, now a two-hour parking zone, on an experimental basis.

10. Approved six change orders involving construction at the new city hall, four adding $573.87 to the cost and two changes resulting in $210 in credits, and permitted the contractor Wright and Oretsky to substitute Rafael Floor Covering for Okulove Floors as one subcontractor. This brought to 17 the number of change orders on the city hall.

11. Approved the final map of a nine-lot subdivision planned by Arthur C. Nicolaisen at the end of Reservoir Road.

12. Passed to print amendments to the business license ordinance, allowing only annual payment of license fees and eliminating six-month and quarterly payments.

13. Received a request from R. L. Pardini of Perma-Bilt Development Corp. to consider joint participation with the county, Dixie School District and Perma-Bilt to extend Las Gallinas Avenue to provide access from Lucas Valley to the Northgate Shopping Center.

14. Postponed for two weeks action on a planning commission recommendation to hire a consultant to revise the city zoning ordinance, either the Institute for Planning and Development of San Francisco or Warren W. Jones and Associates of Berkeley.

15. Took no action on a claim by Richard L. Law of 122 Palm Avenue for $40 he spent for spraying to protect his home against elm beetles. Law claimed the city failed to spray its trees in front of his house, causing the infestation of beetles.

16. Referred to the city's insurance carrier a claim from Mrs. Eleanor Kasnoff of 15 Carlson Avenue, San Anselmo, for $10,000 for injuries reportedly suffered in a traffic accident at Lincoln Avenue and Second Street Feb. 21. Mrs. Kasnoff claimed the city failed to have a warning sign or barrier at an abutment at the south side of Second Street. City Engineer Ely Caillouette said the state still had jurisdiction over the area at the time of the accident.

17. Hired John Lloyd Smith Jr. as a junior civil engineer at $654 a month.

18. Postponed until Monday decision on replacement of a police patrol car which was damaged recently.

19. Agreed with a complaint by Councilman Harry A. Barbier that hazardous conditions exist at the old Coleman School on Grand Avenue, and that owners of the property should have the windows boarded up.

20. Received a report that R. L. Thompson, operator of an auto wrecking yard at 51 Jordan Street, is operating at the former United Ambulance building at 615 Fourth Street in violation of the zoning ordinance, and authorized City Atty. David Menary Jr. to file a complaint against him.

Drowsy Driver Gets Slightly Hurt Nose

Daniel B. Hallinan, 17, of 61 Peninsula Road, Belvedere, suffered a bruised nose when his car struck a parked car on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, just east of McAllister Avenue, Kentfield, at 5:45 a.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Highway patrol officers reported that Hallinan had fallen asleep at the wheel. The parked car was registered to Jerry N. Morgan of 80 Broadmoor Avenue, San Anselmo. Hallinan was treated at Marin General Hospital.

San Rafal Opens Bids On Furniture

The San Rafael City Council got a new batch of bids for furniture for the new city hall last night, from 13 bidders and covering baout 200 items such as various desks, chairs and files.

The council referred the bids to Milton Schwartz, who is in charge of furnishings design for the new city hall, and set a special meeting for 8 p.m. next Monday to award contracts.

The first bids were rejected three weeks ago after some bidders claimed they did not have time to prepare their bids and objected that specifications limited competition.

Councilmen also objected then to specifications that called for six chairs which retail at $980 each for lobby furniture. The city did not seek bids on lobby furniture this time.

Administrative Asst. John T. Goodale said it will be a sizeable job to tally the bids which were opened yesterday afternoon, because the bids were made "item by item" and there were more than 200 items.

Some firms bids on only a few, some on half the items and others on more, Goodale said.

Among firms bidding was California Correctional Industries, operated by the State Department of Corrections, including a wood office furniture factory at San Quentin Prison.

Other bidders were Mo Dorman and Co., Robert Morry Inc., TAB Sales, Ray's Office Machine Services, Paul Zell Designs, Stevenson's Inc., A. Lietz Co., M. G. West Co., Frederick Post Co., James Hill and Co., Marin Office Equipment Co., and Western Contract Furnishers.

The council also opened six bids on a drainage correction project on Magnolia and Palm Avenues, with the cost to be shared half-and-half by the city and the Dominican Convent.

Maggiora and Ghilotti of Corte Madera was low bidder at $16,038, on the recommendation of Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles, who said he wanted to determine whether the firm had all the necessary licenses for the job.

Six Bids Received For Road Work

Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael was apparent low bidder at $58,305.65 for the extension of Civic Center Drive northward to the Terra Linda interchange in bidding at the Civic Center yesterday.

The were six other bids submitted, ranging up to $84,754.

Award To Kiwanis

Kiwanis International has been presented a Freedom Foundation Distinguished Service Award for its "Freedom Leadership Program" it has been announced by Joseph E. Saccone, president of the Kiwanis Club of San Rafael.

City Denies Utility Change On San Pedro

The San Rafael City Council last night stuck to a policy of "streamlined" utilities along San Pedro Road, rather than undergrounding planned by Marin County.

Supervisors requested that the council approve undergrounding in the city portion of the project, about 500 feet.

Undergrounding along the full stretch has been estimated to cost $48,000 more than the "streamlined" system, which is partial undergrounding with metal poles down the center island.

Councilman Louis H. Baar said the additional cost would be "a waste of money."

If the entire San Pedro Road project were to have underground utilities, "the city would get stuck for all the cost in areas like Loch Lomond," Councilman Fred E. Jensen noted. "It would cost a fortune."

"It's no use undergrounding a four-lane highway," said Councilman Harry A. Barbier.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said he didn't think the council's decision would hold up the project.

Sentence Date Set In Beating Case

Michael Pardee, 21, San Anselmo musician, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor child-beating. Sentencing was scheduled for 3 p.m. May 24.

Pardee, of 181 Oak Avenue, originally faced a felony charge in the April 4 injuring of his 8-month-old daughter, Lisa. He pleaded to the lesser offense prior to the preliminary hearing yesterday.

Hot Water Set For Astronauts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Astronauts on the upcoming Apollo moon projects can look forward to hot water with their meals, something unheard of in Mercury and Gemini crewmen's diets.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief of center medical programs of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said that the dried food will be reconstituted with hot water rather than the cold water used for previous meals.

Dr. Berry explained that hot food requires less energy to digest than cold food.

County May Curb Felling Of Trees

An ordinance that would require property owners to get a permit before cutting any tree on their property is being studied by Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker.

Zucker told the planning commission yesterday the county has no control of trees on private property. "I feel it a large problem," Zucker said.

Commissioner Michael Praszker agreed that it was a "knotty one" at least.

Zucker said the ordinance would not ban tree cutting, but would regulate it on a permit basis.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

1. Postponed, over the protest of Alan Rosenberg representing Romac-Pacific, consideration of architectural supervision for a garage at Almonte Boulevard and Shoreline Highway. The commission wanted to know Mill Valley's views, since the garage would be close to the city. Rosenberg conceded that Mill Valley would oppose the plan since it had been against an earlier version, but the commission continued consideration to May 16 just the same.

2. Postponed indefinitely consideration of a change in the planned industrial zone requested by the Marin County Redevelopment Administration to allow industrial development in the zone without the permit procedure.

3. Approved tentative map of Terra Linda Terrace, a 17-lot tract planned on seven acres by Las Palmas Construction Co. at Mahogany and Butternut Drives in Terra Linda. One condition of approval was that the firm seek annexation of the entire parcel to the Terra Linda Community Services District. There are 4.8 acres now outside the district.

4. Postponed consideration of architectural supervision for a motel, coffee shop and cocktail lounge near Commodore Helicopters on Richardson Bay, planned by Commodore Properties.

5. Set hearing May 16 on rezoning of the Muir Woods Park area, where residents want a zone that will require large lots.

6. Postponed to May 16 consideration of development plans for the Lucas Green shopping center at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road.

7. Approved a sub division asked by B. M. Messinger between Cabin and Marin avenues in Tamalpais Valley, with condition that a 20-foot-wide access road be provided.

8. Approved 5-1, with Commissioner William F. Upton dissenting and Commissioner Claude Stoller abstaining, plans for a facade on the Marin Garden Apartments to cover one building backing on Highway 101 south of Corte Madera. Commissioners earlier voted down a proposal for a mansard roof on one side of the building.

9. Adjourned at 3 p.m.

Superintendent To Be Honored During Dinner

Homer Sisk, retiring superintendent of the Fairfax School District, will be honored June 2 at a testimonial dinner at the San Geronimo Golf and Country Club.

Sisk, district superintendent since 1960, has been with the district for 28 years, beginning as principal of Central School.

The dinner will start with a no-host cocktail hour at 7 p.m.

Requests for reservations may be submitted until May 25 to Mrs. Seth Burdett, Central School, Fairfax.

Officially, the head-hunting has ended among the Naga tribesmen of India. But rumors to the contrary persist. Heads are important to the Naga (other's, that is) because the Naga believe that possessing the head transfer's the victim's strength to the hunter.

'MOTHER OF US ALL'

Music Views Told By Virgil Thompson

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Composer-critic Virgil Thomson had many interesting things to say about music but not much about his own style of writing in a press conference yesterday afternoon at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francsico.

Denying the influence of other composers on his style, he said, "I don't have a style."

The near 70-year-old celebrity is in the Bay Area in connection with the northern California premiere of his opera, "The Mother of Us All," with libretto by Gertrude Stein. It is to be presented Sunday at 8 p.m. in Angelico Hall as the final program of the season of the Marin Symphony Orchestra, assisted by the College of Marin Opera Workshop.

"The Mother of Us All," he explained, grew out of his desire to write an opera about American politics, preferably in the 19th Century when "cities were like villages and village people were all mixed up with celebrities."

"It was Gertrude Stein," he said, "who decided it should be a feminist opera." She also decided it would center around the career of Susan B. Anthony and the winning of political rights for women, and she chose the other historical characters in the opera, who include Daniel Webster, John Quincy Adams, Ulysses S. Grant, and Lillian Russell.

Asked about his reputation for preferring the simplest possible techniques, he said he always does that wherever it is suitable, as it is in this opera where both words and music are plain and straightforward.

In a lecture last night at Temple Rodef Sholom in Santa Venetia, he explained further that the music is basically 19th Century grassroots music built around hymns, ditties, sentimental romances and military marches.

"Characterization is the essence of opera," declared Thomson.

Regarding contemporary music, he commented, "Some of the repertory is pretty hard to take, but it possibly communicates on some level."

Of special interest, since the College of Marin Opera Workshop is assisting in the production of the opera, was his appraisal of college worskshops in comparison with the small opera houses of Europe.

"They do some of the same kind of thing in bringing opera to small towns and cities and offering opportunities for training. I'm all for the big opera workshop movement," he stressed," But it is very different from what is done in the small opera houses of Europe, and it is completely unknown there."

Thomson thinks the writing of opera under commisison is "a little bit under the domination of the Ford Foundation, particularly in literary subject matter. Their tendency has been toward social content prose, something on the Arthur Miller side. Unless opera is the poetic theater, there is no future for it."

He maintained that the most perspicacious composers do not get involved in this kind of thing.

Thomson's next opera, commisisoned by the Metropolitcan Opera and the Kousevitzsky Foundation for performance in about 1968-69, is about Lord Byron.

Marinero Plan Wins Approval From Tiburon

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night approved development plans for a 38-unit Marinero Heights project with two exceptions.

Chairman Stephen H. Nash reported the commission asked the developers, Tiburon Development Associates, to redesign 10 carports fronting Marinero Drive so that cars would not back into the street. The commission also required the developer to have the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. place lines underground.

The company plans 10 duplexes, four triplexes and six single-family dwellings between Marinero Circle and Ranch Road.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

1. Granted Thomas J. Belton of Belvedere permission for a pizza parlor at Main Street and Tiburon Boulevard.

2. Approved a recommendation by the design review committee that Belvedere Land Co. be allowed to construct a one-story office building on Beach Road next to the Post Office, which will house branches of the Marin County Library and the Novato Savings and Loan Assn.

3. Heard City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose review a new draft of a proposed commercial sign ordinance. Discussion was postponed.

Lack Of Toll Fee Ends Boys' Trip

Five runaway Seattle boys were held today by San Francisco authorities after their truck was stopped at the Golden Gate Bridge when they couldn't pay the toll.

The California Highway Patrol said the teen-age boys drove up to the toll plaza about 9 p.m. Saturday. When they gave conflicting stories about their destination, the toll plaza officer called the patrol, who turned them over to the San Francisco Youth Guidance Center.

The boys, Richard E. Reynolds and John F. Wall, both 15, Ronald W. Hansen, 16, and Gene W. Triplett and Gordon A. McNair, both 17, had driven from Seattle in a truck belonging to young McNair's father, the patrol said.

YOUR ACHING BACK

Heavy January Snow, Pain Cripples Football Player

By HANS KRAUS, M.D.
(Second in series)

Steve was a big strong boy, an athlete and an all-A student. At 17, he weighed 220 pounds and was a much-sought after football player. He played three years of varsity ball at a good eastern school.

Then he graduated and entered a training program with a big manufacturing firm. A son of impoverished parents, he was eager and competitive and he worked hard.

The competitive pace quickened and the demands of his job increased. He had to give up running in the morning and workouts in a gym. By the time he was 35, he was vice president.

He grew tense without knowing it. His weight crept up to 250 pounds. His panting breath told him he was getting out of shape —but everyone knew him as the former terror of the football field. Then it happened simply and undramatically.

It was a heavy January snow —two feet deep. He had to shovel a path down the driveway to the street. It seemed like hard work, but he stuck to it. Finished, he felt a muscle twinge low in his back.

He ignored it, but by the time he had driven to the office, he had trouble getting out of the car. There was a sudden stabbing pain in the lower back. Stooped, he struggled through the day. At home, it got worse and he went to bed. After two days flat on his back, he came to our clinic for help.

We found that his stomach muscles and hip flexors were weak and his hamstrings were stiff and tense. When I told him this, he protested. "Doctor, I'm an athlete. I played football. I'm strong as an ox."

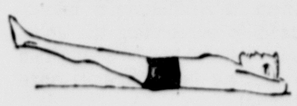
"You were an athlete," I replied, "and if you're strong as an ox, why can't you shovel the driveway without straining your back?"

With proper exercise, he recovered, but he didn't have to fail the test of daily activity in the first place.

We have developed six simple tests that can tell you whether you are a prime candidate for back trouble. Try them out and see for yourself. If you have back trouble now, or other problems, check with your doctor before taking these tests.

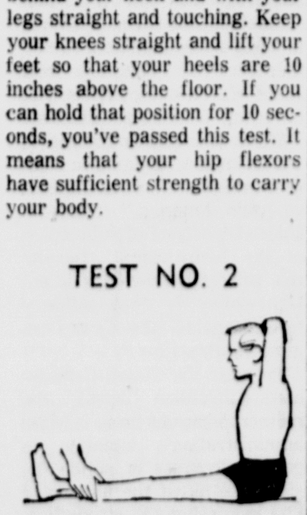
First, make yourself comfortable. Take off your shoes and really relax. Don't rush and don't push. Do not strain.

TEST NO. 1



Lie flat on your back on the floor with your hands clasped behind your neck and with your legs straight and touching. Keep your knees straight and lift your feet so that your heels are 10 inches above the floor. If you can hold that position for 10 seconds, you've passed this test. It means that your hip flexors have sufficient strength to carry your body.

TEST NO. 2



Lie flat on the floor again with your hands clasped behind your neck. Have someone hold down your legs by grasping your ankles or hook your ankles under a heavy chair that won't topple. Now, roll up into a sitting position. You can pass this test by doing one sit up. It shows whether your hip flexors and your stomach muscles combined are strong enough to handle your body weight.

TEST NO. 3

Again, lie flat on the floor with your hands behind your neck, your ankles held down. But this time keep your kees in bent position, heels close to buttocks and feet flat on the floor. Roll up into a sitting position to pass this test. It gauges the strength of your stomach muscles.

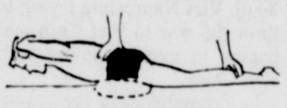
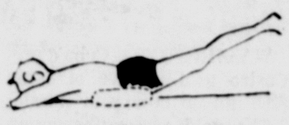
TEST NO. 4



Turn over on your stomach. Put a pillow under your abdomen. Clasp your hands behind your neck and lie flat on the floor. Have your helper hold the lower half of your body steady by placing one hand on the small of your back and the other on your ankles. Now lift the upper part of your body and hold it steady for 10 seconds. It reveals whether your back muscles are strong enough.

TEST NO. 5



Stay on your stomach. Fold your arms under your head. Make sure the pillow is still under your abdomen. Have your helper now hold your back steady with both hands. Now lift your legs up, being sure to keep your knees straight, and hold the position for 10 seconds. This is a test of your low back muscles.

TEST NO. 6

Stand up straight and make sure your feet are together. Now relax, lean over and touch the floor with your fingertips without bending your knees. If you pass this test, it shows you have sufficient flexibility in your back muscles and your ham strings, the muscles in the back of your thighs. If you fail, it is because your muscles have become shortened and tense—not because your arms are too short or your legs too long. This is the last test.

How did you do? Be honest with yourself—because you are the only one who will lose or gain by it. If you passed all six Kraus-Weber tests, you meet the MINIMUM levels of MUSCLAR fitness.

That means you have enough strength and flexibility for your weight and height.

But if you failed even one of these tests, you should consider yourself below par — below par because one of the important muscle groups that help carry your body through life is too weak or too tense.

Evidence in the clinic shows that if you failed one or more of these tests, and you do not yet have back pain, the odds are excellent that you will suffer back pain in the future.

The tests were developed by Dr. Sonja E. Weber of Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital in New York City and myself. We were working in a clinic for children with bad posture—and we developed 15 tests to determine how bad posture is related to lack of muscular ability.

We took the six tests and applied them to patients in a special back clinic at the hospital in 1944, and they enabled us to diagnose not only when muscles were weak and tense, but what muscle groups were involved. Then we could prescribe certain exercises for those muscle groups.

In later articles, we will tell you what specific exercises to do to correct the problems uncovered by the tests.

The human body is a symphony of motion — bone and muscle in delicate interplay. But a tense and inactive life can weaken sections of it, and lead to the discordance of pain and disease.

STUDENTS IN GOVERNMENT — Seniors from San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools assumed the roles of councilmen and department heads in San Rafael yesterday. Here, Recreation Director Joseph Rodota reports on his department's summer employment-for-youth program to councilmen Rob Fenz, Cris Owen, "Mayor" Christopher Taylor, Karen Goldberg and Jeff Heinz. The seniors were participating in the Kiwanis-sponsored "Youth in Government Day."

TAM TRUSTEES SUPPORT CENTER

District's $6,000 Will Help Operate Study Center Two Nights A Week In Marin City

Trustees of Tamalpais High School District last night voted to contribute a maximum of $6,000 to the Marin City Study Center, after hearing the project has benefited district pupils.

Mrs. Ellen Binckley, chairman of the advisory board for the study center, told trustees that high school students within the district are benefiting directly from the center—"the students who are tutoring open up another avenue of learning for other students."

Recommending the financial contribution, James L. Pierce, director of instruction, reported the limited number of Tamalpais district students who need the help would be afforded "a much enriched opportunity" with increased financial aid.

The extra money will assist the study center to open two nights a week instead of one, and provide bus transportation for students from Marin City to Richardson Bay School. Mrs. Binckley told trustees that many Marin City girls were reluctant to walk home from the study center at night in the dark, and the bus would appreciably increase attendance.

The Tamalpais district's contribution is to demonstrate "local interest and support of this federally financed project." Supt. Chester G. Carlisle advised trustees that the contribution was an "appropriate" expenditure of district funds.

The board also voted to apply for federal funds for textbooks for visually handicapped students.

The district's building use policy was updated by trustees. The policy now bans organizational dances on school property, and adds specific restrictions.

District officials had discussed abandoning the rule that school facilities are not to be scheduled for use on Sundays, trustees were told, but it was decided to retain the rule. The only two exceptions are Sunday recreational swimming and Tamalpais High School graduations.

The Tamalpais High School District Board also:

1. Re-employed 276 certificated personnel, 24 of whom acquired tenure by the action.

2. Hired two new teachers: Mrs. Martha M. Myricks, a graduate of San Francisco State College, to teach English at Tamalpais High School, and Miguel A. Campas, a San Francisco State College graduate, to teach driver education for the district.

3. Accepted resignations of: Gordon Chan, Sir Francis Drake High School science teacher, who is leaving for a position with College of Marin; Nathelle D. Taylor, Drake social studies teacher, who is getting married this summer; Mrs. Betty Bailey, Tam High teacher who is leaving to take care of her infant son; Mrs. Lois Polanshek, Tam High physical education teacher, and Mrs. Clara L. Wheeler, home teacher, who is retiring.

4. Granted a three-week special leave to R. R. Genetti, Drake science teacher who will be one of 11 high school physics teachers selected from the nation to act as consultants for high school summer institutes in India. Genetti needed the leave for the last three weeks of the school year; the assignment will extend through July.

5. Learned that a meeting of high school and elementary trustees will be May 21 to hear about articulation programs.

6. Tabled until next meeting a request to waive the statute of limitations on a claim for personal injuries suffered during physical education by Ann Bastian of Belvedere, a Redwood senior.

7. Agreed to tour the new library at Drake High School on May 16 at 7 p.m. before the next board meeting.

Lafayette Man Condition Good

Dr. Herbert C. Enos of Lafayette was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital, recovering from a scalp wound received in a boating quarrel Sunday near Angel Island.

A prominent Piedmont builder, Dean Morrison, 58, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon after Enos, a 48-year-old psychiatrist, was allegedly struck with a boat hook after a near collision of the two men's boats near Hospital Cove.

Morrison is scheduled to appear in San Rafael Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Rights Commission To Discuss Bremond

The Marin County Human Rights Commission will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Civic Center to discuss the firing of Walter Bremond as director of community relations services for the county.

The commission is also to discuss appointment of commissioners in its reorganization under a new ordinance. The ordinance, which will not take effect for two weeks, reduced commission membership from 22 to nine.

Young City Council Urges Jobs For Teen-Agers During Summer

Expansion of San Rafael's program of summer employment for youth was urged yesterday by the city council.

It wasn't the regular council, though, but one made up of San Rafael and Terra Linda high school seniors, who took over the reins of government briefly during "Youth in Government Day," sponsored by the San Rafael Kiwanis Club.

The call for more jobs for teen-agers followed lengthy discussion of the availability of funds, kinds of work to be done, and levels of pay.

Student Mayor Christopher Taylor and fellow council members Karen Goldberg, Cris Owen, Rod Fenz and Jeff Heintz voted unanimously that the $5,000 proposed budget for this purpose be increased by the adult city council. The students noted that this represented an increase over last year's $3,500 for teenage summer jobs, but were not satisfied that enough was being done.

Student Councilman Fenz also called on city departments to look into the hiring of students with "higher skills such as typing" for better paying jobs than provided by the Public Works Department's anti-litter cleanup program.

The 18 seniors chosen as city officials-for-a-day spent the morning with city department heads studying their operations. After lunch at Dominic's Restaurant, they heard students reports on the departments and conducted a council meeting.

Sausalitan On U.S. Grand Jury

Mrs. Marian L. Frick of 16 Bulkley Avenue, Sausalito, was sworn in yesterday as a member of a new Federal Grand Jury which is expected to look into anti-trust cases at the outset of its four-month term.

Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli swore in the jurors in San Francisco, and told them they would meet twice this month. Federal grand juries usually meet only once a month.

Foreman of the new jury is Marvin Earl White of Walnut Creek.

Two Novato Youths Finish Army Training

They are David Mull of 673 Orange Avenue and Kenneth Smith of 1 Oak Park Drive, both 1965 graduates of Novato High School. Mull and Smith entered the Army under the "buddy" system and are scheduled to attend aircraft maintenance school at Fort Rucker, Ala., after their two-week leave.

Corte Madera Budget Holds No Tax Hike

Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher last night handed town councilmen first copies of his proposed $748,008 budget for fiscal 1967 and said it would maintain this year's property tax rate of $1.04 per $100 assessed valuation.

Usher's budget runs $121,648 more than the $626,360 budget for this year. The increase is compensated by extensive use of gasoline tax and urban thoroughfare funds, he said.

PUBLIC WORKS

Largest budgeted increase, he said, is for the public works department $414,643 next year as compared to $221,413 this year. Most of this year's street improvements were done with funds carried over from the fiscal 1965 budget, he said.

Largest public works project planned is connection of Tamalpais Drive to Paradise Drive east of Highway 101 for $140,000. Another $11,300 would go for removal of curb ponds on Lakeside Drive and Mohawk Avenue in Madera Gardens.

Usher's budget calls for use of $58,373 ing as tax funds, plus al lof the city's remaining urban thoroughfare funds—$40,000.

PAYROLL UP

Usher said the city's annual payroll will increase by about $25,000 in fiscal 1967, but the fire department budget will drop by $24,770 and the building and grounds budget will drop by about $60,000.

He attributed the payroll rise to normal increments, plus the cost of living increases granted by the council last week. Fire department and building and grounds budgets were higher last year because of purchase of a new pumper and renovation of the town hall, he said.

For other revenue to the city, Usher said he expects $220,000 in sales tax and $10,000 in motel tax money.

The council made no comment on the budget last night. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst said he wants to organize council field trips for firsthand acquaintance with budget needs before setting formal budget hearings.

Completes Training

Philip L. Ferris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Ferris of 26 Alderney Road, San Anselmo, has completed eight weeks of Coast Guard recruit training at Alameda.

Kindness To Animals Noble But It Can Be Overdone

The annual flood of baby animals is starting to come into the museum. They are usually dubbed "orphans" by their well-meaning finders, but a great percentage of them have anxious parents watching their offspring being removed from their natural habitat.

"Our sad experience with the baby Harbor Seal is an excellent example," says Mrs. Williams. The baby seal received wide publicity and was a highly appealing youngster. But she is dead. All the medical attention and intensive care by both the museum staff and the few "experts" on the raising of seals in the Bay Area could not combat the diseases to which she was exposed by artificial environment. Chances are, if she had been left where she belonged, she would be alive and healthy.

Deer are one of the most common "orphans" that well-meaning individuals adopt and attempt to raise. It is true that occasionally they are deserted by their mothers. This is usually due to a weakness in the infant which the mother can detect. Nature does not provide for weakness, and although it may seem cruel to us, it is often kinder in the long run.

But fawns are too often picked up the second they are seen and whisked away to a home where the human parents discover that raising a baby animal is not as much fun or as easy as one might think.

Birds are probably the most numerous victims and one of the most difficult to cope with. Nests do fall from trees or trees are cut down and occasionally prolonged disturbances will make a bird desert its young. But even if a bird has been touched by human hands, the parents will return and care for it.

If you spot a baby seal "abandoned" on the beach or a fawn "orphaned" in the hills, don't let kindness get the best of you. The baby animals may not be lost or abandoned at all and may have parents watching over it the very moment that you are picking it up out of kindness.

And that act of kindness may mean the end for the baby animal.

During a sample spring day last year, the Boyd Museum had 25 or 30 baby birds, four fawns, and five baby gray squirrels.

"This type of menagerie keeps the museum staff pretty busy," says Mrs. Williams. "So we do plead strongly that unless there is absolutely no alternative but death for the baby if left, please tell your children, friends and relatives to leave the wildlife where it belongs."

"Step right up folks! See how many rounds YOU can last!"

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

LITTLE BOY KEEPS SECRET TO HIMSELF

An intensive search by 100 men for a six-year-old boy ended where it began—safely under the child's own bed.

Police, firemen and volunteers looked high and low in the entire area of the lad's home in Bayville, N.Y. He had been reported missing at noon.

Late that night a policeman made a routine check under the bed—and there he was.

Earlier in the search his grandmother had looked under the bed and the youngster wasn't there. But the frightened boy kept his previous whereabouts a big secret.

Youngsters are often a mystery to parents and elders even when they don't disappear.

Why they are by turns friendly, close-lipped, delightful and "ornery" is something known to God alone.

Show love for children in a firm but compassionate manner. Then they are more likely to grow into that greatest mystery of all—a man or woman who is responsible, wholehearted and good.

"Train a boy in the way he should go; even when he is old, he will not swerve from it." (Proverbs 22:6)

Let me never lose patience with others, Lord, no matter how their actions provoke or baffle me.

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The proposal of William M. Bennett of Kentfield, member of the public utilities commission and at the same time a candidate for nomination at the primaries for attorney general, that the "poor" get free public utilities, marks a new high in nonsense proposed by a political candidate.

As a member of the public utilities commission, Bennett is well aware of the fact that a utility, even though governed by state regulations, is entitled to a certain amount of profit. And no business makes a profit when it gives away services.

So what Bennett is doing, in effect, is suggesting that charges be imposed on the taxpayers to pick up the utility tab for the so-called "poor."

HE ADMITS this by saying that the proposal is "socialism in a sense, and let the PG&E pick up the money from fat customers like you and me."

Bennett should know what it is to be "fat." He has drawn $25,000 of taxpayers' money annually for several years as salary for being a member of the public utilities commission. But probably the rest of the customers of the utilities, after paying taxes for support of the commission, are not so fat, especially after April 15, the date of federal and state tribute contributions for support of governments advocating the philosophy of "give it all away."

Primarily, utilities concerns are financed through stock purchased by people who eke out enough from their earnings to make an investment. These investors expect a return on their money and are, under the system of free enterprise, entitled to such a return, as they have earned the money. Thus, Bennett's proposal is something like asking a bank to donate a portion of its savings investments to the "poor."

THERE IS NO definition of "poor" in the Bennett proposal, just as there is no definition of an accurate nature in the federal program which now is donating billions of dollars to eliminate poverty. The word "poor" is a relative term, and can apply to welfare recipients who squander donations from the taxpayers on jewelry, television, and other non-essentials before they pay their utility bills.

The word "poor" in fact, is a relative term. People who make a comfortable living by working are "poor" in relation to those who earn perhaps more than a comfortable living. But because an individual who earns a comfort or two after taxes has more than those who are living off subsidies from the taxpayer, Bennett feels the excess earned by those who may be considered "well-off" should be diverted to welfare channels for additional gifts to those who won't work for their lights and gas.

Generally, the state gives the welfare recipient enough to pay for his gas and lights. The taxpayer pays for them anyhow, so any additional gifts would be nothing but an added burden on the producer.

IF BENNETT had to work for a living in private enterprise instead of drawing $25,000 a year of the taxpayers' money, he might understand the difference between being at the public trough, and producing goods and services for the benefit of the economy.

Give San Anselmo Police Bouquets

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Please include this in your "bouquets."

A small burglary occured in my home, and within a few hours, the very efficient San Anselmo Police Department had the confession of the two young culprits, and the return of the stolen goods.

I wish to commend these two police officers for their prompt and courteous service — they did as good a job as would have been done by "77 Sunset Strip" or "The San Francisco Beat." Thanks, boys.

Taxpayer Revolt Is Suggested

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Having received notice of proeprty tax reappraisal from the county assessor today, I feel compelled to voice my indignation at the way we taxpayers are being treated. According to the assessor, if mine is any criterion, property values have been increasing at a rate in excess of 10 per cent per year since 1961 after allowance for depreciation.

In actual fact, values have generally been increasing at a rate of nearer 3-4 per cent per year, after depreciation. More recently, values have leveled off and are probably in the start of a period of decline.

At the present assessment and tax rate levels, a property owner can expect to pay the full price for his place purchased in 1961 all over again every 30 years. This is becoming confiscatory and must be brought to an abrupt halt right now.

Last year it was the citizens of Belvedere and Tiburon who were stabbed by over assessments, and thank the Lord they're still fighting the battle in the courts.

This year it is Ross Valley's turn, and those of us who feel this abuse must join together and perhaps join with southern Marin to let the taxing authorities know that we're completely fed up.

It may take an actual taxpayer's revolt; if necessary, we could withhold payment of property taxes next December and the following April we bring the county authorities to their collective knees.

It only costs 6 per cent in penalties, and the tax money you retain can earn up to 5 per cent at the bank, so that the net cost to the individual is only about 1 per cent of his taxes.

Right now the tax delinquency rate in the county is over 5 per cent. Think for a moment what might happen if that jumps to, say, 25 per cent. Think about it!

Many Back United Nations

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A recent letter to the editor regarding the United Nations pointed out that many elected and non-elected officials in Marin County support the United Nations.

This is indeed a fact of which the Marin chapter of the United Nations Assn. is justly proud.

The United Nations has also been supported by distinguished elected and non-elected officials throughout the world, including presidents Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson, the World Council of Churches, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Pope John XXII and Pope Paul VI who made the United Nations the focal point of the historic first papal visit to the United States.

To encourage and support the United Nations, the UNA of the USA welcomes to membership not only the many elected and unelected officials in its ranks but all citizens who are determined "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war . . . to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights . . . to establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom."

The above quotation from the preamble to the charter of the United Nations is the guiding promise for which the United Nations Assn. works. Anyone wishing to join the Marin chapter may do so by sending $7 for a single membership or $10 for a family membership to UNA, Marin, Box 277, Ross.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

ONE OF THOSE insufferable after-dinner speakers who never knew when to stop (and had then left the hall immediately) inspired Adlai Stevenson to bring the festivities to a more cheerful close with, "Gentlemen, Samson slew a thousand in a night with the jaw-bone of an ass. Our guest speaker has just put two thousand to sleep with the same implement and in only half the time."

This was a bit of the wit of Adlai Stevenson—extracted from his speeches by Bill Adler—and here are some others.

1. (In 1952) "I don't feel like a gift from Providence and I really don't believe I am. I feel very much like a corn-fed Illinois lawyer who's gotten into the big time unintentionally."

2. (Speaking about President Eisenhower). "Golf is a fine release from the tensions of office, but we are a little tired of holding the bag."

3. (In 1952) "I feel like the young man who was engaged to marry one of twin girls. Both were extraordinarily beautiful. His uncle asked him one day, 'When you want to kiss and hug your girl, how on earth do you tell them apart?' The young man grinned and replied fervently, 'Uncle, I don't even try!'"

PUNSTERS ON PARADE:

Heard about the horse who had his hair dyed? He signed up for the Kentucky Derby—and won under an assumed mane.

Teacher: What do two pints make? Pupil: A cavort.

'No Sanctuary' Policy Must Be Spelled Out For Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says "there is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

Does this mean that, if Red Chinese planes attack U.S. planes or forces in Viet Nam and then flee back to "sanctuary" in their homeland, American planes will pursue them and bomb them in Red China?

Maybe. But until this is spelled out further in words or deeds, what the State Department said will have to carry a question mark behind it.

IT IS now one war and 15 years later than the Korean war in which the American policy was not to do any fighting in or over Red China even though the Chinese invaded Korea massively under the label of "volunteers."

It was this policy which brought on the historic clash in 1951 between President Harry S. Truman, who wanted to avoid direct war with Red China, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who wanted to bomb it. Truman fired him finally.

In a basic sense Truman's position was similar to President Johnson's today.

TRUMAN was determined to resist North Korean Communist aggression against South Korea but if possible to limit the war to Korea since enlargement, through the involvement of Red China, might lead to World War III.

Johnson has been determined to resist the aggression of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese Communists against South Viet Nam while trying to limit the war to Viet Nam and hoping to avoid tangling with Red China.

In Truman's case the "sanctuary" of Red China was preserved and later a truce achieved, even though the Red Chinese were up to their necks in Korea.

FOR THE PAST 10 days the air war over North Viet Nam has been expanding dramatically, with U.S. fighter planes in a series of dogfights with Soviet-designed MIG-21s.

Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department press officer, was asked Tuesday if the Red planes had come into North Viet Nam from Chinese bases. He said "we have no information which would lead to such a conclusion."

But, explaining that he was repeating a position stated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the past, McCloskey said about the possibility the MIGs came from Red China: "There is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

THEN, HOWEVER, he declined to say whether the "no sanctuary" policy means American planes may chase enemy jets into Communist China if the Red craft flee across the frontier.

Until he is willing to say whether that's what it means, then what meaning does "no sanctuary" have at all, unless it's meant to make the Chinese think twice because as of now they don't know what Rusk has in mind?

It was last July 11 that Rusk said North Viet Nam's supporters "must take fully into account" that in the Viet Nam war "the idea of sanctuary is dead."

At that time other U.S. sources said Red China had been told those who might join in an attack on South Viet Nam could not expect immunity from reprisal.

At least saying there is no sanctuary in this war is further than the U.S. government was willing to go in the Korean War. But then the United States was far less equipped for a big war than now.

Cuba Gold Reserve Has Gone To Russia

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Cuba's pre-Castro gold reserve of some $250 million is now in Russia.

The gold reserve, accumulated by the non-Communist governments that preceded Fidel Castro, was transported to the USSR in Soviet ships over a period of months. Credited as being in charge of this tightly guarded operation was Alfredo Alphonse, close henchman of Castro, and the long mysteriously vanished "Che" Guevara.

Inside details have been revealed by a former high-placed Castro official who defected in Madrid. There have been a number of such defections abroad in recent months. A few have been revealed, but most are still unannounced for security reasons.

ACCORDING TO the defector's account, the $250 million Cuban gold reserve was "commandeered," in effect, by Moscow as payment on the huge quantities of weapons, food, and economic and industrial aid supplied to the Castro regime, which is known to be heavily in arrears on large debts owed the Soviet bloc.

Intelligence authorities estimate it's costing the Reds $1 million a day to keep Castro-ruled Cuba's grossly mismanaged and floundering economy afloat.

The defector said that some of the Cuban gold was used to finance espionage activities in the U.S.; some of the gold went for a deposit of five million in U.S. dollars in a Canadian bank to pay for machinery and parts urgently needed in Cuba.

Lazero Pena, long-time Cuban Communist and member of Castro's inner ruling clique, is in charge of subversive machinations in the Dominican Republic and Haiti, the defector said.

Campaign funds for former Dominican President Juan Bosch were being funneled through Organization International Travello (OIT), he said. Also, Castro labor leaders reputedly have established close ties with Dominican laborites through the leftist Federation of World Syndicates, with headquarters in Prague.

WHILE THE OFFICIAL account of Moscow's confiscation of Cuba's gold reserve has been shelved, the State Department is circulating a memorandum expounding the Johnson administration's position regarding the Communist-ruled island.

Prepared by Robert Sayre, deputy assistant secretary for inter-American affairs, the backstage document, titled "Statement on Cuban Policy," is being made available to key members of Congress and Latin American diplomats. The following points are stressed:

While the Castro regime is not currently deemed a "direct military threat to the U.S. or Latin America," it is considered a "focus of subversion in the hemisphere." Despite this subversive threat it is not U.S. policy to "use military force" against the Castro regime at this time.

To meet the Cuban Communist subversion threat, the memorandum declares it is the administration's intention to pursue "courses of action designed to assist the nations of this hemisphere in strengthening their ability to resist subversion rather than take any direct action against Cuba. . . . We intend to continue on this course in the conviction that it is the most effective means, under present circumstances, of attaining our objective of a free Cuba."

THE NAVY is setting up a surveillance for a freighter believed enroute to the U.S. with a cargo of 10,000 tons of Rhodesian chromite.

The ore, a vital ingredient in the manufacture of high-grade steel, reputedly is being transported in a Greek-owned ship due to arrive off the East Coast sometime next week. Its alleged destination is Mobile, Ala.

Plastic Bird Nest, Hospital Service And Income Tax Strain

The late Robert Benchley one time had to undergo an operation, the nature of which I have forgotten, if I ever knew. Soon after he recuperated he wrote a comical account of it entitled: "Speaking of Operations."

This he sold, probably for much more than the cost of the operation and the hospital bills.

I recently did a short hitch in Novato General Hospital. Not being as comical as Robert Benchley, I will not try to duplicate his treatise on his sickness.

I WOULD LIKE to make one observation. Novato Hospital has excellent service. Other hospitals may be bigger. Others may have better and more expensive equipment, or may be serviced by more doctors. But none can ever give better service, I believe.

Nurses, nurses aides, orderlies and volunteers are so busy that they are always darting in and out of the room. One just has to think of something one needs and someone is there to furnish it.

LOOKING OUT of my back window one day last week, I thought that my eyes must be playing tricks on me. A second glance confirmed what I had seen the first time.

A robin flew by, trailing plastic streamers up to a foot and a half long behind him.

In just a few minutes he went by again, trailing the plastic streamers. He gained speed and flew high up into a big pine tree across the street.

The robin would go into the tree, leave his load of plastic streamers and then fly into the yard next door to get more.

I remembered that the neighbors had just thrown their Christmas tree out by the garage where it stood, a forelorn looking object during the winter rains. The tree had been decorated with plastic streamers and as spring came, these fell off with the needles of the tree.

THIS SUPPLY of building materials was just too inviting for the robin. Trip after trip he made all morning and into the afternoon. He would fill his beak with 15 to 20 of these plastic ribbons and then streak off for his nest high in the pine tree, the plastic streaming behind him.

Up in the tree his mate was weaving the nest. She was unaccustomed to the use of such modern material, and occassionally she let a piece of it get away. It would come fluttering down to earth. Some of them she wove into the nest, but the long ends of them baffled her and they hung down.

As the afternoon sun swung around to hit the limb of the tree, there the mother robin sat in her nest—the gawdiest bird's nest I've ever seen. It glistened and gleamed in the sun. The wind fanned the streamers from it, making it a shimmering object high in the tree.

So it's come to that—plastic bird's nests.

WITH INCOME TAX behind us, everyone heaves a sigh of relief to get the yearly accounting done. We can sympathize with everyone who has to go through the annual ritual of paying tribute to the gods in Washington.

Somewhere in the back of our mind, we realized that this was the harvest season for the income tax consultants. We knew that this was the time of year when they made it, but big.

Little did we realize how it affected them physically and mentally. A sign on the Marin-Sonoma Income Tax Service in the Patio Building in Novato told the story.

The office was closed. On it was this sign:

Birth Defects Strike One In 16, Meet Told

One child in 16 is born with a significant, and often preventable, birth defect, Dr. Virginia Apgar, birth defects specialist for the March of Dimes, told the Marin County chapter at its annual dinner last night at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael.

Almost all significant birth defects develop in the first three months of pregnancy, she noted. Specific vaccinations can prevent some causes of birth defects, as can close attention to the mother's diet.

Dr. Apgar noted that in pregnancy, an excess of vitimins can be as dangerous as an inadequate amount. She said that too much radiation, even from X-rays given long before the mother gets pregnant, can cause defects.

Five or six specific defects can be fairly accurately predicted for the child of a particular couple, even before they are married, she said, and added that a close look at the medical history of the two families of the baby's parents should preceed the couple's decision to have a child.

Research into birth defects, and early diagnosis and treatment for children with birth defects, has been the major goal of the March of Dimes since 1958. Dr. Apgar estimated that the foundation has spent 24 million dollars in this field of research since 1958.

She said that a third birth defect center, in addition to those in Oakland and San Francisco, is being planned for the Bay Area.

The most plentiful source of silver, almost from the beginning of its history, has been galena, the lead ore which usually, though not invariably, contains a small proportion of the more precious metal.

Forced Fluoridation Might Take Away One Of Our Last Liberties

A modern Hamlet, brooding on a current dilemma, might sacrifice meter and put it thus: "To fluoridate or not to fluoridate, that is the question." Concededly, that's not blank verse—nor is it a soliloquy, what with everyone getting into the act.

Communities are being torn apart on the issue. Little old ladies have doffed their comfortable tennis sneakers for spiked shoes, "the better to kick you with, my dear." And slippered pantaloons are bashing each other's heads with ancient shillelaghs I had thought long turned into ploughshares.

MORE TEETH STREW the battlefield than the proponents of forced fluoridation can hope to save in 10 generations even if they win. In fact, the carnage is so frightful that I am astonished the United Nations hasn't taken the matter to the Security Council.

Previously uninvolved, I now feel obligated to enter the arena in the role of ending the bloodshed and negotiating an honorable peace. Here then, having duly sworn to tell the truth, I offer my testimony: offer my testimony:

First, all the evidence indicates conclusively that fluoridation reduces tooth decay in children. Whether it has the same effect upon adults is not so clear.

But the assertion that no recognized doctors or dentists see any hazard in it and that the opposition comes only from right-wing paranoids who think fluoridation is another Commie plot is utter baloney.

FOR AT LEAST a decade some highly reputable medicos have been warning that fluorine — "an irritating toxic gas, one of the most powerful oxidizing elements known, attacking water, most metals and organic compounds," says Webster's — may, stored in the body, have some disastrous after-effects.

Last year an article in the Saturday Review — hardly right- wing politically — told of a group of Canadian scientists — who could not have voted for Goldwater — who reported some shocking bodily deformities which they attributed to the accumulation of fluorine in the system.

AN EASTERN DENTIST I know is confining his use of it to children entirely, and doing so sparingly. "Some of the things I have seen remind me of calomel." That allusion escaped me and he went on to say that, until some decades ago, calomel was widely used as a cathartic and was in every family's medicine cabinet.

It did its work well but those who used it too often, it was discovered, might lose all their teeth before they were 30, due to the accumulation of mercury in their systems. Today, calomel's main use is as an insecticide.

And my own dentist, though he leans toward the majority in this dispute, tells me of an experience of his own. In a Southern community, the river had a very high fluoride content, and the three children of this particular family were warned never to drink anything but bottled water.

WHEN THE FAMILY moved here and he became their dentist, he found two of the children had good teeth, but the third lad's enamel was badly eroded. Puzzled, he questioned the youngster and discovered the boy hadn't liked the taste of the bottled water and secretly used to quench his thirst from the faucet.

Now I have no medical pretensions, but I think there is a common sense solution. By all means, let those who want their children to get the undoubted benefits of fluoridation use any of the many toothpastes that have been so treated — and use it themselves, if they wish.

And don't tell me there are families so poor they can't afford toothpaste. If there are such, let's use a few of the millions appropriated for the anti-poverty program to buy them some. Or, if that is unthinkable, I'd even be willing to be taxed additionally to provide for them.

BUT WHY COMPEL those who have doubts — stupidly or wisely — to drink fluoridated water? If bad teeth were a communicable disease, I could see some justification for the frantic commissars who demand compulsion.

But the teeth involved are our own and we ought to be allowed to do as we see fit with them. Or is Big Brother going to take away this almost last freedom we have, in the sacred name of the Great Society?

IN PRISON

Violin Is Returned To Face The Music

A violin has been sent back to San Quentin Prison after 13 years of good behavior on the outside.

The violin appears to have spent much of the years 1933 to 1953 at Folsom and San Quentin as the companion of a man doing time as a sex offender.

The worn violin—its battered leather case with rusty hinges testifying to a life of hard knocks—was among musical instruments collected by Sherman Clay and Co. music store in San Rafael for donation to inmate music classes at San Quentin.

Margo Margossion, operator of the store, said an unidentified woman brought in the violin and a guitar after reading in the Independent-Journal of the drive to collect instruments for the prisoners.

"She said she had bought the violin at a pawn shop many years ago and been told it was left there by a man who'd just got out of prison," Margossian said.

A metal tag, of the kind used by prisons to mark inmates' property, was attached to the inside of the case. It bore the number 54537. A search of prison records brought its history to light.

According to Gene E. Short, who teaches music at the prison, the violin will have the distinction of being the only one in the place.

Short, having conducted classes at San Quentin for three years, now has volunteer help from Ronald Cole, director of the Sherman Clay School of Music, and Sherman Clay instructor Ed Wood. The two men, who have sparked the drive for instruments, teach two nights a week.

San Rafael Compares Costs Of Own, County Park Bond

If the City of San Rafael were to have its own $500,000 park bond issue, the required tax levy would be 3.75 cents, according to Orrin Wendling, city finance director.

Under the county's proposed $4.3 million park bond issue, the tax levy has been estimated at 4.5 cents and the city would receive $511,000 as it share.

Wendling reported to the San Rafael City Council last night that the city wouldpay about $900,000 over the 20-year period of the county bonds.

If the county were to sell only $2 million in bonds for county facilities, the tax levy would be about 2.2 cents, he said. Then if San Rafael were to issue $500,000 in bonds at 3.75 cents, the total tax levy would be .95 cents, Wendling calculated. "We would be paying about $750,000 on the city issue and $440,000 on the county issue, for a total of $1,190,000."

The owner called in a professional landscape gardener who planted both beauty and efficiency. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

The Denver psychiatrist, Dr. Franklin G. Ebaugh believes there is a better way to treat insomnia than with sleeping pills and alcohol. These drugs promote slumber, but do not recharge our batteries as follows a night of natural sleep. This in turn reduces efficiency during the day and creates enough tension by nightfall to keep the user awake.

Dr. Ebaugh blames the ability of barbiturates and heavy drinking to prevent dreaming. There is considerable evidence that dreaming is essential to restorative sleep, and when dreams are prevented the individual becomes irritable even though he slept like a baby.

THIS IS a new but plausible theory and time will tell whether it can be substantiated.

The toxic after-effects of these drugs also include irritability, lack of concentration, and other symptoms of "hangover." However, many people dream after taking a barbiturate.

Insomnia is closely related to the personality and emotional make-up of the individual. Some fight sleep because they hate to waste eight hours in a non-productive state.

MANY WORRY about their capabilities and are so wound up at night they cannot relax. Others seek sleep because it relieves them of responsibilities and cares. These individuals are likely to demand sleeping pills because of the belief that insomnia lessens their efficiency or because it helps them escape reality.

Still others have a phobia about loss of consciousness, a carry-over, perhaps, of the time when sleeping meant the surrender of their best weapon of survival, the ability to cope.

Improvement occurs when they accept the condition and learn to live with it. The individual must appreciate the need for sleep and not use it for escape.

MOST OF US work eight hours a day and can adjust the remaining 16 hours to allow sleeping at the most propitious time. When the person is worried and cannot sleep, he should do something constructive or enjoyable. The thought of getting out of bed and working often has a soporific effect.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

HORMONE USES

Mrs. M. A. writes: Have you ever heard of female hormones being used in cases other than cancer?

REPLY

Yes. These hormones are most widely used in controling the uncomfortable symptoms associated with the menopause. They also are employed in other glandular disturbances.

HYPERTENSION

C. K. writes: If a person's blood pressure is more than 100 plus his age, does this mean he has high blood pressure?

REPLY

Not necessarily, especially if he is under 50. This calculation is no longer used. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on high blood pressure.

TWILIGHT THROAT

Mrs. G. O. writes: Do you know why my throat becomes sore as soon as it gets dark? It is all right during the day.

REPLY

To be honest, no. Persons who talk all day are likely to have a husky, raspy throat toward evening and the same occurs when there is prolonged exposure to irritating fumes or dust.

FACIAL PARALYSIS

R. B. A. writes: Could an ear infection paralyze the face on one side?

REPLY

Yes, because the facial nerve emerges in the vicinity of the ear.

Government Starts Drive On Hospital Segregation

By JACK C. LANDAU
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — The federal government has started a crash desegregation program to force all hospitals to comply with the non-discriminatory regulations of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The program is being mastermined by the secretary of health, education and welfare, John W. Gardner, who said recently that no Medicare or other federal medical payments will go to hospitals that discriminate between white and Negro patients, physicians, nurses aides and doctors in training.

The government will insist that hospitals offer biracial room and ward occupancy, and permit physicians of both races to use hospital facilities for their patients.

Gardner's press conference was obviously aimed at administering a public tongue lashing to segregationist hospital administrators, boards of trustees and community leaders, mostly in the South.

Officials say a recent survey of 8,500 hospitals across the nation indicates 500—almost all of them in nine southern states—are balking at compliance with federal desegregation requirements.

The 500 hospitals represent about 40 per cent of the 1,200 southern hospitals that otherwise qualify for Medicare payments.

This estimate of balking hospitals is higher than has been indicated by complaints filed by civil rights groups in protest of hospital segregation. In Alabama, for example, there are 13 accredite5d hospitals and 27 complaints were voiced. In Louisiana, of 115 hospitals there were 31 complaints; and in Mississippi, of 106 hospitals there were 28 complaints.

But federal officials point out that not all segregated hospitals have been cited in complaints filed with the agency.

For the past year, the U.S. Public Health Service and Gardner's office have been waging a quiet campaign to persuade southern hospitals to lower racial barriers.

These efforts have met with varying success. The department points to voluntary integregation at the North Mississippi Community Hospital in Tupelo; the Mississippi State University Hospital in Jackson; Mobile (Ala.) General and Providence Hospitals; the Medical College Hospital at Charleston, S.C.; the Milledgeville State Hospital in Milledgeville, Ga., and others.

But, as a public health service official noted, for "each success, there is a matching case of attempted non-compliance." For example; some hospitals have removed racial signs from restrooms but then locked the restroms and gave keys to white employees only; transferred Negro patients into wards for a public health service examination and later transferred them back; and insisted that Negro mothers want to nurse their children in all-Negro wards.

Public health service officials explain that refusals to desegregate stem from a number of causes. Hospitals administrators of many southern hospitals are frankly segregationist. Those who are moderate on racial matters are overruled by segregationist boards of trustees. Even if both administrators and trustees are willing, they often fearl local boycotts in segregationist communities.

Last Monday, there were indications of a showdown when 100 investigators from the Equal Health Opportunities Office in hew went to hospitals in southern and border states.

These investigators, and regional public health service officials, will now step up their campaign to talk to local hospital officials and community leaders. They have already set up conferences at regional hospital association meetings.

Hospitals have a tremendous financial stake in federal health money. In adidtion to the $2 billion Medicare program, there is an additional $1.2 Billion a year for other federally supported construction and health service programs. This amounts to approximately 25 per cent of the $12 billion spent last year by the nation's hospitals.

Health Service Awards Study Grants

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Public Health Service awarded 1,491 research grants and 306 fellowships totaling $54.6 million during March. The grants went to 225 institutions in 43 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and 17 foreign countries.

According to a report from the Service yesterday, $14.2 million was allocated ot 603 new research projects and fellowships; the remaining $40.4 million went to continue programs already in progress.

Senate Finance Textbook Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted to appropriate $13 million to buy new elementary school textbooks. That is $3.4 million more than Gov. Edmund G. Brown proposed but $6.1 million less than education leaders want.

Chairman George Miller Jr. D-Martinez, said the commitee took the action at a closed-doors session yesterday.

Although the action was not final, it indicated key senators were not willing to go along with the educators' full request.

Mrs. Johnson Aids Shade Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson did some spade work for the Department of Agriculture yesterday.

She planted a new variety of shade tree — the Bedford pear tree — on the grounds of the department's administration building.

The tree, which grows to a height of 50 feet, is being promoted as one that will eventually be planted across the nation as "a perfect shade tree."

TV IN REVIEW

Elinor Donahue Has Top Memory At Party

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —A nice thing happened at a party this past weekend and since it involves a longtime friend of yours, maybe you'd like to hear about it.

The nice thing occurred in a modest little millionaires' hangout called the Bel Air Country Club, in a room about the size of the Rose Bowl. And the occasion was a get-together for the latest group of ABC-TV executives to be promoted to their inevitably short, happy reigns at the top. It is a little like fattening the bulls before letting them out into the ring. More than 200 of Hollywood's finest partygoers turned out to praise the brave bulls and get their ears, and hardly anybody could remember the names of their predecessors.

The nice thing took place near the end of the party, when I was just about worn down by the mental indigestion and sheer social discomfort of all such occasions, and I was angry at myself for breaking my vow to avoid them.

I flopped into a chair to recuperate, and as I looked around the room I noticed your longtime friend, Elinor Donahue, who portrayed the teenage daughter of Robert Young and Jane Wyatt in one of television's most successful series, "Father Knows Best." Miss Donahue was standing in a little group that included her distinguished-looking husband, Harry Ackerman, a top Hollywood television production executive.

I marveled at how Miss Donahue hardly seemed a day older, and how natural, wholesome and friendly she appeared at this function so well populated by sharks.

I had seen her in person only once before, and a long time ago. It was so long ago, in fact, that I didn't even own a television set at the time and had no idea who she was. I was bumming through Los Angeles on my way to South American, and some movie-connected relatives in Beverly Hills suggested that I sponge off them for a few days and taste the good life before heading back to thumbing and bus fares.

One beautiful afternoon, they took me to one of those beautiful daytime Beverly Hills parties, at a beautiful home with loads of beautiful people who wandered around a beautiful pool and a beautiful living room, almost as big as the Bel Air Country Club's.

A young lady and I struck up a conversation, and of course she was Miss Donahue. We had a pleasant talk, and later her agent asked me if I would please drive her home. I did, we said goodbye, and not until the party of the brave bulls did I see her again.

Anyway, I noticed her, and she happened to turn around, and smiled a smile of recognition. I wondered whether she was merely being polite, or whether she really could do such a nice thing as to remember somebody from so long ago. I went over, and was astounded as she remembered the details of that nice afternoon.

She told me she now had three children, and I told her I had a daughter, and I asked her how come she wasn't acting any more, and she said she no longer was interested in it, and we exchanged pleasantries and said goodbye. So that is the latest on your longtime friend. She has a fine memory. It was a nice thing.

School Officials Checking Book On Bill Of Rights

LOS ANGELES (P) — State school officials have had their first look at a new source book for teachers on the Bill of Rights, and they say it looks like a good tool for education.

The volume — "The Bill of Rights, a Source Book for Teachers"—was examined Saturday at an Education for Freedom conference here. Said one participant, UCLA Law School Dean Richard C. Maxwell:

"Up until now, teachers have been without materials to help them teach principles of the Bill of Rights effectively. No point of view is being represented by the new book except the belief in constitutional government.

"I have no fear that the material will be used by teachers to indoctrinate pupils with ideas for either left or right."

Officials said teachers of 12th grade history and civics classes will take part in special workshops this summer to learn to use the material.

The thick book is being financed by a $3,000 grant from the Constitutional Rights Foundation of Los Angeles and federal funds.

Prince's Death Said Suicide

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI) —Police today investigated the death of Prince Freidrich of Prussia, a grandson of the last German Kaiser, whose body was found floating in the Rhine River Sunday.

Authorities ordered examinations to determine the cause of death but said there "can be no doubt" that the 54-year-old prince took his own life.

His family reported he had been in "a state of utter despair" for several weeks because of the impending breakup of his marriage of 21 years to Lady Brigid Guinness, heir to Britain's Guiness beer empire.

THEY'LL MISS HER PIES—Mrs. Mildred Jensen will miss the youngsters at Tamalpais High School when she retires in June from her job as school canteen manager. She doesn't want to quit, but the law says she must, for she'll be 70 in August. (Independent-Journal photo)

Retirement To Hit Tam Appetites

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"I'm a pie face," said Mrs. Mildred Jensen, canteen manager at Tamalpais High School for the past 10 years.

"All my girls are too," she added, meaning the three women who work with her.

"I just love food—cooking and preparing, especially home cooking. I don't care for bakery and restaurant cooking so much."

Mrs. Jensen would prefer not to retire, but under state law, she must. She will be 70 in August, the compulsory retirement age, but will leave work at the end of school in June.

A restaurateur 40 years before coming to Tamalpais, Mrs. Jensen has operated 30 eating houses, mainly in Wichita, Kans., and Spokane, Wash.

"Had I known of this kind of work, I would never have been in business for myself. I enjoy working with the students. I have liked the youngsters and I feel I have had a part of the school with them," she said.

She admitted she spoils them. "I bake for them. I cook for them." She said in strawberry season she makes strawberry pies so they won't eat so much candy.

Mrs. Jensen said the canteen bakes about 12 to 14 cakes per day.

"At the last of the year we always send some pies to the district office," she related. "Lemon chiffon is their favorite."

Working with the manager are Mrs. Clarisse Harris, six years at the canteen, who will become manager; Clara Schmitt and Mrs. Molly Lambretta. "When I first started they had no added help other than students," Mrs. Jensen said.

Now there are 15 students, some of whom are "sellers" who are paid for their work and others who work for credits to gain office experience.

"I try to teach them how to make a living," explained Mrs. Jensen. "In fact, I teach all the time. It doesn't do too much good sometimes but, if they don't do very well, they don't get a good grade."

"I have stayed younger with the young people. I can't convince anybody that I'm almost 70."

Mrs. Jensen said she starts work at 6 a.m. and gets off about 2 p.m., then goes home to San Francisco to prepare dinner for her husband, an assistant engineer at Edgewood Home. "We eat early at 5," she said.

Mrs. Jensen said she will be a housewife for a change on retirement.

At the canteen she and colleagues prepare hot dogs, hamburgers, cold sandwiches, roast a turkey every day. Asked her eating preference, she responded, "Pie."

Snakeroot, or milkwort, was once so well known as a panacea that quacks added it to all their nostrums along with such staples as snake oil and swamp water.

SCIENTIFIC RECORD?

San Rafael Students Labor On Frog's Stop-Go Heart

Three sophomores at San Rafael High School are claiming a new world record. They have stopped and started a frog's heart 19 times.

Uncertain of precedents and possible challenges, the three biology students announced the achievement today. The subject of the experiment wasn't present. He succumbed in an attempt to raise the record to 20.

Self-styled record holders are Doug Jones, Eric Sluser and Dale Anderson. They performed the experiment on a leopard frog in teacher Larry Lack's biology class last Friday, over a period of two and one-half hours.

According to Lack, the experiment, annually performed in high school biology classes, tests a frog's sympathetic and parasympathetic nervous systems. The subject is injected alternately with acetylcholine, which stops the heart's action, and with adrenalin, which restarts it.

Lack recalled that his college professor said eight times was the maximum number of times a frog's heart had been stopped and started. Previously at San Rafael High, four times was the record.

Now the three sophomores are waiting for challenges. Said Lack: "You have to admit it's different to crowding into telephone booths."

Church Loses Pay Telephone

Loss of a pay telephone in a burglary at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, Donahue Street and Drake Avenue, Marin City, was reported yesterday by sheriff's deputies.

Rev. Donald Schilling told officers entry was by breaking the window of a rear door. The telephone was ripped off a wall and carried away, he stated.

Amount of change in the telephone box was not known.

Longer Terms Being Levied To Fight Crime

LONG BEACH (AP) — California's crackdown on crime means longer prison sentences for robbers, narcotics dealers and violent offenders and tighter parole supervision, Gov. Brown said yesterday.

Brown told a convention of the California Peace Officers Assn. that under new state procedures, prison terms for robbery have been increased by 25 per cent.

"For assault with a deadly weapon, prison terms are up 17 per cent and for narcotics violations the terms have increased by 25 per cent," Brown said in prepared remarks.

The Adult Authority, Brown said, not only keeps convicts in prison longer, "it keeps the right people in prison longer" through new testing programs.

"Today, we can tell more successfully than ever before whether a man who has committed a violent crime is likely to commit a violent crime again," the governor said.

Marin City Pupil Wins Special College Chance

Gloria Alee of Marin City, an eighth grade student at Sausalito's Richardson Bay School, has been accepted to attend a special program to study English and mathematics at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., this summer.

Miss Alee, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn McBride of 713 Drake Avenue, will attend the school from June 29 to Aug. 24 and, if she completes the program successfully, will be eligible for a scholarship at Verde Valley School, Sedona, Ariz., in September.

The scholarship, reported Robert D. Thomson, Richardson Bay School principal, is paid from federal funds in conjunction with the Independent Schools Talent Search program of Hanover, N.H.

Last year two Richardson Bay School students, Stanley Davidson and Ernest Clark, both of Marin City, received full scholarships to Verde Valley School.

Division Chairman Named For Crusade

George M. Henderson of San Rafael, Marin district manager for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., will head the commerce and industry division for the 1966 United Bay Area Crusade in Marin County.

William H. Johnson, who heads the commerce and industry campaigns for five counties, announced the appointment today.

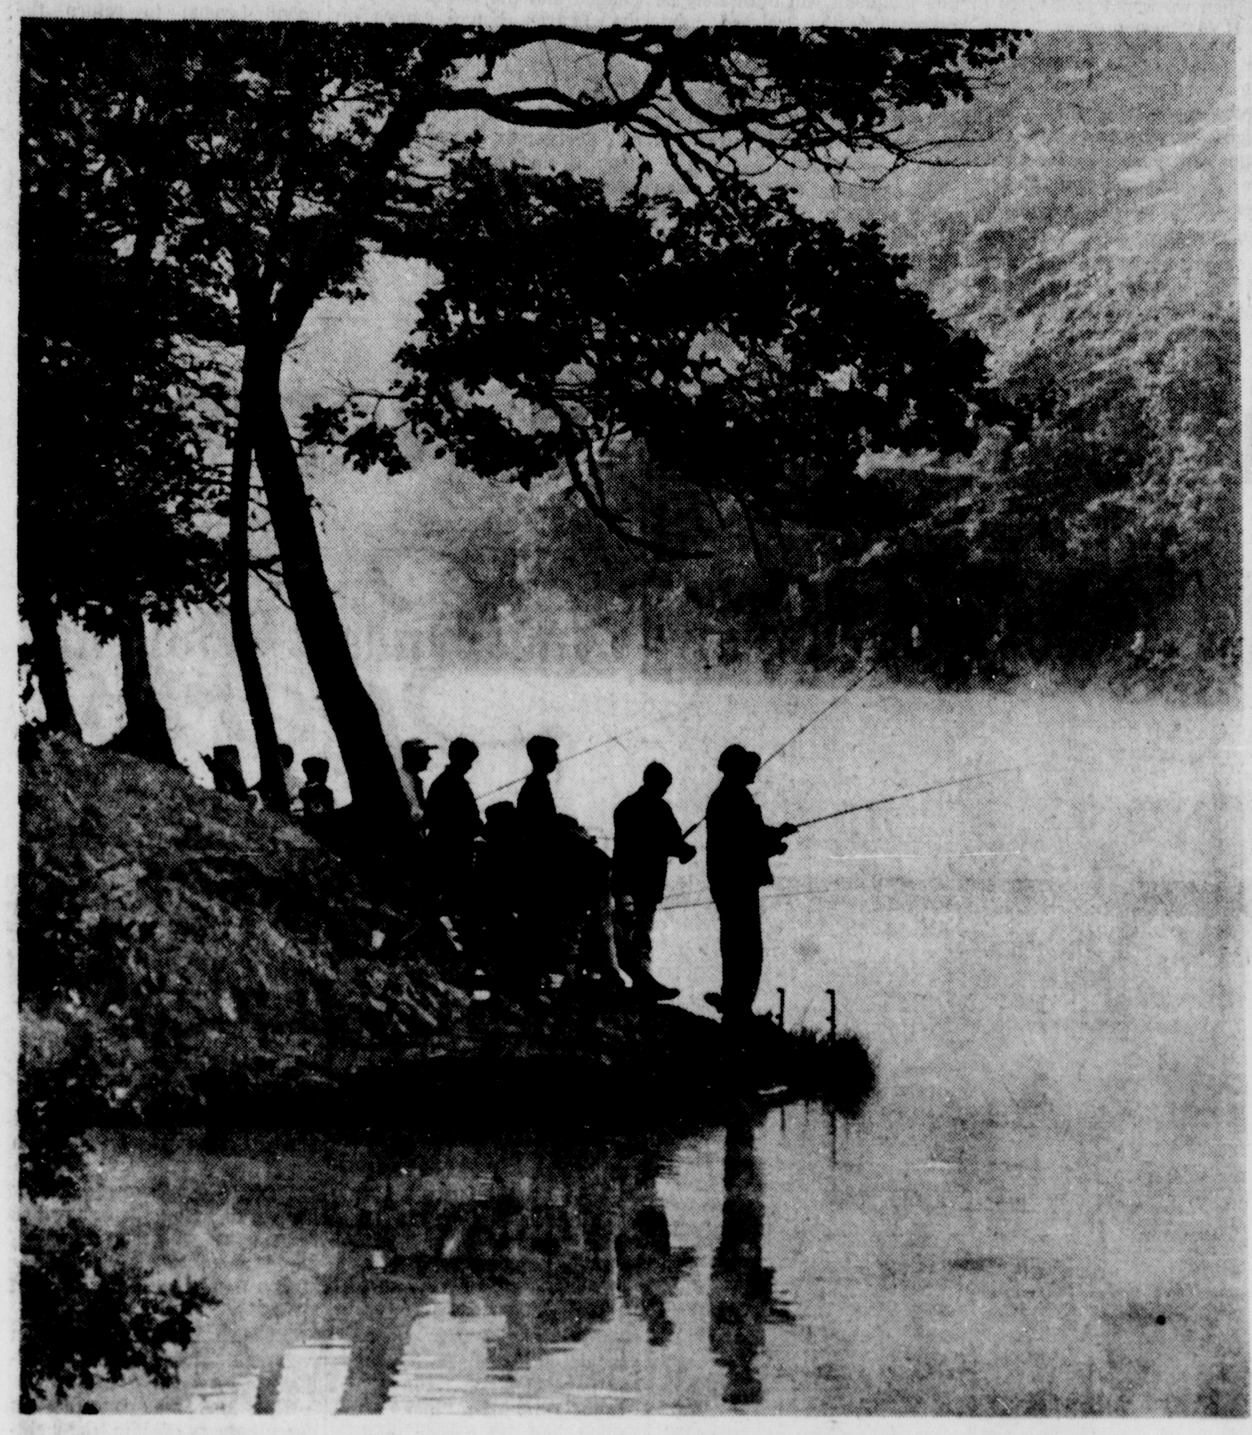
Marin Fishermen Strike It Rich On Trout Opener



BEAUTIFUL DAY—After the early morning fog lifted, Marin County fishermen enjoyed a beautiful day Saturday when they opened the 1966 trout season. At Lake Lagunitas (above), about 1,000 anglers lined the shore and caught approximately 7,000 fish on the first day.

QUIET! GENIUS AT WORK—Little Jim Preston of Ross was all business when Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean caught this picture of him reeling in a trout on opening day of the season at Lake Lagunitas. Youngsters were out in great numbers Saturday and most of them were rewarded with limit catches.

WINNING FISH—Keith Canghie brings out a 10½-inch trout as twin brother Ken (right) watches. This is the one that won a 50-cent bet between the San Anselmo brothers on who would catch the largest fish of the day.

GIRLS, TOO — Proving that the weaker sex can enjoy fishing too is nine-year-old Lori Jerome of San Rafael with a limit she caught all by herself. Her dad, Ronald, also took his limit of 10 fish.

TWO LIMITS — Chris Jones (left) and Mike J. Bouscal, both of San Rafael, display their limit catches taken at Lagunitas. Four months ago the state planted 10,000 catchable-sized trout in the lake and on opening day alone an estimated 7,000 were caught.

N.L. Reveals All-Out Battle In Antitrust Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League has picked up a symbolic torch in its battle to keep the Braves in Atlanta and instructed league attorneys to carry the flame all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

The torch was picked up by National League President Warren Giles, and the league's strategy in the case revealed by league attorneys Lou Carroll and Bowie Kuhn after a two-hour meeting of the 10 club owners yesterday.

Giles said the league will appeal all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if it has to — the first team the N. L. has flatly stated it intends carrying the case that far—and reiterated that expansion into Milwaukee could not be considered until all appeals had been decided.

"We are carrying the torch for all team sports — pro football, pro basketball and pro hockey — in this fight," Giles said, apparently referring to the antitrust facets of the case.

Giles' statement was part of the league's answer to the decision handed down last month by Circuit Court Judge Elmer Roller, who ruled the Braves violated state antitrust statutes in moving the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

Judge Roller, at the same time, ordered the Braves returned to Milwaukee by May 18 unless the National League made plans by May 16 to include a Milwaukee franchise by 1967. It is this decision that the National League first will appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Asked what would be the next step if the Wisconsin Supreme Court turned down the appeal, Carroll said:

"Then we would seek to go to the U.S. Supreme Court."

In revealing its strategy, the league issued a three-page, mimeographed press release which reaffirmed that the league will push its case up all legal avenues and will not consider expansion at this point.

"We shall exert every effort to obtain review of the judgment of the Milwaukee County Court and we are confident that this judgment will ultimately be reversed," the release said. "Until this situation is cleared up by the appellate court of highest resort, we cannot consider operation in Wisconsin by the Braves or by an expansion club."

The league statement also noted that the Braves could not be returned to Milwaukee without violating injunctions in Georgia and Texas courts "which require the National League and the Braves to play the Braves home games in Atlanta."

The statement then touched on the antitrust facets of the case, noting that "Judge Roller's decision is expressly based upon a finding that organized baseball, as it now exists, constitutes a monopoly and a conspiracy in direct violation of the Wisconsin antitrust laws."

And it went on to say:

"Notwithstanding that finding, the decision orders the National League to return the Braves to Milwaukee, presumably on the theory that so long as Milwaukee has a team, violations of Wisconsin law will be ignored. We cannot accept that."

In Milwaukee, Steven Keane, special counsel for the county, said, "They've taken their position. We'll do whatever needs to be done in regards to that position."

Donkeys To Romp In Marin Gym; Prep Hurlers Ahead Of Hitters

Today's riddle, children, is: What has four legs, long ears, goes hee-haw and dribbles all over a basketball court?

What's that you say? Hummpf! I haven't played basketball in years, wise guy!

The answer will be presented at College of Marin's gymnasium tomorrow, 8 p.m. when the college's Block M Club presents a donkey basketball game. Teams representing the Block M and college faculty will ride donkeys in a game that promises to provide plenty of spills, thrills, laughs and added chores for the janitorial department.

PITCHERS ARE way ahead of the hitters in the Marin Athletic League this season.

Of the 71 players who have had five or more at-bats, only 14 (20 per cent) are batting .300 or better while 36, or 51 per cent, are batting .199 or less.

Ten batters are in the .250 to .299 bracket and 11 are hitting between .200 and .249.

NOVATO HAS the best baseball school in the league, judging by the combined records of varsity, junior varsity and frosh teams.

The North Marin school's total record for all three teams is 14-3. Tamalpais is next with 12-6 while Terra Linda is third with 11-6. Then come Marin Catholic and Redwood with 8-10 each, San Rafael 5-13 and Drake 4-14.

HOW IS THIS for a great start? Eight-year-old Lon McEachern of Corte Madera pitched a perfect no-hit, no-run game last Saturday in his very first try at organized sports.

Lonnie's perfecto was a 24-0 victory for Kramer Shoes over Corte Madera Pharmacy in the Twin Cities Minor Little League season opener.

Major league scouts may file this clipping for future reference.

IN TWO games this season pitcher Steve Miller of San Anselmo has maintained a brilliant 0.82 earned run average for the Durham, N.C. Astros of the Class A Carolina League.

Miller, who lost his first outing of the season, won his second and at last report has a 1-1 record, having worked in 11 innings, giving up 12 hits, 8 walks and striking out 6, with that sparkling 0.82 ERA.

JOE ANSELMO, mastermind behind the 14-game winning streak of Litchfield's semi-pro baseball team of San Rafael is also a fair hand at bowling. Joe blasted games of 219 and 204 en route to a 592 series in the Nite Owls League at Nave Lanes last week.

THE QUIPPING POST:

A radio newsman, reporting on the Thad Spencer-Brian London fight last night, observed, "Both fighters were warned for using their heads." Spencer outthought London. By a decision.

And, in explaining his Redwood High School golf team's phenomenal 23-match victory streak, Coach Dick "You Gotta Have" Hart offered heartily, "We use the fast break." Otherwise, Dick is a pretty funny guy.

HONEY WINS BY A HAIR

Terra Linda sprinter Dick Honey (right) shades Tamalpais High School's Honor Jackson in the 100-yard dash during the schools' final dual meet of the season last Friday. Tam won the meet, and with it the varsity and Class B championships. Honey, who was clocked at 9.9, and Jackson, 10 flat, will be among the stars in the Marin Athletic League trials Thursday and Friday at Drake High School. Heavy favorite in the 100 will be Dean Lazzarini who placed fifth in the state meet last year and already has a 9.6 to his credit this year. (Independent-Journal photo)

An Explosive Situation

Juan Marichal will confront John Roseboro and the Dodgers in Candlestick Park tonight for the first time since last Aug. 22 when he bopped Roseboro on the head with a bat.

It will be a tense confrontation and potentially explosive. Every face-to-face encounter between Marichal and Roseboro will be that way from now on until their feud is ended, if ever. Neither displayed any willingness to shake hands this spring when the Giants and Dodgers met in an exhibition game April 3 at Phoenix.

"I'D HAVE to think about that," said Marichal when asked if he would shake hands with Roseboro who refused to make any comment whatsoever, referring all questions about the Aug. 22 incident to a Dodger front office spokesman, Red Patterson, the club's publicity chief.

Patterson declared Roseboro would not speak to Marichal unless spoken to first. Patterson also declared that the Dodgers had no intention of making any comment about the pending $110,000 suit Roseboro has on file against Marichal because it is not the policy of the Dodgers to make any remarks about court litigation in which the club is not a party.

IN THEIR April 3 encounter at Phoenix, Marichal and Roseboro spoke not a word to each other but Roseboro did hit a three-run homer off Juan. It should have been a routine second inning single but Jay Alou played it into an inside-the-park homer, first charging the ball, then pulling up short as it took a high hop over his head and rolled to the right field fence.

Before finishing his five-inning mound stint, Marichal went to bat twice. Neither time did he turn his head to look at the Dodger catcher.

MARICHAL DID turn and speak to Roseboro on Aug. 12 a moment before the fight started. Marichal protested a return throw by the Dodger catcher to Sandy Koufax. "It nicked my ear," said Marichal.

In the next instant Roseboro was charging Marichal and a few seconds later Marichal was swinging his bat. Once the bat came into play, the picture of the fight changed. So did the burden of responsibilty even though Marichal thought Roseboro was coming at him with his catcher's mask.

However, when the president of the National League later declared in an eight-day suspension and $1,750 fine of Marichal that Marichal was guilty of an "unprovoked" attack he was misinformed. Marichal was definitely provoked into the fight. But he made the mistake of resisting with too much force.

DODGERS INVADE

Juan-Don Battle In S.F. Tonight

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays continues his quest for the elusive National League home run record tonight facing Los Angeles' Don Drysdale who's been tough for the San Francisco Giants' slugger.

In 10 years, Willie has hit just 12 homers off the Big Dodger right-hander and only one each year the past five seasons. Mays had none at all in 1960.

Mays aims for a "lucky 13th" tonight and 512 career total.

Going into this opener of a three-game series at Candlestick Park Drysdale would seem to have a psychological factor in his advantage since the pressure has been on Willie ever since he equalled Mel Ott's career record of 511 homers. Mays belted the equalizer in Houston April 24.

Since then, Mays has only two hits in 18 times at bat, suffered an attack of the flu, a bruised hand and a bruised knee. Willie hurt his left knee Sunday and had to leave the St. Louis game in the fourth inning, but has told Manager Herman Franks he can play tonight.

Mays' assault on the record takes some of the drama out of the first National League game meeting between Giants pitcher Juan Marichal and Dodger catcher John Roseboro since their fight at Candlestick last Aug. 22 when Juan hit John with a bat.

They did face each other last April 3 in an exhibition game at Phoenix, Ariz. Roseboro hit an inside-the-park homer in his first time at bat.

Off the playing field there remained an aloofness as neither wanted to speak to the other. Roseboro has a $110,000 damage suit pending against Marichal and the Giants based on the bat incident, but the Dodgers have no part in the legal proceedings.

Los Angeles captured the 1965 World Series after beating out the Giants by two games for the National League pennant and their first meeting this year finds the two California clubs deadlocked for second place just one-half game off the Pittsburgh pace.

Marichal, who staged a 26-day holdout in a salary dispute, has started fast with four complete-game victories in as many starts. He signed for a reported $72,000.

Drysdale, who received an estimated $105,000 after a 32-day siege, is only 1-2 so far.

While Mays was collecting his dozen homers off him, the right-hander was compiling a 29-20 record against the Giants. A year ago, he was 2-2 while Marichal posted a 3-1 mark against the Dodgers.

Over all, the Dodgers won 10 and lost 8 to the Giants last year — the exact two-game margin of their pennant victory.

Giants Nip Santa Clara In 10th, 7-6

SANTA CLARA (AP) — Collegian Ray Henningsen of Santa Clara homered in the ninth and forced the National League Giants to 10 innings yesterday in San Francisco's 7-6 baseball victory over the Broncos.

All of the Giants' players except Juan Marichal and Willie Mays made the trip. Henningsen's solo homer came off Bob Priddy who eventually was the winning pitcher.

Rookie catcher Bob Barton with three hits was the Giants' batting star. He hit a double and drove in two runs in the Giants' four-run sixth inning.

CHANGES IN MARIN'S COACHING STAFFS

John Panagakis, head basketball coach and assistant football mentor at Novato High School is moving up to the junior college level next semester when he joins the College of Marin coaching staff.

Panagakis will be assistant basketball coach under Cal Riemcke at Marin, and will be head coach for the track and field team. He coached track at Novato before taking over the basketball team for the Hornets.

Novato Principal Robert Wesgerhof said yesterday a replacement for Panagakis has not been found.

In other prep coaching changes, Terra Linda assistant grid coach Don Boucher is moving to Petaluma High, and Marin Catholic head football coach Chuck Vaughan is dropping down a few notches to take over the freshman coaching job.

Boucher is assistant under Brad Squires at Terra Linda High, but will move up to head coach at Petaluma, replacing Don Read, brother of College of Marin football coach Dick Read. Don Read, who coached his Petaluma teams to three championships in three years, is moving up to Humboldt State where he'll be a backfield coach under Bud Van Deren.

Vaughan, whose football teams failed to win a league game in his two years at the helm (although the Wildcats have won only once since joining the MCAL), will be trying to build M.C. teams of the future when he takes on the frosh grid pob.

Moving up to take on the rugged varsity at Marin Catholic will be Joel Kiff, now the junior varsity grid coach. Mike Burke, being graduated at San Francisco State, will join the Marin Catholic staff as assistant varsity football coach.

Terra Linda Players Top Marin Stats

Fred Daniele, hard-hitting Terra Linda High School shortstop, is packing a .500 batting average after the first half of Marin Athletic League Play.

Daniele, who hit two homers in a recent game, has 10 hits in 20 trips to the plate. He's also the runs batted in leader with 11, five more than his nearest rival.

Terra Linda hurler Ed Beckley is leading the pitchers with a 3-0 mark.

MARIN MASTERS TOURNAMENT

Teener Wins Keg Title

Nineteen-year-old Steve Hargrove has been crowned the Masters bowling champ of Marin County.

Hargrove won the title last weekend in the Marin County Bowling Assn.'s fifth annual Masters, this time held at Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

The tournament went right down to the wire with Hargrove battling Mike Weddell, Masters champ in 1961 and '64, in the final six games. To get Marin's highest bowling honor, young Hargrove rolled a total of 27 games, hitting over the 200 mark 10 times.

His top games were 258, 247, 241, 216 and 214. His top series scores were 815 (four-game qualifying round), 624, 621 and 616.

Weddell had the high series of the tournament, 638, on games of 204, 210 and 224. High game honors went to Bob Morrison, 259.

Some 95 of the county's top bowlers entered the tournament, a record for most participation. The number was pared down to 16 after qualifying rounds April 23-24. Then in the championship action held last weekend, bowlers went at it, head-to-head, with two losses eliminating them.

Other top game and series scores bowled in the finals were:

Grid Dodgers Hire Jackie To Lead Fight For Survival In New League

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP) — The fledging Brooklyn Dodgers of the Continental Football League are looking for a fight — so they found a fighter to boss them.

They are tackling in metropolitan New York the entrenched Giants of the National Football League and the exciting Jets of the American Football League, but they have as their general manager Jackie Robinson, an outspoken Negro leader in civil rights and famed for never giving an inch during his brilliant baseball career with the old Brooklyn Dodgers.

"We are not kidding ourselves as to our problems," Jackie told a press conference yesterday when his appointment was announced.

This is a massive understatement.

The Dodgers will be competing for the entertainment dollar against the Giants, assured of a sellout in 67,000-capacity Yankee Stadium, and the Jets, who expect to go into their opener in Shea Stadium with an advance sale of 50,000 tickets against a capacity of 60,000.

And the Dodgers have yet to find a coach or a stadium or recruit a team. In fact, they received their franchise only last Saturday.

The Jets have exclusive football rights to Shea Stadium unless t hey waive them. The Dodgers hope they can be so persuaded, but this seems doubtful. Failing that, the new pro football team in the league considered tops in the minors will probably wind up in Randall's Island, a 20,000-capacity stadium in the East River not noted for its accessibility.

Robinson, who expects to go on with his civil rights work with New York Gov. Rockefeller as well as retain his banking and other business interests, promised that the coach when found will be the best available.

Although best known as a baseball player, and a member already of the exclusive Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., Robinson was one of the greatest all-around athletes of 25 years ago, and at UCLA was more famous as a football and basketball star than in baseball. He was also national champion in the broad jump and a first rate tennis player.

Robinson is the first Negro to become general manager of a top flight integrated professional team. His appointment comes a week after Bill Russell, also a Negro, was named as coach of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

The new Dodgers have solid financial backing. Jerry Jacobs, president of the club and also president of the Boston Tea Co., said Robinson was chosen because he was "a key executive, represented the Brooklyn Dodger image, and was a fighter."

The Dodgers will play in the Eastern Division of the league along with Philadelphia, Hartford, Norfolk and Toronto. In the Western Division are Montreal, Richmond, Wheeling, Orlando and Charleston. The league starts its second year in August.

Robinson has dreams for the future.

"We want to build a stadium in Brooklyn for both football and baseball, and we want to bring back major league baseball in future expansion plans," said Robinson. "We hope we can build this with 30,000 capacity in 1967 and make it 55,000 if convicted to baseball."

MATTER OF TYPES

76ers Tell Why Schays Ousted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "It was a question of types."

This was one explanation Irv Kosloff, owner of the Philadelphia 76ers, gave in announcing he had replaced Coach Dolph Schayes with Alex Hannum.

Schayes' ouster, after three years as coach of the National Basketball Assn. team, was announced yesterday.

Schayes said he was "disappointed" by Kosloff's decision.

"We did pretty well at Philly," said Schayes, the NBA Coach of the Year, from his home in Syracuse, N.Y. "I feel I didn't let anyone down."

Kosloff insisted that there is nothing he wants more than to have the 76ers win the NBA crown. He feels Hannum "is the type this team needs." Hannum was recently fired as coach of the San Francisco Warriors.

Kosloff replaced Schayes, who is quiet and soft-spoken with what he described as a "Dynamic, strong, take-charge type of coach."

"We had a good season, but it should have been better," Kosloff said in firing Schayes. "We should have won more than 55 games in the regular season and we never should have lost to the Celtics in the playoffs."

Schayes coached the 76ers to the NBA's Eastern Division championship this past season.

Schayes has been criticized for his purported difficulty in handling Wilt Chamberlain, his $100,000-a-year 7-foot-1 star.

Hannum, 43, is the only coach around who has been able to break the hold of the Boston Celtics on the NBA. In the 1957-58 season he piloted St. Louis to the NBA title, the only time any team has come out on top of the Celtics in the last 10 years.

Hannum also is credited with turning Chamberlain from an outstanding scorer, to a more all-round player.

While Chamberlain was with the Warriors, Hannum made him start passing and dribbling and playing more defense.

Welters To Sub In S.F. Boxing Card

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Postponement of a bantamweight boxing match between Jose Medel of Mexico and Rudy Corona of Los Angeles was announced yesterday by matchmaker Bennie Ford who has substituted a welterweight bout for the May 13 date.

Charley Shipes of Oakland, the California 147-pound champion, will battle Mauro Galvan, undefeated Mexico City boxer, in the feature which will reopen San Francisco's Winterland Arena to boxing.

Ford said Medel suffered back injuries while training in Mexico City so his fight with Corona, which was to have been the opening main event at Winterland, has been postponed until June 3.

Shipes posted a 26-1 record, suffering his only loss three years ago. Galvan, the top-ranked Mexican welterweight, boats a 30-0 record including 16 knockouts. They'll meet over 10 rounds with Shipes' title not at stake.

The Winterland Arena, once a popular auditorium for boxing, hasn't been used by the sport in 10 years.

Portland Evens Hockey Series

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) —The Victoria Maple Leaf defense, geared to stop Portland's high-scoring Cliff Schmautz, will have to watch three "newcomers" to the scoring parade tonight in the third game of the playoff for the Lester Patrick Cup.

A new Portland front line, comprised by Len Ronson, Bill Saunders and Tommy McVie, contributed four goals and seven assists last night as Portland won 6-2 to even the best-of-seven series at one game apiece.

Ross Valley, Woodacre, Stinson Reappraisals Bringing Protests

Reappraisal of 18,000 parcels of property, mostly in the Ross Valley, has already started to bring protests to the board of supervisors, but County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel doubts the objective will be as numerous or as loud as were heard last year over reappraisal of Tiburon Peninsula property.

Broemmel would not give any general indication on the range of increases, but said most of the area involved has not been reviewed for six years.

His office has also established new values for property at Stinson Beach and Woodacre. The greatest increases in the reappraisal this year are in the sandspit residential area of Stinson Beach, he said.

Mrs. Marie A. Christern of 10 Stetson Road, Kentfield, complained in a letter to Broemmel that the value of her property went up 28 per cent and the increase will cause a hardship in trying to pay taxes.

Broemmel said this complaint is typical of owners on fixed incomes. He said he deeply concerned in getting property tax relief for such owners.

"But, until the state law is changed, my hands are tied," he said. The law requires that he assess property at fair market value regardless of financial circumstance of the owners.

All property owners affected by the reappraisal have been notified, Broemmel said.

Information centers where owners can meet appraisers and ask questions on how the new values were derived have already been held in Stinson Beach, Woodacre and San Anselmo.

A center for Kentfield, Kent Woodlands, Ross and Greenbrae property owners will be held today and tomorrow at the Marin Art and Garden Center. Hours are from 1 to 9 p.m.

May 11-13, an information center for property owners in Fairfax and Sleepy Hollow will be held at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Guilty Plea In Furlough Case

Harold Bradley Sheffield, 20, of Petaluma, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to failure to return to county jail on Feb. 23 from work furlough.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled sentencing May 23.

Sheffield, originally to have faced trial today on the charge, was arrested in Novato. He had been serving 30 days in jail for being an accessory in the Aug. 4 burglary of Joe's Market in Point Reyes Station.

Planners Postpone Rezoning Of 10 Lots

The Marin County Planning Commission will take up a request for a zone change for 10 lots on Merrydale Road again on June 6, after the planning staff meets with the property owners making the request.

The planners postponed the item yesterday, and asked the staff to write to each of the property owners, setting up a special meeting to learn whether the applicants would consider planned residential zoning, with a 10-foot dedication, instead of the apartment zoning the applicants have requested.

The present zoning is residential-agricultural.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors sent the request back to the planners, asking that the planners consider whether a motel would be more appropriate than apartments at that location. But the planners indicated the problem is the same whether the use is a motel or apartments.

The main problem, the planners indicated, is the multiple ownership of the property. The planning staff is concerned lest each of the 10 lots have its own entrance and exit driveways, and that the design of the developments on the different lots would not be co-ordinated.

GRASSHOPPER PIE

LAMB CHOPS DIABLE
3 tbs. soy sauce
3 tbs. salad oil
2 tbs. chili sauce
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. garlic salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
In shallow baking dish, combine soy sauce with remaining ingredients. Place chops in mixture, turning to coat well. Refrigerate, covered, at least 2 hours; turn several times. Lift out chops, and arrange on broiler rack. Broil, 4 inches from heat about 8 minutes. Turn; broil until desired doneness. Garnish with chopped parsley.

GRASSHOPPER PIE
Melt 2 tbsp. butter and stir into 14 crushed Hydrox chocolate sandwich cookies. Press into an 8-inch pie tin reserving a tablespoon or two. Melt 24 marshmallows in ½ cup milk, stirring with wooden spoon to avoid scorching. Remove from heat. Stir in 4 tbsp. green creme de menthe and 2 tbsp. white creme de cacao. Allow to cool. Fold in 1 cup whipped cream and pour into pie shell. Decorate rim of pie with reserved cookie crumbs. Place a maraschino cherry in center. Cover pie with foil and freeze. HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Opponent May Chuckle, But That Never Means He's Santa Claus

You may be sure that your opponents don't wear long white whiskers or red suits.

An opponent who roars "Ho, ho, ho" is not full of innocent merricent.

He is just crowing over his success.

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts and shifted to the king of diamonds.

LAST LAUGHS

East took the ace of trumps and led his other diamond to the queen.

Back came a diamond, and East's ruff defeated the contract.

East laughed very pleasantly, but neither North nor South was amused.

Declarer would knock out the ace of trumps, and East would be unable to get the diamond ruff for lack of an entry to the West hand.

HOW TO TELL

The question is how South could tell what was going on.

If East had led from K-Q-x of diamonds at the second trick, it would be correct to take the trick with dummy's ace.

You can find the answer to this question by putting yourself in East's place.

How would you defend if you had the ace of spades, the ace of hearts, and two probable diamond tricks?

Would you lead the king of diamonds and thus risk losing one of your precious tricks?

It's very clear that East would sit tight and do nothing to rock the boat if he had the setting trick in his own hand.

The fact that East got very active at the second trick proved that he did not have all of the missing high cards.

This should have warned South to play the diamonds correctly.

DAILY QUESTION

's dealer, you hold:

♠ K Q J 6 2
♥ K 9
♦ J 10 6
♣ Q J 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. This is a borderline opening bid even though you have 13 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton.

An aceless hand is worth about 1 point less than its apparent value. Moreover, your holding in diamonds is nothing to rave about.

Still, the strong spade suit is the decisive factor.

Most experts would bid this hand but would pass if the clubs and spades were exchanged.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, May 3, the 123rd day of 1966 with 242 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase; the morning stars are Venus and Saturn; the evening star is Jupiter.

Florentine statesman and historian, Niccolo Machiavelli, was born on this day in 1469.

On this day in history:

In 1948, the U.S. Supreme Court forbade the states to enforce agreements that bind owners not to sell property to racial and religious minorities.

A thought for the day—French satirist Rabelais:

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

NEW WAY TO CUT A RIBBON

The prow of this Cadillac convertible slices through a ribbon stretched across the drive-through teller's entrance at new Bank of Marin offices in Novato Saturday — instead of the traditional scissors. Driver of the car is Eugene McGillicuddy, owner and builder of the building. Riding with him were Richard Nave, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce; Marin County Supervisor William Gnoss; Mayor Wayne Womack of Novato, and bank manager Glen E. Tovani. Drive-in customers enter from the parking lot at the rear, stop at the teller's window and make their exit on Grant Avenue.

Big Loss By Stocks Reported

NEW YORK (AP)--The stock market closed with a substantial loss today. Trading was active. Stocks retreated on a broad front.

A major factor in the market decline, brokers said, was the statement by Gardner Ackley, chief economic adviser to the President, questioning whether corporate profits were too high.

Here was the picture near the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.6 million shares compared with 7.07 million Monday.

Disappointment over General Motors' dividend action and wide publicity about its current problems helped drag GM common down to a loss of about 1½.

Recent wide gainers among airlines, aerospace issues and other glamor stocks took steep losses as investors reaped long-term profits.

Xerox lost 6, Eastern Air Lines, Braniff Airlines, Northwest Airlines and Admiral about 3 each, National Airlines and Zenith about 4, Boeing, General Dynamics, Motorola, Texas Instruments, Magma Copper, Delta Airlines, Pan American and United Air Lines about 2 each.

One bright spot was Hess Oil, advancing nearly 4 points as most active stock in response to British government approval of its purchase of a big holding Amerada, which rose more than 3.

Despite some brilliant earnings reports, the price trend was lower for electronics, including Radio Corp. which fell more than a point.

Corporate bonds were narrowly mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

STUDENT CENTER—What is now the covered eating area at Redwood High School, wind-swept, dusty and sometimes rain-swept, will become a combination student lunch and study room and student activity center, looking something like this sketch by architects Gromme and Priestley, on completion of remodeling which is to start immediately after school closes for the summer.

Redwood High Eating Area To Be Rebuilt Next Month

Redwood High School is scheduled to begin reconstruction of its covered eating area June 20 in an attempt to remedy unsatisfactory conditions which have made the structure the object of many complaints.

The area, presently open to wind, rain and cold, will be remodeled into an enclosed "student union."

Seventy per cent of the new building will consist of a heated, re-floored room with tables for eating, eight new canteen windows and a portable stage. There will also be a separate faculty dining area with two canteen windows. The remainder of the area will be an open-air section containing more tables.

The entire building will have new floors of linoleum or cork tile and new ceilings. The inside walls will be lined with bulletin boards.

Principal Donald Kreps said the building is to be "comparable to a college student union.

It will bring the students together and closer to the faculty and will be the center of student activities." It will also be used for student dances, inside and out, with its portable stage and electric outlets for use by bands.

Further, the area will be used for study hall classes, giving the main building two more classrooms, The faculty lounge will also add more classrooms to the school, thus solving the problem of "traveling teachers" who have to share rooms with others.

Did You Know?

Wards LeGant® watch movements are frozen. Why? Because the skillful Swiss who make LeGant® watches lubricate them with super-refined oil costing $56,000 a barrel. To protect that oil Wards flies the movements here and then freezes them. When you buy a LeGant® watch it is really "fresh" from Switzerland! This is typical of the way Wards world-wide buying network seeks out the very finest . . . then brings it to you in its original state of excellence!
